However advisable it may appear to the bureaucrats who make up these departmental estimates to enlarge the governmental operations, the taxpayer who is required to give up from 20 to 40 per cent of the rental income from his property in taxes will not be able to agree with them. The assessors have been scouring the city in an effort to equalize the former wretched assessment lists, and in an excess of zeal in some localities have exorbitantly increased the assessments of property that was already rated sufficiently high. Their returns will not be ready for public review and correction until next month; then there will be trouble. By increasing the valuations it would doubtless be possible to maintain the present exorbitant cost of the city government, and at the same time reduce the rate of taxation. But the taxpayer is not to be placated or deceived by such methods. They may serve the purposes of a Tammany administration, but they will not help Mr. Schieren into the Governor's chair.

THICKNESS OF WALLS UNDER THE NEW BUILDING LAW.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you kindly let me know if there is a law in Brooklyn requiring a house over 35 feet in height to have a 16-inch wall.

Brooklyn, May 15, 1894. C. F. K.

Answer.—Under the new building law for Brooklyn, which goes into effect to-morrow (Sunday) the thickness for a brick wall is proportioned to its height. For dwelling houses over 35 feet in height and not over 50 feet in height, the walls must not be less than 12 inches thick above the foundation walls. If over 50 feet and not over 60 feet in height the walls must not be less than 12 inches thick above the basement, if a high stoop house, and not less than 16 inches thick in the first story, if not a high stoop house, say in case the first story is a store. As the requirements for thickness of walls are substantially alike in the New York and Brooklyn building laws, a reference to the colored sections of walls in THE RECORD AND GUIDE publication of the New York law will show what is required in the way of thickness for walls of various heights under the new law for Brooklyn.—LAW EDITOR.

S. S. Butler, the builder, who has the contract for the construction of the new Town Hall at Gravesend, now the 31st Ward, has, through his attorney, been trying ever since the annexation of the town, to obtain from the Mayor some expression as to his will in regard to the building. Further than the statement that the city does not use the building at all, he has not been able to get any satisfaction. His attorney notified the Mayor that unless he receives some satisfactory expression of the Mayor's intention he will begin work on Monday. Mr. Butler received the contract from the town in the regular way and has the cellar walls completed. He has made numerous contracts for material and men and is being pushed for the fulfillment of them.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—As yet the general market undergoes no change of pronounced character. During the greater portion of the week trade has suffered again through the influence of unpropitious weather, and there is a story on 'Change that buyers ready to invest had to quietly whisper their wants to save themselves from an onslaught of ravenous salesmen. The pressure to realize, however, was principally with ordinary or mixed cargoes, as the general supply was not really very abundant and the proportion of loads showing straight, good quality so small they readily brought full rates; indeed, some special favorites are understood to have exceeded $5, although that figure still seems to be about as high as can consistently be quoted. The same unpropitious weather that has prevented free out-door work, and in consequence cut down the consumption of brick, was quite as potent a factor in reducing the production, and very little addition to supplies took place during the week, certainly none of attractive quality. Should any important addition to demand take place during the summer or fall, it may make present line of values look remarkably low, especially for first-class stock. Pales rule about steady in tone, and are selling to about extent of present offering.

LATH.—It has been a somewhat slack week, and sellers were compelled to surrender a little advantage in order to secure custom. Arrivals ran up comparatively full just after dealers in general had been buying with some freedom, and custom in consequence had to be hunted up, sometimes a little hurriedly if captains commenced to talk about demurrage. The result was the tender of something on the cost line as an attraction, and business took place as low as $1 90 in some cases. The latest we learn of, however, was at $2, and there seems to be a measure of steadiness at that, dependent upon supplies and the manner of their offering.

LIME.—All general conditions on this market remain much the same as for some time past. The class of work upon which progress is now making is not o a character calculated to consume any great amount of lime, and the consequent slow distribution of stock induces dealers to carry only a small accumulation and indulge in new purchases to merely the extent of immediate requirements. Against the current call the supply in first hands has been holding out very well, although working down gradually in view of the small fresh arrivals which reflected the curtailed shipments resolved upon by Eastern manufacturers, and at the close the feeling is better. The offering is growing smaller and demand better with prospect of still further gain if weather continues good, and although as yet unchanged, prices now rule quite firm for attractive stock.

LUMBER.—Although now and then there is report of some very fair deals accomplished, nothing in the way of animated or forcible demand comes into notice and buyers evidently still lack an incentive to induce them to negotiate with freedom in the handling of bulk lots or stuff. The consumption of lumber in this district is increasing somewhat, more especially on the suburban borders, and there has also been an addition to the call from a few manufacturing establishments, but so far most of the custom dealers seem to have a supply and do not as yet accept the necessity for making investments against the quantity they distribute. Dealers are in some cases entertaining a hope of free lumber as a factor calculated to give them better terms when purchases for stocking up are finally decided upon, but the chances are that removal of duty has already been pretty well discounted in current valuations and previous experience in tariff revision induces the belief that "benefits" will be carefully taken care of long before supplies reach the hands of retailers and consumers.

White Pine does not secure much direct demand, but alert agents are now and then placing a little stock, that serves to keep business moving fairly, and create a hopeful feeling of more to come. Box makers having all the season bought on the hand to mouth basis are frequent customers for small invoices that in the aggregate make a total of trade of respectable proportions when general ruling conditions are considered. There is also more or less doing in shippers from time to time, but principally West India selections, the outlet for other qualities keeping narrow, and a great deal of stock remaining on hand unsold and without present custom, even though holders have about made up their minds that if they get rid of it at cost it will be doing very well. The tenders from primal markets are openly moderate, but regular and casual agents have left word where they can be found with larger quantities to offer whenever buyers are ready to negotiate.

Yellow Pine is coming along in moderate quantity now and then, mostly for purpose of delivery on contract, and a few houses are fairly successful in booking additional engagements for special cuts, but in general the open demand proves moderate, and buyers assume an indifferent sort of position. So far as present calls from customers upon local stocks are concerned the supply available is said to do very well. Yet, in common with all other grades of lumber, the yard accumulation is much below an average, and the time will come when dealers must show a great deal more hurry to obtain goods for replenishing.

Carolina Pine remains about steady, with little change noticeable in the character or volume of business. The mills want a cargo now and then and dealers, box makers, etc., also afford an opportunity for placing moderate quantities, but a hanging back policy is pursued by nearly all classes of buyers and the evident policy is make investments as small as possible. There is no complaint over cost, but simply an adherence to cautious methods.

Hemlock does not appear to attract the attention of local custom to any noteworthy extent. Many dealers frankly admit that the recent loss of logs and manufactured stuff, as well as injury to the mills, would, under normal conditions of consumption, be a very strengthening factor, but having only a moderate distributive business at the moment, and feeling entirely free from speculative inclination they prefer to await the spur of actually increasing wants before commencing to place new orders. Offerings continue fair and in most cases at about former rates.

Spruce remains in a position where a very little additional force of demand would change the entire character of the market. Just now buyers of Eastern cut are few and far between and receivers feel satisfied that moderate arrivals are really the best thing for the market, yet, with generally small accumulations in yard, the cut of the mills limited and many manufacturers practically without logs, a very little expansion of immediate consuming wants would surely act as a great stimulus and infuse strength and buoyancy into the entire line of values. Cargo values remain somewhat uncertain and the same may be said of yard rates. The latter are "quoted" uniformly enough and it would probably be difficult to convict any dealer of having cut the list figures in making charges, but there are more ways of giving buyers an advantage than by openly naming a reduced selling rate, and the feeling seems to be that they are put into use quite extensively.

Hardwoods are without new features. There is some little demand for staple grades, with some fair sales of poplar reported to dealers who furnish carpenters with supplies, but nothing out of the ordinary run, and offerings have been ample for all wants. Prices, too, remain about steady, but on more extensive deals buyers could obtain some special allowances.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

In Saginaw Valley a peculiar state of affairs prevails. Though the mills were started late, and have been run moderately, piling room has been filled, and it is now a question as to whether some of the mills can be much longer operated should there not be a larger outlet for stock. The market has failed to absorb lumber in sufficient volume to prevent over-accumulation, and the result is that, probably for the first time in the history of the Saginaw lumber business, piling room has been exhausted, while yet the spring months were not past. It is probable that the situation in Saginaw Valley is a little more strained than in districts further West, because mill operators have set a minimum price on their lumber, and refuse to sell below it. But a somewhat similar condition prevails at mill points elsewhere. Values have been lowered to what the manufacturers consider bedrock, and they will hold them there for several weeks before they will sell for any lower prices.

In the present state of demand it is doubtful if a further cut in prices would stimulate demand. The wholesale and retail dealers and consumers are not buying freely because they see no justification for it. A mere further cutting of prices would not induce them to stock up in advance of nearby requirements until a pronounced change in the outlook should have occurred. Indeed we can safely assume that another drop in values would cause buyers to further hesitate. The only influence that can induce dealers to begin buying freely is a more active demand and a manifest tendency toward an advance in prices. The manufacturers will have to possess their souls in patience until this desired change comes.

In spite of recent heavy rains in some portions of the Southeast, a scarcity of poplar logs is still reported at the mills, many of which are still idle. Inquiries for lumber are slowly increasing and there is a slightly firmer tendency to prices, especially for the better grades. Firsts and seconds are in demand at New York and other Eastern markets, at better prices than prevailed thirty days ago, and a better feeling is reported at St. Louis on these grades. Coarse lumber is still druggy.

The commission dealers report an improved tone in the market. There is increased inquiry and more willingness on the part of the yard men to pay going prices.

Receipts are mostly confined to piece stuff, shingles and lath. Little inch stock is arriving. The commission men say that eastern buyers are offering more for inch lumber than dealers here are willing to pay. It is probable that the yard men are looking around among the mills for boards and strips. Just at present they are not wanting much inch lumber, but are after piece stuff if they can buy it right.

Short green piece stuff is still selling on a basis of $9. A percentage of 30 per cent, more or less, of long stuff raises the bid from 25 to 50 cents. If the percentage of wide joists is considerable the cargo is still more favorably considered. Lots of long joists, sold as a separate quantity, go from $10.50 to $11.50, according to the percentage of very long and wide in the lot. As a rule, the buyer is getting some advantage on long lumber and the manufacturer is correspondingly losing it. It is thought by some that prices of piece stuff will stiffen a little as soon as the demand shall become a little more urgent. Others do not look so far ahead as that and would be satisfied with an active market and steady sales at present prices. Hemlock piece stuff is held at $7.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

There seems to have been no backward movement in lumber trade circles the past week, although the general improvement is not worthy of notice. In fact, trade appears to be just about holding its own, which is doing a good deal when the condition of the business and industrial world is taken into consideration.

There have been many discouragements and hindrances to the development of trade, the chief of which is the labor troubles in various parts of the country, from the coal mining districts of Illinois to the lead mines of Colorado and the coal fields of Pennsylvania. There is prospect of settlement of these troubles by arbitration and this gives a ray of hope to the otherwise rather gloomy outlook as far as they are concerned. The strikers in Illinois have delayed traffic to a great extent and lumber shipments to the affected region have been cut off. Traveling men also report that they are not able to make their regular trips owing to the discontinuance of train service on some branch lines.

On the whole the white pine trade is doing fairly well, it having received an impetus from the reduced freight rates that have been in effect for a couple of weeks past, but which were restored to the old notch the first of this week.

In the northwest, the floods and high water have delayed the operation of mills in nearly every locality and considerable time has been lost. In fact the early start of the mills has been more than made up for by delays. This means that the season's cut is not to be excessive, for the log crop was curtailed on every stream, and but few mills that last year ran night and day are this year being run nights. All of these circumstances tend to strengthen the feeling in the trade that better times are not far away and manufacturers and dealers are now patiently biding their time until a more marked improvement appears.

METALS.—COPPER—Ingot has found a doubtful demand during greater portion of the period under review, with a weak tone ruling on values. The latter was traceable to less promising accounts from abroad, and at times to some quiet pressure of supplies, including occasional parcels from second hands. On the average range of valuation we quote at 9 1/8@9 1/4c. for Lake and 8 3/4@9c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper has not been unusually active, yet at times some very fair dealings took place with regular lines of custom. Supplies were ample for all calls made, and although the regular list rates are generally named it is surmised that buyers who know how to work it can secure special favors. We quote as follows: Sheet, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 14c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 15c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 16c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 17c.; do, 8 to 10 oz., 20c.; do. under 8 oz., 22c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@16 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz., and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over, 14c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 16c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 18c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 22c.; do. 8 to 10 oz., 25c. Sheets longer than 96 inches 14c. for over 32 oz. and add 1c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 1c. 14 to 16 oz.; 1c. 12 to 14 oz.; 1c. for 10 to 12 oz., and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz., 14c.; do, 16 to 32 oz., 16c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 18c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 20c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 24c. Sheets wider than 48x96 and longer, 14@17c. for 32 to 64 oz.; 19@22c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 21@27c. for 14 to 16 oz. and —@—c. for 12 to 14 oz. Bolt copper, 3/8 inch diameter and over, 14c. Circles, segments and pattern sheets, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 4c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 5c. do. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottoms, 18@24c. per lb. IRON—American Pig has steadied up in tone sufficient to make it extremely difficult to find very low priced bargains not uncommon during the early spring, but there is no positive infusion of strength into the market. The principal difficulty thus far experienced from the fuel famine is delay in delivery of parcels of iron due on contract, and from that the market has not really suffered, while for the moderate new inquiry there has been enough stock to go around. We quote at $12.00@13.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $11.00@12.00 for No. 2 X do., and $10.00@11.00 for Gray Forge; Scotch pig iron, $19.50@22. Old material has been moving out at rather slow rate and mostly against the immediate necessity of buyers in attendance. Yet there does not appear to have been any selling pressure, and supplies were held quite steadily. We quote at $10.00@11.00 for old iron rails; $10.00@10.75 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $9.50@10.50 for cast scrap; $10.00@11.00 for old car wheels, and $6.50@9.00 for borings, stove plate, etc. Manufactured iron is getting some attention for structural assortments on contract, but the business lacks liberal form, and all calls are readily met, with the selling side of the market anxious for more business. We quote Beams up to 15-inch, 1.75@2c.; 20-inch, 2.10@2.25c. for round lots; Angles, 1.75@1.90c.; Tees, 2@2.15c.; Channels, 1.80@2c. on dock. Steel plates are 1.65@1.90c. for Tank; 1.90@2.10c. for Shell; 2@2.15c. for Flange, and 2.50@2.80c. for Fire Box on dock; Refined Bars are 1.60@1.90c. on dock, and Common, 1.45@1.60c. Steel rails do not change in any important particulars. There is now and then a crop of rumors in regard to increased demand, but they do not bear fruit and the railway companies still appear satisfied with placing small orders for ordinary repairs. Prices have undergone no change of a quotable character. We quote standard sections $24@25 per ton at mill, with usual advances for delivery at tide water. Pig lead has not been offered with much general freedom, and manufacturers appear indisposed to place themselves in an attitude of seeking trade. Demand, however, was moderate and mainly of jobbing character, and buyers afforded no opportunity for the stiffening of rates. We quote at 3 1/4@3.30c. per lb. The manufactures of lead are quoted at 5 3/4c. for Pipe, 6 1/2c. for Sheet, 15c. for Tin-lined Pipe, and 37 1/2c. for Block Tin Pipe. Pig Tin has shown merit in the matter of statistics that would ordinarily be considered strengthening and favorable accounts come from abroad, but speculative feeling appeared quite indifferent and home consumption was of limited proportions. Prices are irregular and a trifle nominal at the close. We quote at about 19.80@19 7/8c. for round lots, and 20 1/8@20 1/8c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate has occasionally found very good trade, but demand was not of a lasting character and came in such form as to indicate that buyers were only taking enough stock to satisfy immediate wants. Prices continue easy for most grades. We quote as follows: I. C. Charcoal, Melyn grade, $6.25@6.30; Charcoal, Melyn grade, crosses, $7.75; I. C. Charcoal, Allaway grade, $5.40@5.45; Allaway grade, crosses, $6.45; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.25@7.30; M. F. grade, 20x28, $14.50@14.55; Worcester, 14x20, $5.70@5.75; Worcester, 20x28, $11.00@11.10; Alyn grade, 14x20, $5.20@5.25; Alyn grade, 20x28, $10.00@10.25; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $4.90@5.00; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $9.70@9.75; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $5.00@5.05; J. B. grade, 14x20, $5.15@5.20; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.35@—— basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $5.45@—— basis. Spelter meets with moderate uncertain demand from both dealers and consumers, and shows no great strength on values, although liberal shadings cannot be obtained. We quote 3.40@3 1/2c. for Common Western, according to brand.

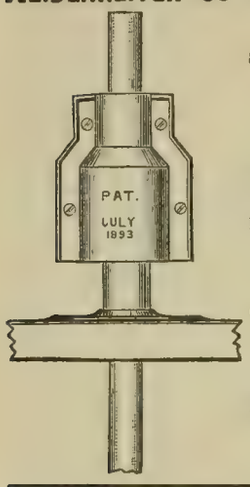
Estimates for Painting and Decorating at the lowest rates.



NAILS.—The gain in strength previously noted has been very well sustained The difficulties in way of obtaining fuel have increased, and manufacturers of nails, as well as many other staple products, find working expenses augmenting. General demand undergoes very little change, buyers refusing to anticipate the future, and taking only such stock as may be suggested by current wants as they from time to time arise. Occasionally a very good export trade is secured. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.15@1.25 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.00 @1.15 for car lots, and $1.25@1.35 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—A moderately active line of trade is about the best any article is credited with at the moment and many goods not just in season are exceedingly dull. Evidences continue plenty enough that nearly all dependent localities are moderately stocked but not until retailers and jobbers find accumulations almost exhausted can they be induced to come into the market and then they only invest in renewals sufficient to carry them over nearby wants. Sellers have been calling attention of their customers of late to freight rate war between some of the transportation lines, especially those running southward, but it does not seem to have had much influence as a stimulant, only a few extra orders coming to hand and buyers generally repudiating all desire to indulge in any movements of a speculative character. Some manufacturers refer to the scarcity and increasing cost of coal as a potent factor to influence production, but as a matter of fact there has been no noticeable scarcity in the offering at any time, and the chances are that a much larger outlet could have been satisfied without much difficulty. Prices nominally unchanged, but cutting under quoted rates is common especially on leads. Corroders' quotations stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 6½c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase, 6c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 5.94c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 5¾c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb tin pails, add ½c., and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil sells very well to the regular run of custom, but finds no unusual trade, and manufacturers appear satisfied to meet orders at about former rates on all grades. We quote at 48@50c. for Western, 52@53c. for City from domestic seed and 54@55c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine undergoes no important change in value. The market only moderately active, but small supplies here and strong advices from primal points act as sustaining factors. We quote at 30¼@ 31c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Dealings have been of an erratic character, and all reports suggest an uncertain market. Buyers are, as a rule, adhering closely to a hand-to-mouth basis, with plenty of supplies available to satisfy their wants, and as no ordinary shading on cost would change their attitude, about former figures are asked. We quote Tar at $1.75@1.80 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.25@2.30 in pork bbls., and $3.25@3.30 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

DO You Ride a Columbia Bicycle?

No possible injury can result from any reasonable amount of riding on a properly constructed bicycle. The theory that cycling was harmful has long since been exploded, and physicians everywhere recommend the wheel to-day as affording the best means of exercise for men and women.

Dr. William S. Stewart, Prof. Emeritus, Medico Chirurgical College, Philadelphia, says: "I regard the use of the bicycle as a means of physical culture superior to any other means in use at the present time. The mental exhilaration which accompanies the exercise is perhaps equivalent to one-half the benefit derived, and the two means combined should, in my opinion, bring about physical strength and vigorous mind."

THERE is no break of the stagnation in general business; there is no reason to particularize where the dullness is, because the exceptions are so few and so unimportant that they count for nothing. The break of the coal strike, which is almost assured, may do some good, but that has yet to be seen. If as considerable a break in the stream of talk at Washington could be accomplished it would be a relief to the feelings, even if it did not improve business, though that is more than probable. The stock market is made up so largely of professional trading in Sugar and Chicago Gas that it calls for little comment. The unfavorable way in which the outline plan for the reorganization of Atchison is received by the holders of the junior securities is due probably to a misconception of its proper nature and probable effects. It may also be due to a misplaced though justifiable want of faith in any statements put out by railroad managers or reorganizers, based on results in other cases. Unless the condition, financial and physical, of the Atchison system has been grossly misrepresented, and unless there is to be no improvement in the condition of business, the plan, if adopted, ought to place the Atchison securities in a much better position than they were in before, and bring about better quotations for them.

THE immense amounts of idle funds at the great European financial centres continue to keep money very cheap—it has loaned in London on call as low as one-half per cent per annum—and government and municipal issues in demand, but of signs of improvement in trade there are none. French crop reports are favorable. The sowings of both winter and spring wheat are generally smaller than last year. Among the many complaints that are heard in Germany, about the causes of dull business, those from Hamburg and Bremen, relating to the stoppage of the emigrant traffic to the United States, are particularly loud. This traffic brought a great deal of money to these towns, particularly as, it is calculated, 80 per cent was paid for from this country. Negotiations for the establishment of a German bank in Rome are reported to have been successful. The Hungarian wheat crop prospects are described as only middling. The six million sterling three per cent Indian loan was subscribed for twice over and all placed at from a fraction under par to 102. The idea that it is the duty of the government to find trading capital for the farmer is finding acceptance in Victoria, Australia, where the government is having a bill prepared for the creation of a Credit Foncier which is to lend farmers money at 5 per cent on both freehold and leasehold security, with a 50 per cent margin, the money required to be raised by the issue of bonds. This is one of the ideas that brought the Argentine Republic into bankruptcy, and its adoption in Victoria is an illustration of how object lessons in finance are disregarded for baseless theories. With such a scheme having governmental sanction it is really fortunate for the Colony that the Victorian farmer is already so much in debt that he cannot avail himself of its privileges. Australian crop prospects are good.

NOW that the North River Bridge Bill has become a law by receiving the Presidential signature, a more difficult task awaits its promoters than that of obtaining their franchise from Congress—raising the money to retain the franchise they have obtained, and later to give effect to their ugly design for the bridge itself. It hardly needs be said that the times are not propitious for securing even the comparatively small sums that it is necessary to spend each year, to preserve the charter, to say nothing of the forty millions of dollars which it is said will be the cost of building the bridge and its approaches. For this reason alone, we are justified in doubting the accuracy of the report in the daily press, made on the authority of some unnamed individuals, but airily described as promoters, that the whole work will be completed in four years. We should not have been inclined to be much more credulous if the limit of time had been doubled. Henceforth we have, however, to face the fact that a franchise which injuriously effects a considerable strip of valuable property in the city is in existence and that it is very difficult, if not impossible, to terminate such a privilege when once granted, even if its conditions are not very rigidly observed. It is only necessary to follow the probabilities through to see how this is. Bad times may be pleaded in excuse for not making the required expenditures on the work in a given time. Legal difficulties may arise to prevent its prosecution, and so on without limit. Should any considerable work be done and the undertaking come to a standstill for want of money or by reason of physical or mechanical difficulties the authorities would doubtless be indulgent, as they always are, and not improperly in such cases, and loth to exercise any powers they may have to cancel the franchise they have granted. Meantime the property along the proposed route of the bridge's approach must continue to suffer the injury the scheme casts upon it. The more the matter is considered the more it must be a source of intense satisfaction to the holders of property and residents on the West Side, above 70th street, and in fact the city at large, that the area for mischief accorded to this "enterprise" has been limited to a district where it will do least harm, and that is, unfortunately, the only satisfactory feature it has.

The Manhattan Life Building.

WE move so fast in the matter of tall buildings that the Manhattan Life is by no means the wonder, in point of mere altitude, now that it is nearing completion, that it was when it was projected. Then it was renowned in advance as "the tallest building east of Chicago." Since then its architects have been, as Shakespeare has it, "exceeded by the height of happier men," of whom one has been commissioned to erect a building twenty full stories in height Very likely when the American Surety building comes to be finished, it in turn will be overshadowed by a project still more portentous. In spite of the remonstrances of some architects who are among the chief offenders in altitudinousness, it does not seem likely that we are soon to see any legal restriction upon the height of commercial buildings. On the contrary, every new sky-scraper puts an additional pressure upon the owners of neighboring land occupied by old-fashioned buildings to go and do likewise. It is only the certainty of losing his tenants temporarily and the uncertainty of getting them back permanently that makes many an owner hesitate to supplant his five-story building with one of ten or fifteen or twenty. It is demonstrable, we think, that every inordinately high building injures the owners of neighboring property who do not choose to improve their property in the same way, though the injury does not seem tangible enough to become the occasion of a quest for legal redress. On the other hand, the high building owes much of its superior attractiveness to its isolation. If the whole commercial quarter were built up with high buildings it would be a very terrible region for all but the occupants of the topmost stories, a region of Cimmerian gloom, while it is not practicable or even conceivable that the streets shall be widened so as to bear the same relation to the sky-scraper that the present streets bear to the maximum of five or six stories with reference to which they were laid out. To understand how much the attractiveness of the high building depends upon its isolation, it is necessary only to imagine another building like the Manhattan adjoined to it on the south side, with a counterparting court of the same dimensions at the centre. The tenants who now have pure air and a wide outlook would face other tenants across a well.

Meanwhile the economical limit of high building is by no means fixed. When commercial building was an affair of masonry, the limit was fixed by the necessity of thickening the walls in proportion to their height. Now that it is an affair of a steel skeleton with a masonry filling, there is no structural limit short of the Eiffel tower. This is one and the most urgent of the many civic problems in construction that make it so desirable that we shall have an aedile, and that show individualism to such a disadvantage in the construction of cities.

But at least every new tall building offers an interesting problem in architecture, and one looks with interest to the new work in this kind of an architect of ability. The results of one's looking may not be satisfactory to the architect, and indeed the architects of sky-scrapers may regard the architectural critic in much the same light in which his opinions upon the first sky-scraper, the tower of Babel, are viewed by Mr. Rudyard Kipling:

They builded a tower to shiver the sky and wrench the stars apart,
Till the Devil grunted behind the bricks: "It's striking, but is it Art?"

Nevertheless there is some amusement and there may be some utility in asking the question. The most gratifying thing about the evolution of the tall building, from an architectural point of view, is the new approximation we have already made to the establishment of a type, which does not conceal or compromise the utilitarian purpose of the structure, and yet attempts to give organic unity and effective proportion to a parallelopiped three times as high as it is wide or deep, of the same size all the way up, and with no visible roof. This last some architects may esteem not to be an indispensable condition of their work, but nevertheless there is something to be said for the director who, when his architect exhibited to him a towering design with a steep roof, remarked, "That's all right on the Rhine, but it ain't business."

Perhaps, upon the whole, that is as good a general criticism, on the unfavorable side, as could be made upon the new building of the Manhattan Life Insurance Company, and it is an artistic criticism, too. The spectator who has become accustomed to the increasing severity of the great elevator buildings of our cities will find the Manhattan more exuberant and florid than will seem to him to befit commercial architecture, and this without reference to the artistic quality of the ornament. But perhaps the very first criticism is a strictly artistic criticism. The type that we have been establishing in many-storied architecture fulfills the first requirement that the Father of Criticism imposed upon any work of art, when he said that it had a beginning, a middle and an end. In the case of a many-storied building, this means that there must be a clear and unmistakable triple division, and that whatever subdivision may be attempted must not compromise or confuse this primary fact of the structure. Intermediate stories and connecting links there may and often must be. Indeed, a story in a very lofty building may serve the same architectural purpose as a mere string course in a building of moderate dimensions, and may not be "out of scale" in serving this purpose. But the triple division must be maintained and emphasized in proportion to the height.

The Union Trust building, just north of the Manhattan, exemplifies this principle perhaps as well as any commercial structure we have thus far produced during the elevator building, and it owes to this exemplification the very marked impression it makes of coherence and unity, which is the chief source of its effectiveness. This impression the Manhattan fails to make in anything like the same degree. The "beginning" of the Union Trust building is unmistakably the lower arcade. In the Manhattan it may be taken with almost equal plausibility for the first two stories, the first five stories, or the first seven stories. If the first two stories are taken as the base, then the base is inadequate to the superstructure. If the whole seven are assumed, the base is very unreasonably stilted. The difference in treatment perhaps denote that the first two stories are intended as the basement. But in that case we have two middles of very nearly equal magnitude and value, one of the four stories, from the third to the seventh inclusive, and one of the seven stories, from the eighth to the fourteenth inclusive. There is no doubt about the "end," the superstructure above the main cornice, nor that it is a picturesque and harmonious composition, though it is to this superstructure that the criticism of the practical director would most obviously apply.

This uncertainty about the main division of the front and the weakness the uncertainty entails, constitute the chief defects of the general dssign. There is one other general condition that the design seems to violate. As a matter of fact the wall of a modern elevator building is extraneous to the main structure, a curtain of masonry, so to speak, which depends from it and over it. But being an apparent wall of masonry, it is subject to the conditions of lithic architecture, and one of these conditions is that the terminal piers shall be as broad and as unbroken as possible, broader and less broken in proportion to their height. This condition is violated by the variation in the treatment of the flanking piers above the seventh story. Below that point, they are pierced each with one window in each story, and above with two. Any variation would diminish the force of piers as a framing of the front, while the doubling of the openings impairs it still further, and seems entirely capricious, since the practical conditions of lighting are the same above and below.

On the other hand the detail of the building is very good in scale and adjustment and in design. The ornament may indeed be criticised as excessive, considering the utilitarian purpose of the building, but scarcely on any other ground, since in itself it is rich and refined. Moreover, terra cotta (New street front) lends itself to and invites enrichment.

A particularly good point of the design is the treatment of the flanking walls. In the case of this building the southern wall is quite as important and conspicuous from any distant point of view, and almost as important from many points of view near at hand as the front on Broadway. The custom has been to ignore this fact and to omit design from the side walls leaving them mere brute masses of common brick. In this case, some of the upper lines of the front are returned along the flank, and successful pains have been taken to make the wall presentable, the light bridge and gallery over the opening being especially well designed as a crowning member of the wall for effectiveness at a distance. The color treatment of the building is simple and effective. Upon the whole, the tallest of our existing elevator buildings, while it by no means presents a complete solution of the problem it attacks, is by no means without interest and suggestiveness as a specimen of elevator architecture.

IT is currently reported that despite, or, more strictly speaking, because of the extraordinary powers conferred upon the city authorities by the so-called Elm Street bill, the long-deferred widening of the old thoroughfare has again been put off. Our readers will remember with what a flourish of trumpets it was announced that the city would push to completion this hoary project. So determined were the authorities that there should be no further delay that they demanded and obtained from the Legislature in the face of the strenuous opposition of property-owners, the extraordinary power to seize with scant formality and enter into possession of property before the owners had been in any way compensated for it or even the amount of their damages estimated. We opposed this measure at the time it was advanced. In our judgment it would create confusion and work injustice, as under its operation much of the evidence upon which awards would be based would be removed and destroyed before the determination of damages had even been commenced. In spite, however, of all opposition the bill went through, entirely because of the persuasiveness with which the city authorities urged the necessity of adopting in this particular case some less dilatory course than the old-fashioned condemnation proceedings. This persuasiveness prevailed. Even doubts about the constitutionality of the proposed new method of occupying property were brushed aside. It was asserted that in the office of the Corporation Counsel the measure had been pronounced perfectly constitutional. It is surprising, therefore, under the circumstances, to discover that the widening of Elm street is to-day as much an indefinite project as ever, and that the chief reason why nothing has been done is that the constitutionality of the measure for acquiring property is very seriously questioned by the Corporation Counsel. Our purpose in drawing attention to these facts is neither to criticise the new condemnation law nor the acts of the Corporation Counsel's office. What we wish to point out is that this juggling with real estate affects disastrously not only specific pieces of property, but indirectly all realty. The chief attraction which real estate always has had for investors lay in that element of certainty which always, in the public judgment, has inhered in the possession of land. Stocks and bonds and other forms and evidences of wealth might be purloined or destroyed, might suffer from mischance or rascality. Whatever might happen to real estate there would be, so to speak, a residuum of solid value that could not possibly be touched. Any act of legislation that impairs this certainty is regretable. The extraordinary powers which the city authorities demanded and obtained in connection with the Elm street improvement increased the element of insecurity in the holding of real estate and will be in this particular case specially unfortunate if it turns out that property-owners can be disturbed in peace of mind if not in actual possession by unconstitutional and arbitrary legislation.

THE only good thing that has been heard in connection with the Charity-labor fund voted by the Legislature of this State last winter was heard a few days ago when it was announced that its distribution would be forthwith stopped and the work begun under its powers finished by contract. Three hundred and fifty thousand of the million dollars voted have been expended. The fact that any has remained unspent suggests a change in the spirit of the times, seeing the temptation that would ordinarily have been presented to the city authorities for distributing spoils to the meaner of their followers that this fund presented. That the temptation was resisted was due probably more to fear of the suspicion that is now thrown on to all the acts of the city authorities than to any regard for the public purse. Stupid and sentimental as this so-called relief fund was in its inception and considerable as have been the expenditures made from it, we hope its lesson will not be lost. That is the absurdity of thinking that the authorities, whether municipal or national, can or ought to do what the providence and industry of the working classes should do for themselves, provide for them in a time of depression. The Park Board has been unable to legitimately expend one-half of the money it was privileged to disburse, because it is impossible at any particular moment to suddenly plan and carry out public works simply because there are or may be men desiring to put so much per diem into their pockets which they cannot get elsewhere and which they choose to assert it is the duty of the city to provide. It would be interesting to know how many of the participants in the demonstrations of unemployed in this city that marked the close of last year, and by reason of which, in the main, this fund was created, sought to benefit by it. In other times when the public attention was not so keenly directed to city affairs, a million dollars would have been very quickly and easily dissipated in the spots where they would do most good politically, but at such a time as the present when the city authorities are receiving so much critical attention, we are permitted to see a fair experiment in the way of relief works and to judge how mistaken and dangerous they are in a community like ours.

The Chief of the Fire Department on High Buildings.

Mr. Hugh Bonner, Chief of the Fire Department of New York City: "All buildings erected in this city with the steel-cage construction, either for offices or mercantile purposes, I look upon as dangerous in case of fire, for the reason that when they pass beyond 125 feet in height they get beyond the control of our department. We have nothing up to date that will aid us in extinguishing fires above that point. We have looked all over the country for them, but up to the present time have not been able to obtain any appliances that will warrant us in saying that these buildings in their upper stories are within our control in case of fire. I think it is the duty of owners and architects to make provision during the construction of these buildings to provide against fire above the 125-foot limit, standpipes, water and fire appliances that will give the department an auxiliary plant established on the premises with the necessary power in the cellar to be used in the event of fire breaking out in the upper stories. Unless some means of coping with fire such as these are adopted fires that occur in these upper stories will unquestionably burn out while the firemen will be found standing on the street as much spectators as the general public and unable in the conditions mentioned to render any service. The department would just as soon handle a fire five hundred feet among the clouds as one on the ground if they have the appliances to do it with. I am not aware that any of the high buildings have been supplied with proper appliances with which to meet fire in the upper stories; if they have it is without consultation with this department. In cases of other buildings where some attempts have been made to provide against loss by fire we have found the appliance so provided useless because differences in thread, etc., made connection with the department's apparatus impossible. Our experiences with fires in buildings of steel construction shows that the effect of heat on iron posts and girders is most destructive. Our experience warrants us in saying that it merely requires sufficient combustibles to be set on fire in any of the high stories to cause the steel structure to crumble and fall through the building. There is no question in my mind but that this will be the result wherever there is sufficient combustible material within the building. For instance, a lawyer's office where a large quantity of papers and documents has been allowed to accumulate. I do not think cast-iron has any advantage over steel in the case of fire; the first will crack and break under a reaction, say from water coming into contact with it, and steel will twist and warp under the action of the heat, so that one is as bad as the other. People who put up high buildings under the conditions now possible, are taking the fire risk into their own hands. We endeavor to do the best we can, but above 125 feet we have no control. I certainly think the time has arrived to consider the question from the point of view of the public. I am of the opinion that we ought, in New York, to insist upon two requirements which are enforced in Chicago: that the owners of high buildings shall provide standpipes and a force of water in the upper floors, and that elevator service should at all times be available to carry the fire apparatus into the upper parts of the building. I think, too, the pillars should be required to be covered with fire-proof material just as the girders are, and the amount of wood employed reduced to the least possible. The auxiliary fire appliances should be put in under the superintendence of the Fire Department so as to insure their suitability and their fitness to be worked in connection with the department appliances."

The Building Material Exhibit.

The Building Material Exhibit conducted by THE RECORD AND GUIDE at Nos. 276 to 282 Washington street, Brooklyn, is regarded by architects, builders and owners generally as of very great value to the building industries, for the reason that it establishes a common centre at all times available for the purpose of examination and selection of constructive and finishing materials. It requires no argument to demonstrate the helpfulness and convenience of such an exhibition. Manufacturers have been quick to recognize the positive and manifold advantages it offers as a direct and influential way of reaching buyers, especially the best class of individual property-owners, who are equally as difficult as they are desirable to reach. To show how cordially the enterprise is regarded by the architects, the following extract from a letter received from Mr. Carl F. Eisenach, a well-known member of the profession in Brooklyn, is given: "Your Building Material Exhibit, centrally located, opposite the Post-office, is a splendid undertaking and worthy the full support of the whole profession. It is true every architect has an 'exhibit' of his own, more or less extensive, but it takes up very valuable space in already overcrowded offices, and after all is never complete, however large it may be. The more complete and varied your exhibit becomes the better; and I wish in the interest of all concerned that your catalogue may comprise all the names and articles used in the construction and decoration of buildings. How many times have we traveled long distances and lost valuable time in showing clients what they should or should not use? I shall continue to call frequently at your rooms, and you may enter my name as one of the regular visitors and supporters of your Exhibition." Montrose W. Morris, of New York, whose fine work is seen and admired on all sides, in referring to the Exhibit, writes: "To the architect it is more than equivalent to the working library of a literary man. In the one case, at least, every volume is illustrated." Mr. W. B. Tubby, of New York, who has contributed much to the architectural advancement of the Metropolitan District, says: "Your enterprise is an excellent one, and one that must aid greatly the 'building public.' It is certainly an advantage to architects, as the whole market is laid before them at a glance." The Exhibit hall, large, handsome and thoroughly well lighted, so that goods may be easily inspected in every part, is divided into sections, designated by letter. These sections consist of platforms raised a few inches above the floor level and intersected by broad aisles crossing each other at right angles. On these platforms the exhibits are placed in classified order. Strolling through the hall visitors are enabled to carefully observe the various exhibits which, in each case, are so arranged as to show the goods and convey information in the form of a practical object-lesson. These displays embrace material in wide variety, including front brick, which are shown in more than one hundred different designs and colors, terra cotta and granite, the finest tile and mosaic work, bath-room specialties, laundry tubs, interior trim, inside blinds, mantels, winding doors and partitions, fire-place fixtures, wall finishes and other decorations, furnaces, ranges, steam and hot water boilers, dumb-waiters, mineral-wool roofing and sidewalk materials, and so on throughout the long list. The whole constitutes an exposition of building material, equipment and decorative goods, among which many novelties will be found, at once interesting and valuable, unique, suggestive and practical in character. In fact, it presents a great market gathered for inspection under one roof, central of location and easy of access from every part of the two great cities of New York and Brooklyn.

Co-operative Housekeeping.

Chicago is to be the field of the next venture in co-operative living. A lot covering a square is to be purchased in one of the best residential parts of the city, and on it are to be put up forty-four dwellings of different size and cost. Each house is to have a lawn in front, while in the rear there is to be a more extensive grassplot, with a playground for children and a place where their elders may play tennis or other games. None of the houses is to have a kitchen, for all the baking and brewing, laundry work, and heating are to be looked after in a large central building, where meals are to be cooked and delivered in courses by means of a light electric railway that is to be run along the rear of the dwellings. It is reported that Chicago capitalists are ready to furnish the money for the plant, and that many more than the necessary number of families have applied for the forty-four houses. It is estimated by the originator of the plan, who is the wife of a well-known architect of Chicago, that the cost of living in one of the most modest of the dwellings will not exceed $15 a month. The additional expense will be $2 a week for board for each member of the family, and 25 cents a dozen for laundry work. Such fare is promised as that usually had at a cost of $6 a week. A feature of the plans is the architectural variety that is to exist, so that one may elect to dwell behind a Venetian, a Spanish, Renaissance, or a Romanesque front; the more modest little houses not flocking off by themselves, but sandwiched in between the more pretentious. There are to be bay windows and piazzas and other things that make for beauty and comfort, and the chief of these is a colony park, with pagodas and pavilions.

Other features that seem to carry the co-operative idea to an undesirable extreme are a colony kindergarten, a circulating library, and an assembly hall. The realization and outcome of this venture will be watched with much interest.—Evening Post.

Readers of THE RECORD AND GUIDE will hardly fail to recall in connection with the above the outlining in this journal of suggestions for the improvement of the front and rear yards of dwelling properties under the head of "High Stoop and Back Yard Architecture," on January 14, 1893, and for the reduction of household expenses in and article on "Co-operation in Housekeeping," on December 9 last. It was hardly to be expected that our suggestions would bear fruit so soon, but it is none the less pleasant because it is so. If there is any element of disappointment in the fact it is that New York allowed itself to be outstripped again by Chicago in this matter. But then Chicago always was quick to grasp a new thing when it was placed in her way.

The Builders' Outing.

This club has completed its arrangements for the celebration of the fifth anniversary of its organization by a "Days' Outing." The Iron Steamboat Cepheus has been engaged for an excursion to Roton Point and return. It will leave the foot of East 23d street promptly at 9.30 A. M., on Thursday, the 28th instant, and after a delightful sail of about forty miles through the most picturesque portion of Long Island Sound will land at Roton Point Hotel, a charming resort located on the Connecticut shore, where there will be served a sumptuous Shore Dinner. After that the members with their families and friends will enjoy the lovely shaded grounds and the fine bathing and boating facilities. A celebrated band has been engaged, which will enable those inclined to embrace the opportunity for a good dance.

This club has already demonstrated its capability in developing the friendly feeling as well as the social side of the builders of this city, but for this occasion the committee is endeavoring to especially provide every opportunity for a pleasant excursion for congenial friends, and at the same time avoid any objectionable feature. Tickets for the excursion and dinner at the hotel, good for a gentleman and lady, may be had on application to the secretary, Stephen M. Wright, at the club-house, No. 117 East 23d street, price $5. Extra tickets for ladies are $2 each.

The real estate market is reflecting fully the usual dullness of the summer season. Brokers who have been expecting it in the near future are more or less sadly admitting that it is here. A little business has been consummated, but not more than may be expected during any week between now and the opening of the fall season. Some brokers tell of transactions of importance, a few of very great importance, still pending in the negotiation stage, and that may be concluded in the near future. But this is the condition always. Something may come of these negotiations during the summer, and probably will. But that will hardly disprove the widespread assertion that the market is dull and will continue to be dull until people begin to talk about coming back to the city from their summer vacations.

The following are the comparative tables for New York Conveyances, Mortgages and Projected Buildings for the corresponding weeks of 1893 and 1894.

The prospects for the early completion of the bridge over the Harlem at 3d avenue, or even for the beginning of work on the approaches, is anything but encouraging. The facts of the matter as they stand at present are substantially as follows: Isaac A. Hopper has the contract for the construction of the new bridge. A temporary bridge has been constructed near by and is in readiness for use as soon as the work of removing the old bridge shall begin. There the proceeding is blocked. The Mayor and engineers of the Department of Public Works want Mr. Hopper to proceed with the construction of the central pier and bridge proper and of the abutments to the approaches. Mr. Hopper objects for two reasons: one, that the orderly and workmanlike progress of the job requires that he should have possession of the land required for the new approaches to the bridge, in order that he can work all the branches of the work simultaneously and at least expense to himself, and that the authorities are not able to give him that immediate possession; another is that the temporary bridge is not strong enough to stand the strain of such long use as would be necessary if the approaches are not constructed at once.

It appears that in this important proceeding the authorities have blundered seriously and that the owners of property required for the improvement are doing all they can to increase their embarrassment. The first blunder was in letting the contracts and proceeding with the work of construction before the land that would be needed was formally acquired. The Commissioner of Public Works estimated the cost of the lands to be taken at about $350,000, which was perhaps as near to the actual values as he could come without a formal and expert appraisement. Not being able to agree with the several owners, however, condemnation proceedings were begun, a commission was appointed, and this commission has been taking testimony upon the titles to the property. Property-owners have filed claims before this commission for nearly $4,000,000, or over ten times as much as the estimate of the Commissioner of Public Works. The commission has not yet finished the taking of testimony regarding titles, yet it has practically abandoned work for the season. One of the commissioners has already gone away for the summer, and after next week it is said that no meetings will be held until fall.

After that, if the slow process of condemnation proceedings is to continue, it will be necessary to take up the investigation of values and a great mass of testimony will be the result, extending over months and perhaps years. Until that is finished and the report of the commissioners filed and confirmed by the Supreme Court, the authorities cannot obtain possession of the land for the approaches and the bridge cannot be finished. Mr. Hopper, in a letter to Mayor Gilroy on the subject, suggests that after the commission is satisfied about the titles to the property, the Corporation Counsel could enter into a stipulation with the property-owners under which the city would be given possession of the required land, the compensation to abide the result of the condemnation proceedings.

But this could only be done by the consent of all parties, and that would not be obtained without great difficulty. The case demonstrates completely the importance of a provision in the law for the passing of title to the city in all condemnation proceedings upon the appointment of commissioners in such proceedings. As it is, the 3d avenue bridge improvement is likely to trail along through two or three years.

The Mayor's office was crowded with North Side property owners yesterday morning, the occasion being the final hearing on the maps prepared by Commissioner Haffen, showing the proposed Concourse or Boulevard, which is to extend from 161st street to Mosholu Parkway along the ridge east of Jerome avenue. But one objection, and that a trivial one, was raised, the almost unanimous verdict of those present being in favor of the undertaking. After some informal discussion, the Board of Street Opening and Improvements unanimously approved the map. Illustrations and a description of this Concourse were published in THE RECORD AND GUIDE shortly after the death of Commissioner Heintz, who originally laid it out. Rough estimates by Mr. Hugh N. Camp place the probable cost of the improvement at $10,000,000, of which about $3,000,000 will have to be paid for the land.

The report of the Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment in the matter of the widening and extension of College place was approved and confirmed by the Supreme Court Special Term on May 11. Two appeals have been taken to the General Term, one by the owner and the other by the tenant of the same property. The appeals cannot be heard until the October Term.

The Commissioners in the condemnation proceedings for the St. John's Park, have informally agreed upon an award to be made to the Trinity Corporation for the churchyard property that is to constitute the new park. It is $520,000. Up to the present time none of the lot owners has put in a claim for an award, and the Trinity Corporation maintains they have no right or interest in the award—that they never had more than a license to bury in the cemetery, at best. No interments have been made here since 1839, and it is proposed that the graves shall not be disturbed, but the park built right over them.

It is the impression of many observers of the recent doings in upper 5th avenue properties that a syndicate has been formed to buy up the available corners and larger parcels between Madison and 5th avenues and as far north as 92d street. Benjamin I. H. Trask is said to be the managing head of the syndicate. Mr. Trask has had a long and varied experience in 5th avenue real estate operations.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

The trustees of the estate of David H. Haight have sold the property Nos. 12 Vesey and 6 Barclay streets, 25x201.7, a six-story iron front, old business building, to H. H. Cammann, for between $140,000 and $145,000. The property is producing $7,700 rent now, with $1,300 of vacancies, which would make the gross rentals $9,000 a year. Mr. Cammann has purchased for a client whose indentity is not disclosed.

The property No. 21 West 23d street, reported sold this week by John T. Williams, has not been owned by Mr. Williams for nearly two years.

John P. Windolph has sold the residence property, No. 320 West 31st street, for Emanuel Strauss to Israel Loewenstein.

Charles Martin has sold in connection with W. F. Brintzinger & Son for John Brucker to Charles Kaltenbach, the four-story brick buildings with store, lot 25x100, No. 329 West 41st street.

The report of the sale of No. 23 East 54th street, by Winans & May at about $55,000 is denied by Messrs. Winans & May. The papers reporting it evidently confounded the property with No. 23 East 57th street, the sale of which by Winans & May was reported in THE RECORD AND GUIDE on April 14th. Title to this piece of property was passed this week.

The report of the sale of Nos. 138 and 140 West 33d street, apparently belongs to the "fake" variety. These houses are severally parts of two distinct properties; the owner of Nos. 136 and 138 positively denies that he has sold either of those houses.

M. L. Sire states that his dealings with James E. Kelly for the purchase of No. 75 West 47th street have not gone beyond negotiations yet. Consequently the statement that he had purchased the property for $28,000 was not warranted by the facts.

Wm. C. Walker's Sons have sold for Philip M. Platt to Matthew Clarkson, at about $65.000, No. 259 Canal street, a six-story and basement stone front warehouse and stores, dimensions about 26x85.

Start & Finelite have sold a one-half interest in the property, Nos. 409 and 411 West 22d street, for Christopher Fine to Mandelbaum & Lewine, on private terms.

Bryan L. Kennelly has sold, at private sale, for Luke A. Burke & Co., the builders, the lot on the west side of 7th avenue, commencing 75 feet north of 132d street, 35x100, for $13.100, to Augustus M. Van Raden. This lot was recently sold by Mr. Kennelly at auction for $12,100.

Frank L. Fisher has sold for Wm. E. Lanchantin the three-and-a-half-story American basement dwelling, 16.8x60x100, No. 312 West 82d street, on private terms, to J. Wentz.

Benjamin I. H. Trask has purchased the four lots on 88th street, south side, 100 feet east of 5th avenue, for $56,000.

C. R. Gregor & Son have sold for Max Danziger the three lots on the south side of 88th street, 75x100.8, commencing 95 feet west of Madison avenue, to John W. Livingston, at about $45,000, for immediate improvement; also, in connection with Wood & Miller, the two five-story brownstone flats, one double and the other single, Nos. 202 and 204 West 79th street, 60x90x102, for Johanna Hirschberg at abou $125,000; also for Walter Wood the three lots, 75x100, on the northwest corner of 112th street and Madison avenue, at about $45,000.

Barnett, Davis & Co. report that they have sold for Timothy M. Taylor, No. 628 East 135th street, a five-story double brick and stone flat and lot, 25x99.11, for $25,000, to Fredk K. Adler.

Hexter to Phillip Braender the three-story stone dwelling, No. 121 East 74th street, 17.6x55x102.2, at $17.000. For Mrs. Mahoney and others to Lee Wolff, No. 1054 Lexington avenue, a four-story brownstone dwelling, 17x55x80, on private terms.

It may or may not have significance as bearing on business in the immediate future, but several West Side brokers, wide apart in their location, mentioned that they had had renewed inquiry for houses and flats to rent and to purchase this week.

The Union Railway Company has sold to the H. Zeltner Brewing Co. the thirteen lots on the southeast corner of 3d avenue and Julia street, adjoining the brewery plant of the purchasing company, for $30,000. These lots were part of the forty-two lots advertised to be sold by James L. Wells, at auction, at the Broadway Salesroom on Tuesday. Mr. Wells had sold thirteen lots on 3d and Washington avenues and was about to offer these when he was told by the president of the Union Railway Company that they had been sold since the commencement of the sale.

J. Clarence Davies has sold the three-story frame dwelling with store, No. 2783 3d avenue, north of 146th street, size 18.9x90, for $13,500 to Paul Dannhauser. This house was sold about six weeks ago at the auction sale of the Harrmann estate for $11,400. Mr. Davies has also sold for Messrs. Kissam, the manager of John Jacob Astor's real properties. The James W. Birkett Manufacturing Co., of Nos. 351 and 353 Jay street, has just had issued from the press a handsome new catalogue and price list of its extensive products. An idea of the ramifications of the business of this company may be obtained when it is understood that this volume, in quarto size, contains 400 pages of well-printed and illustrated matter. The manufactures of the company embrace about everything in the steam and hot-water heating lines, and engineers' and steam-fitters' specialties.

Shoring walls and moving houses is ticklish business at the best, and when important jobs of either kind are to be done, it is just as well to have men who have had long experience in such work to do them. Such is the case with T. P. Galligan & Son, whose office is at No. 528 East 17th street. They are and were the contractors for the shoring, and in most cases for the excavation also, of the following finished and now pending important building operations: American Surety building, Broadway and Pine street; American Tract Society building, Nassau and Spruce streets; University building, Washington square; Cable building, Broadway and Houston street; power houses of the 3d avenue cable railroad, at Bayard street and 67th street; the Manhattan Life building; the Gerry apartment house, at 5th avenue and 58th street; the Bloomingdale new building in 59th street, near 3d avenue; the Buckingham Hotel addition; the addition to the Carnegie Music Hall, and for the excavation of the Broadway Cable Railroad trench from Canal to Chambers street. The five-story building just purchased by the firm, at 516, 518 and 520 East 17th street, will be improved on the expiration of the present leases for their own use.

Contractors are constantly in need of rope, and canvas and other supplies, and it is well, therefore, to know where to go to get what is wanted in that line. N. Kane's Sons is the name of a firm which has been established for forty years and is, therefore, likely to meet every demand in its line. The address of this firm is No. 171 South street.

An indication that large owners of realty are inclined to take advantage of the low cost of building is furnished by the filings this week for ten dwellings and a large flat, on the southeast corner of 3d avenue and 68th street, at a cost of $130,000, by Wm. C. Schermerhorn.

New Flats Quickly Rented.

Mr. John Yule commenced about a week ago the renting of ten apartments, still in the workmen's hands, he has erected at Nos. 103 and 105 West 84th street, and already one house is filled and there is no doubt that the cause that attracted tenants into the first house will soon fill the other. This is a remarkable record in renting at this season of the year and in a year when renting generally has been notoriously bad.

An inspection of these houses explains why they should be filling so rapidly. In the first place the location is in every respect good. It is only a block away from Central Park, a couple of minutes' walk from the 81st street station of the elevated railroad and a few steps only from the line of the Columbus avenue cable railroad, belonging to the Metropolitan Traction Company, whose system of interchange enables the traveler to reach almost any part of the city for one fare. The neighborhood is built up with very high-class residences and apartment houses and contains very little unimproved property. On the plot adjoining Mr. Yule's houses, on the corner of Columbus avenue, a large apartment house is about to be put up, the work having already been begun, and the southeast corner of 85th street and Columbus avenue, six lots, sold only recently, at a forced sale, for $116,000, which shows the value put upon land in this vicinity.

The houses themselves present a handsome appearance, having fronts of ornamental brownstone. Each contains five single flats, the style which has become to be most in demand by investors. The arrangement and decoration of the apartments leaves nothing to be desired. From the vestibule to the top of the houses the finishing and decorations are, in every sense of the word, elegant. Every pains has been taken to secure completeness in every respect. The entrance doors are paneled with plate glass, the vestibule has mosaic flooring and the walls are in white enamel paint, relieved by touches of gold and color and handsomely painted flower baskets in wall panels. The apartments are arranged so that a private vestibule opening from the main stairway divides the parlor and bedrooms from the dining-room and kitchen. The parlors are decorated in white and gold with mantles and curtain poles to match, paper of light and tasteful pattern fills the upper panels, and the ceilings are painted to correspond. The dining-room is finished in polished oak, with floor to match the trim. There are gas stoves in the main rooms, as well as steam radiators, while hot water is constantly supplied from the basement. The fittings are the best of their kind, comprising open plumbing, ceramic tubs, coal and gas kitchen stoves, gas chandeliers, with sliding lamp in the dining-room. The lighting and ventilation is unusually good for this kind of building, the shafts being of more than the average size, and the disposition of adjoining buildings making it possible to insert windows where it is not usual to find them.

In the demand known to exist among investors for well-located single apartments, there will be no difficulty in finding a buyer for these that have been built and arranged with so much care, decorated with so much taste and for which tenants have already shown such a partiality. It should be added that the owner and builder, Mr. Yule, has erected many other houses and is a well-known plumber.—(Communicated.)

LANDLORD—AGENT—DEPOSIT.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Where a deposit is paid on a place and the tenant decides afterwards to forfeit the deposit and not move in, what disposition is to be made of the deposit regarding the owner and the agent, what part, if any, is the agent entitled to?

Answer.—Upon inquiry of several agents as to what they do in such cases, some have said, "we keep the deposit for the trouble we have had and the expense of advertising." Others have said, "as a matter of expediency and to retain the custom of the landlord we turn over the deposit to him." As a matter of law the agent does not earn his commission either on a sale or a renting until he obtains a buyer or a tenant able and willing to carry out a contract in accordance with the terms of the seller or landlord. That is what he is employed for. In the case propounded, if the agent has not fulfilled his contract of employment, he is entitled to no portion of the deposit. If he has fulfilled his contract of employment, he is entitled to his commission.—LAW EDITOR.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

(1) Can an owner be made to pay twice for material used in the erection of his building? (2) That is to say, if the owner has made the final payment in full to the contractor and the contractor fails to pay for the material he has used, can the persons who supplied the material compel the owner to pay the contractor's debts? An answer in this week's issue will oblige.

Answer.—(1) No. (2) No. The material men may file liens. "But in no case shall such owner be liable to pay by reason of all the liens filed pursuant to this Act a greater sum than the price stipulated and agreed to be paid in such contract and remaining unpaid at the time of filing such lien, or in case there is no contract than the amount of the value of such labor and material then remaining unpaid, except as hereinafter provided" (Mechanic's Lien Law, Chap. 342, Laws of 1885, Section 1). "Except as hereinafter provided" refers to Section 2 concerning collusive and advance payments by the owner to the contractor. If such payments have been made it may be that the owner can be compelled to pay a second time.—LAW EDITOR.

MORTGAGES.

Arrangement.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: the first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, JUNE 16, 1894.

RESTRICTIONS, legal and covenant, against the use of real estate for prescribed purposes, as they are generally known to the real estate world, are of advantage to the properties to which they are in general made to apply, but it has seemed now and then as if they had been unwisely and harmfully applied. The theory of their employment is that they will aid in the development of the property to which they are made to apply, along a given and desired direction, by preventing the intrusion of any buildings which would be obnoxious to the style or character of buildings most desired. A notable and persistent example of the false application of the theory in this city is the case of 4th avenue. Viewed simply as a street this is one of the finest in the city. It extends from the business centre to the western extremity of Long Island, at Fort Hamilton, about half way up the slope of the hills that overlook the beautiful upper bay. It is the widest long thoroughfare in the city, and has by some been called a "boulevard." Beyond laying it out, however, and putting a patchwork pavement of part cobblestone, part Macadam and part Belgian-block work upon it, the municipality has done nothing to make a boulevard of it or to carry out the design suggested by its width and location. There were trees and parkways manifestly intended in its original design, and here and there are evidences of a beginning having been made upon such a plan. But there are more evidences of abandonment and failure than of the original design. The worst mistake of all regarding this great thoroughfare, however, was the work of the owners of property along the line, and that was in restricting the avenue "forever" against the invasion of all kinds of railroads. This was done, it is said, in order to insure the improvement of the thoroughfare with the best class of residences. But it has failed, signally, to accomplish that object. Some creditable houses there are along the line of the avenue, and now and then a church or public building which appears to advantage because of the comparatively fine perspective afforded by the wide street. But the corners are for the most part occupied by gin-mills, the only "business" which can afford to pay the cost of occupancy, and the other "improvements" are in general only of the "taxpayer" class, cheap tenements, small groceries, coal and wood yards, and similar establishments that can be quickly and inexpensively removed whenever the improved circumstances of the street may require it. What the street needs, and needs most urgently, for its redemption and systematic improvement, is a first-class street railroad. This should be either an open-cut electric road, or an underground trolley surface road. And it should be built and owned by the city, and leased for operation to the company that would pay the highest annual rental for the privilege for a term of years. The municipality has given away most of its best and most valuable franchises to private corporations without adequate or reasonable compensation, and is now bemoaning its small income from public franchises, but in 4th avenue and the splendid system of feeders that could be constructed from it there remains the best of all possible railway systems in Brooklyn, one which would be in time the source of a vast income to the city. It should be the concern of owners all along the line of 4th avenue to have the ridiculous restriction against its use for street railroads removed as quickly as possible, and the concern of all Brooklyn to see that the franchise for such a road falls into the hands of no private corporation, but remains the property of all the people forever.

Notes Gathered Here and There.

Notice is given that the assessment rolls in the following entitled matters have been completed and placed in the hands of the Collector of Taxes and Assessment for collection: Sewer Map F, District 11, St. Mark's avenue, between Grand and Washington avenues, and for repaving St. Mark's avenue, from Bedford to Franklin avenue.

Notice is given that the Common Council has declared by resolution its intention to grade and pave 33d street, from 3d to 4th avenue, with cobblestone pavement; also to grade and pave Miller avenue, between Jamaica avenue and Eastern Parkway, with Belgian blocks, and to grade and pave Rochester avenue, from Prospect place to Douglass street, with cobblestone pavement. (Objections must be filed with the Clerk of the Common Council on or before the 2d day of July.)

At the regular meeting of the Board of Aldermen, on Monday, a petition was received from property-owners on Jefferson street, between Boerum street and Evergreen avenue, to have one track removed from Jefferson street, it having been laid by the Atlantic Avenue Railroad Company contrary to the wishes of the property-owners on the block, who only signed for a single track. It was referred to the Railroad Committee.

The bond of Gen. James Jourdan, President of the Brighton Beach Railroad Company, for $50,000 to indemnify property-owners for any injury to their property by the removal of the terminus of the road from Atlantic and Franklin avenues up to Fulton street and Franklin avenue, and there connecting with the Kings County Elevated, was ordered on file, the Mayor and Corporation Counsel having approved it.

George H. Everhardt, of No. 294 Clinton street, has been appointed, by Building Commissioner Bush, Inspector of store houses, factories and stores; and James Surrney, of No. 200 7th avenue, Inspector of hotels, theatres, churches and places of public assemblage.

On Monday last, Judge Advocate Lemley, of the Navy Department, submitted to Mayor Schieren, Controller Corwin and Corporation Counsel McDonald the deed for the Wallabout lands, on the west side of Washington avenue. The deed was signed and accepted and warrants for $1,208,666 were turned over to Mr. Lemley. Mayor Schieren said that the work of improving the newly acquired property could not be done at the present time for the reason that the city had no money. The engineers of the Department of City Works would, however, prepare the plans for the improvement, and application would be made to the next Legislature for permission to issue bonds. The city must complete one-half the work of building the necessary canals and slips within two years.

A committee of owners of East Side lands called on the Mayor, on Tuesday, to ask him to assist them in effacing the impression which prevails in the public minds that there is a cloud on the title to these lands. The Mayor, who is an owner of these lands himself, declined to interfere, because he is satisfied that the titles are valid. Mr. Ludden, of the committee, said that Mayor Chapin held the opinion that the title was not clear, and Elizah R. Kennedy told them that they were wasting their time and money, for the lands would revert to the city. The Mayor holds that Mayor Chapin and Mr. Kennedy are in error. Assistant Corporation Counsel Furst, Senator Reynolds and Frank Bailey, of the Title Guarantee Company, who were present, take the same view of the matter.

The first application for an injunction order under the new building law was granted on Wednesday morning by Justice Bartlett to Assistant Corporation Counsel Angell to show cause why Frank H. Davis, a New York builder and his assistants, should not be restrained from proceeding with their work in the erection of two apartment houses, Nos. 222 and 224 Navy street. The order is returnable to-day. It is alleged that Mr. Davis has disregarded the building laws in the foundations and otherwise. Work has been stopped pending the investigation.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—While it is probably unreasonable to expect sharp general improvement in any line of building material, there are a great many operators who feel that the brick market has probably passed through its worst experience for the present year. For six months trade has been simply of a hand-to-mouth character, satisfying a very small consuming outlet which was easily enough met from local accumulation during the winter, and has since the opening of navigation left a continuous surplus afloat from arrivals that were abundant as trade stood. The effect upon prices was to push the value line down until $5 became top, and a large proportion of the business was done inside that figure. During the past month or six weeks, however, striking workmen, supplemented by a remarkably prolonged spell of unpropitious weather have served as an influence, not only to curtail the production, but also to cause a deterioration in the quality of a large proportion of such brick as might be made, and the probability now is that good and choice stock will not be as plentiful for some time to come. This condition arises, too, just at a juncture where operations on many of the large structures are reaching a point where brick will be needed and induces receivers to feel more hopeful. There is no gain in price reported down to the present writing, and, indeed, some operators talk as though the tone was really a little easier, especially on faulty stock, but a gain has been made in the fact that the arrivals of both good and bad quality have been small and the supply keeps more closely sold up. Pales continue to find very irregular demand, and while quoted in a general way at about former figures, each sale has a price made to fit it. With better weather work in the yards has been resumed in most localities, but we are informed that there are still some unsettled labor difficulties, and rumors prevail of another strike impending at a number of yards where workmen are dissatisfied with the hours.

CEMENT.—There is some gain in consumption, as all structural work under way is progressing more rapidly and just at a period when the coarser grades of material come into play. Both domestic and foreign grades of cement are benefited to the extent of finding a broadening outlet with prospect of still greater increase, but there is plenty of stock to meet the call, and indeed a much greater line of custom could be accommodated without difficulty. Prices generally range at about the figures current for some time past with possibly a slightly greater measure of steadiness, but sellers are not disposed to assume an uppish tone lest it should act as an impediment to expnading inquiry.

GLASS.—A generally firm tone is reported for all standard sizes of window glass. There is an admission of some disappointment in the volume of trade recently accomplished, but buyers have commenced showing increased interest and with supplies well in hand holders manifest a growing confidence. The prospect of a settlement of the coal strikes seems to be viewed in different ways as to the effect upon the glass product by renewing the supply of fuel to some extent, but many of the trade have an idea that there will be no great addition to the make before the annual blow out. Full former rates are quoted. Plate glass has good proportionate attention and retains a steady healthy tone, with former general quotations ruling.

HARDWARE.—Present conditions of trade are without much animation, and there is a notion that there will be no great gain during balance of the month. Many operators, however, speak somewhat more confidently of the prospect for the last six months of the year. Improved conditions in other lines of merchandise it is calculated will extend to staple grades of hardware at least, and partially make amends for the defection in demand since January 1st. All accounts agree that supplies now held by retailers and small jobbers as well as by such consumers as carpenters, manufacturers, house trimmers, etc., are exceedingly small, and the first pulsation of renewed consumption must surely be felt throughout the entire market. Prices generally rule low, but without recent changes of importance.

LATH.—There has probably been some disappointment in the supply this spring, as the arrivals exceeded the general estimates and calculations of receivers. The natural result was an absence of buoyancy on values, with an occasional dip in the opposite direction under momentary excessive accumulations of cargoes that carried cost inside of $2, and a story is floating that in one or two cases a price was accepted lower than anything allowed to become generally known. Nevertheless, the market did not reach a point of positive demoralization, and, if anything, stood up better than many other staple lines of structural material, with a feeling prevailing that matters have probably passed their worse stage, and the tendency is now rather uppish. Parties who have recently had an opportunity to sound the Canadian markets find the cost of lath so much above a parity of figures ruling here that there is little danger or attempt to compete with the Eastern product upon the New York market.

LIME.—Although as previously advised the chances are against any very liberal consumption of lime upon the general run of work now in hand, there seems to be reason to look for a slightly better tone to the general market. Distributing from stocks on hand with only an odd cargo now and then coming along for compensation receivers have gradually worked down the accumulation, and as dealers bought only from hand to mouth, their supplies must also be limited. This in conjunction with the commencement of operations upon such work as will require lime seems to be swinging the demand to a point where it will require a larger amount of stock to meet it and receivers gain confidence accordingly. Indeed, while no change in prices has been made, the market at the close is much stronger, and some slight advance is predicted.

LUMBER.—The general character of business undergoes no important change, and the volume does not appear to increase. A very large proportion of the trading is on special deals, and everything goes to show that just at the moment it would be almost suicidal to bring in random stuff and attempt to realize upon it. A somewhat annoying experience with salesmen is the fact that they find scarcely any objection to the line of valuation, and a great many dealers and manufacturers frankly admit that a great deal of stuff available, now is really cheap, yet they are unwilling to take hold, and only now and then can a respectable-sized contract be booked. Export trade affords some help from time to time, but sellers appear to have enough stock on hand to meet all calls made. Supplies arriving on early season engagement more than balance the outlet, and local accumulations are gradually increasing. In the general details of the market for the week there are few if any new features.

White Pine of fine quality is still spoken of as a likely wood when business again improves, but just now the calls for it are slow and cautious and contracts confined in the main to small odd parcels. In box and shippers there is some dealing, especially with the small buyers who having adhered to the hand to mouth policy all the season are working on very limited accumulations and have to replenish whenever they happen to get a little extra custom. Offerings do not appear to be intrusive, but can be found waiting whenever called for.

Yellow Pine can hardly become any cheaper if some of the tales of low rates accepted are true. But there does not appear to be anything to stimulate the market, the natural demand proving moderate and erratic, and no chance for forcing business at the moment either with random or special specifications. There is an intimation of growing wants at the Eastward which sellers naturally hope may prove to be more than mere rumor.

Carolina Pine is of too standard character to remain at a positive point of neglect and more or less trade is doing all the while, with occasionally a good sized order booked. The market, however, is far from lively or even satisfactory and most agents report they are unable to find consolation in any demand of importance outside of the market. The offerings are ample and there would be more of them on any increased wants.

Hemlock sells moderately and with offerings available at about the rates current for some time past buyers evidently feel nothing to spur them into additional animation at the moment. Advices from manufacturers however, and the expression of views by agents here indicate a retention of confidence that sooner or later this line of stock will be considered pretty good property and can safely be carried awaiting the development without submitting to a further modification of the line of cost.

Spurce continues in only moderately active demand. Agents for Eastern stock report, as an experience of their canvass of the market, that room for very little in the way of random bills could be found, even though the offerings were made at extremely low figures, and even in placing specials success is of an irregular and far from satisfactory character. Business, therefore, simply drifts along with valuations nominal all around. Advices from manufacturers are still more or less disconsolate in tone and it looks as though mill that cannot find employment in cutting English deals will shut down entirely just as soon as present supply of logs is used up. State spruce is about steady and West Virginia product als

PEOPLE seem to have given up hoping for improvement and to have taken to wondering how long business, like a patient given over by the doctors, can live at all under such conditions. Such a depth of pessimism if accompanied by activity in the markets, even though such activity brought declines in prices, would indicate that better times were near at hand; but to-day activity is to be found nowhere, and ordinary calculations are therefore valueless. This despondency into which the commercial world has fallen is due in part to the continued droning in the Senate over the Tariff Bill, but more particularly to the attention that has been in the past few days drawn to the condition of the Treasnry. To this latter fact is also due the renewed gold export movement after the signs had been distinct that the old movement was coming to a close. If we look back for causes of most of the trade depression since last fall the conclusion inevitably forces itself that it is due to the unwisdom of the administration in forcing on the country a tariff discussion when it needed rest, and to the utter inability of the Treasury Department to handle a very difficult situation. The public attention having been so forcibly drawn to the state of the treasury's gold balance, the situation cannot improve until something is done to quiet the fears so raised, and it looks as if the duty of doing this something will fall again on the banking interest of New York as it has done before, and it is to be hoped, in the interest of the country, including the New York banking interest itself, that this duty will neither be dallied with or shirked. If in any industry there is found a gleam of encouragement, it is in the iron trade, where the hope is permitted that the orders held back by the fuel question may come forward now that the coal strike is practically settled, but this hope is mitigated by the announcement that continued operation of some of the largest mills and furnaces depends on a readjustment of the wage-scale. Wall street has had leisure to discuss the Atchison plan. Quotations apparently do not approve it, though the decline in these is as much due to the considerations which adversely affect the prices of other stocks as to the view taken of the plan. As has been already stated the investment public is not in the mood to look at anything cheerfully. Even the declaration of the usual dividends on the Vanderbilts failed to change the speculative temper which will not see any but the bearish side of any news.

ALL the great European banks report their funds rolling back on their hands; consequently, while deposits and surplus increase, discounts decrease. The rates for money are not only low now, but promise to continue so for some time to come, as is evidenced by the ruling rate in London of eleven-sixteenths to three-quarters for three months' bills. A recent computation placed the money in the Bank of England alone that was earning nothing at $37,500,000. This is due largely to the withdrawal of English money from foreign countries. Railroad earnings in Great Britain taken as an indication of improved business are favorable. For the first twenty-two weeks of the year of twelve great roads, two made decreases amounting to $88,000 and ten increases amounting to $2,500,000, derived almost wholly from freight. The decline though in imports and exports for May, which was for the first $13,500,000 and for the second $1,700,000, including as they do a severe loss in the imports of raw materials, is not favorable to continued progress in business improvement. It is almost certain that the French treasury will supply the twelve millions of small coin required from new metal instead of melting down five-franc pieces; the attractions of the seigniorage offered by coining from new silver appear to be too great o be resisted in a time when treasury officials are reaching out in every way to make both ends meet. The way in which the great governments are looking around for ways of stretching the garment to cover pecuniary needs keeps the holders of high-rate bonds in a state of great nervousness. Several scares have been gotten up in Germany on reports that the 4 per cent Imperial and Prussian loan was to be converted into a 3 per cent loan. The growing power of King Mob is illustrated by the decision of the Vienna Corn Exchange to abolish the International grain market which is annually held at Vienna after this year, because they are unable to secure for the visitors protection against insults from anti-Semitic mobs. This will be a considerable loss to Vienna, because the market was attended by from five to six thousand merchants who, while there, placed a great many orders with jobbers and manufacturers, many of which will hereafter doubtless go to other places. Owing to the continuing growth in the number of idle people in Austria an Emigration Society has been formed, similar to the one in Germany, to assist working people to reach new countries. London advices indicate that the most potent cause of the trouble in Argentina is the fear of war with Chili, the latter country having kept up its unfriendly demonstrations ever since the Bolivian affair.

THE recent report of Mint Director Preston is not only an assurance that the gold supply of the world gives no sign of becoming inadequate to the duty it has to perform, but it also shows how supply will respond to demand. The rejection of silver as a currency medium to such an enormous extent by our own and other governments, naturally led or was rather preceded by a curtailment of the mining of that metal, and just as naturally has created a larger use for gold. The man who had been employed in the silver mines, finding his occupation gone, turned to the search of the metal that is always in demand, so that before the special session of Congress was called to consider the advisability of suspending silver purchases miners in small parties could be seen along the water courses in Colorado, Utah, Nevada and California, in any regions where gold was known to be, washing for that precious metal, and in that way providing against the contingency which they feared or foresaw, and which ultimately made their previous occupation unprofitable. The result of this increased energy in the search for gold is that not only does the present year promise very much larger results than the yearly average for a long time past, but also that that was the result already achieved in 1893. Not only was the output of gold in the newer fields of South Africa extraordinarily large, but the increase in this country last year over the year before was considerable enough to keep it at the head of the gold producing countries of the world. This year there is every promise that it will keep the same place, notwithstanding that the returns from the South African fields are very favorable. Australia, too, is increasing its output of gold as are also the smaller gold producing countries. These facts, coupled with the accumulations that are piling up in the great banking centres of Europe at the present time, show that, all excuse for hoarding being removed, there is no ground for the fear that gold will become inadequate as a basis for the world's currency needs even should other countries, now on a silver basis, follow the example of Austria, and adopt the gold basis.

IT is not at all necessary that progress should destroy the beautiful, it is only that we choose that way of progressing. It would be just as easy to make those changes necessary to our needs that are called advancing and still preserve whatever is really beautiful if the task was set about in the right way. If we took a little more time and moved with unity of spirit the results would be more satisfactory from the æsthetic point of view, and probably equally satisfactory, if not more so, from the commercial standpoint. One cannot fail to be struck with this fact when contemplating the change that is being brought about in the aspect of New York by the high buildings. Any one who wishes can see how the city is being disfigured by the erection of high buildings by taking a trip on any of the ferryboats running out into the bay or up the East River. Formerly Manhattan Island always presented a pleasing prospect from the water. If the warehouses on the river front were never very attractive from the architectural point of view individually they were so masked by the masts and cordage of the shipping at the docks that their ugliness was not obtrusive. They had, too, a background of spires and towers that insured an agreeable effect. Now, where the high buildings hide the church steeples and other ornamental adjuncts of our buildings the impression on the stranger must be that the city is fast becoming a mass of factories, because the details that may relieve a particular high building when seen from the street are lost at a distance, and the only effect produced is of so many rows of square windows, rising one above the other and shutting out everything else. Lovers of New York, until recently, always pointed with pride to the beautiful view of the Battery that could be obtained from the bay, where the grouping of the Produce Exchange, the Cotton Exchange, the Field Building, the spire of Trinity Church, and the Barge office, with the Battery Park itself, made a most agreeable picture to the eye. This has been entirely destroyed by the office buildings that have been erected of late years and now exists only in old photographs and illustrations.

Our "Sky-Scrapers."

THE interviews published in our columns during the last two or three weeks upon the durability of the iron construction employed in recent high buildings have, no doubt, struck the intelligent reader as singularly inconclusive. We say singularly because never before in the history of building have the highest efforts of the craft been exercised with materials concerning the permanence and stability of which, beyond a relatively few years, architects, engineers, builders all alike frankly profess an ingenuous and almost careless ignorance. From what we have been able to learn by questioning the architects and iron men most responsible for our "sky-scrapers" it appears that the utmost assurance as to stability that any one contemplating investing a million, more or less, in a twenty-story structure can hope to obtain is as follows:

The skeleton system of construction is still, on the side of durability, an experiment; one in which we architects, engineers and builders are intensely interested. For all that we know the iron may remain in serviceable condition a century or more, or it may not. Some of us are strongly on the negative side. But, positive or negative, all of us are without any certain or scientific data for an opinion. The experience which the world has of the behavior of iron, though suggestive, is not directly applicable to the problem in hand. Iron, certainly, will rust, at a rate that varies according to the conditions it is subjected to. Under some circumstances, a few years have been sufficient to consume iron; under others iron has preserved its integrity almost as well as stone. Iron objects in a state of good preservation have been discovered in some of the oldest of Egyptian tombs, but in certain New York buildings not fifty years old anchors and other structural parts have been found reduced to mere rust. The protection from the elements which iron receives in one of our multi-storied buildings is far from complete, and undoubtedly after the lapse of a few years, when the oil in the paint with which we cover the iron is evaporated, the action of the weather upon the metal will be considerable, if not destructive. In short, the question you raise is one we cannot settle. It is enough for us that in all human probability any building we may erect will outlast our lifetime. Its collapse fifty or one hundred years hence will not disturb our slumber—nor yours should you undertake to build.

The conclusion, undoubtedly sound, that there is small possibility of any of our steel-cage buildings tumbling upon the heads of the present generation ought, perhaps, to satisfy the public as it satisfies our architects and builders. Our fears, such as they are, do not, it will be observed, concern ourselves so much as some future generation. This in itself is almost sufficient to condemn our alarms as useless and unnecessary, for though they are based on the assumption that some terrible calamity may happen three-quarters of a century hence they take no account of the important possibility that ere that time has elapsed our "modern' buildings may have become antiquated and been replaced by others answering to the needs of those distant days. The current idea of Progress is not that it is about to cease. Isn't it rather presumptuous then to take it as granted that our successors will be so satisfied with what we have done that they will permit it to endure for centuries. New York may become a really civilized city within a hundred years, and then how much of our work will be tolerated? Daylight and fresh air and leisure to grow wise may become valuable and our crude expressions of an ostentatious art may be intolerable to a generation whose ear is attuned to a purer accent of the divine speech.

A quarter of a century has been sufficient to condemn and antiquate all the most modern and costly edifices that existed in New York when this paper was first published. In 1868 the present headquarters of the New York Life Insurance Co., then erecting, was as far in advance of the ordinary office building as the Manhattan Life Co.'s building and the American Surety Co.'s building are now ahead of it. Yet, to-day, the New York Life Company is about to rebuild, and who shall say that a quarter of a century hence the same necessity will not exist with our twenty-story structures. Contentions to the contrary and all assertions that these new buildings are for eternity are based upon the assumption that altitude is the prime requisite of a commercial edifice and that it is not conceivable that our latest 300-feet towers will be overtopped. If altitude confers permanence then, undoubtedly, our recent buildings will not soon be replaced, but does it? The taste and requirements of the world change, change very rapidly in these times of invention, when men have what amounts almost to another sense to be satisfied—the sense of novelty. Buildings that were put up only ten years ago already wear something of an old-fashioned air, and, judged by the latest standards, reveal many deficiencies. The tallest of to-day's buildings will not escape this deterioration, and it is not idle to question whether fifty years from to-day they will not be so outclassed that it will be necessary to replace them by "something modern."

The serious question to be raised about our "sky-scrapers" does not touch their durability or safety, but their effect upon the public health. It is hard to conceive that a city of narrow streets lined with ten to twenty-story buildings can be sanitary; yet to that condition New York is progressing fast.

Land Tenures, Land Liens, and the Constitutional Convention.

AFTER all the standing committees of the Constitutional Convention at Albany that had been provided for by the Committee on Rules had been appointed by President Choate, a resolution was introduced by one of the members to provide for a committee on land tenures, transfers and other subjects directly relating to the subject of land ownership. Up to this time no organization, so far as known, has given any consideration to the questions relating to real estate that might properly come before the Constitutional Convention. Apparently it is a subject which by common consent has been relegated to the Legislature for treatment, upon the hypothesis that it has no features of sufficient importance to deserve incorporation in the organic law of the State. But is this so? The opportunity to take a definite stand on some of the most important questions of tenure and taxation is presented for the first time in many years and when it is past will not return again for a decade at the least. If there are any features of the subject that ought to be incorporated in the constitution now is the time for their consideration and approval.

Without presuming at this time to take a definite position regarding any of them, we propose to suggest a line of constitutional legislation for the consideration of our readers. People who have closely observed the course of events in the real estate markets of this city and vicinity, during the last ten years, need not be informed that they have witnessed some important changes. It is within that period that all we have of land transfer reform has been obtained; that the title guarantee companies have come into existence; that corporations to guarantee mortgages have been created, and that the political doctrine of the single tax has come to be understood and advocated by a large number of our thoughtful citizens. Corporate action has gone far forward in advance of popular thought on these matters, because it has been found profitable and because land tenure is not attractive from any other point of view. But it has not yet gone as far forward as has been contemplated. But for the general paralysis of all original work last summer, growing out of the financial depression, a corporation would, ere this, have been formed with $2,000,000 of paid-up capital, the object of which was to so far supersede all present methods of transacting a real estate business as the present methods are in advance of those of twenty years ago.

The object of all this corporate effort is, generally stated, to make of real estate a more merchantable commodity—to facilitate trading in it and to overcome as far as possible the difficulties inherited from the common law. All such effort, so far as it has gone, has merited and received the commendation and support of real estate owners and traders. But now the question arises whether it would not be better to make the entire subject one for scientific consideration and treatment, and by constitutional action to cut loose from the senseless restrictions and traditions of a past that bears so little resemblance to the present, and frame our system of legal tenures in harmony with modern ideas and customs. Why not place real estate upon an equal footing with all other forms of merchandise in the public markets?

What good reason can now be given, for instance, for continuing to acknowledge and enforce titles by dower in real property that would not apply with at least equal force to personal property? Is it not a fact, amply borne out in our experience, that this legal relic of barbaric days is the occasion of more trouble and expense than is compensated by the good it conserves? As a question of expediency alone would it not be better to abolish dower right? Could not all of the benefits that are supposed to be derived from it be better secured by more direct methods? Would not the abolition of dower right remove one of the chief obstacles to trading in real estate?

Then as to mechanics' liens, lis pendens, judgment liens and all other forms of liens upon real property—upon what equitable principle are they based? Do they not encourage a vicious system of doing business, one that encourages fraud and deception rather than otherwise? Do they do more harm than good? Where there is intent to defraud does not the very machinery of the law of which these lien laws are part provide the means for their circumvention? Why then should they be retained? Are they not a false reliance to the very men they are designed to aid and protect? Are they not serious obstacles to trading in real estate? The temptation is strong upon us to argue these questions right now, but we defer that for the present in the anticipation that our readers will take them up, and in the Exchanges or associations of which they are members, discuss them openly, or, if they prefer, by correspondence with this journal give expression to their views upon them.

The time is ripe for the consideration of these subjects; the Constitutional Convention will not last all the year, and if there is to be any change in our organic law on these subjects it will need to be presented very soon and pressed with vigor. The New York and Brooklyn Exchanges ought to make immediate provision for the discussion of these subjects, and if there are among the members none who feels competent to lead the discussion or to furnish the facts and reasons essential to a scientific conclusion, then it would be well to invite the assistance of the leading real estate experts and lawyers, and after hearing them publicly to take united position in favor of such action as may be finally agreed upon. One thing is certain: unless some such course is taken the subject will not receive the consideration or be placed before the Constitutional Convention in the manner it deserves. There are other minor subjects that come within the scope of real estate law with which the Legislature is competent to deal (always supposing that the Legislature is competent to deal with anything) but the subjects that have been above suggested, with some others, perhaps, that may be considered later, are subjects for constitutional action if any. The subject is open for discussion. Does any one desire to be heard upon it?

NEW YORK'S building industry gives signs of revival along certain lines, particularly in the line of the house of moderate cost. Some weeks ago we drew attention to the falling off in the number and aggregate and average costs of buildings projected this year, shown in the statistics of the Department of Buildings, as compared with corresponding periods of last year. Latterly the weekly lists of applications filed compare very favorably in number with like returns of 1893, and while the aggregate estimated cost is not equal to, still it shows some improvement over the early returns of the current year; but the average estimated cost is much lower. For instance, in the week ended June 2 last thirty-nine applications were filed with a total estimated cost of $810,725, and an average estimated cost of $20,762, compared with twenty-eight applications with a total estimated cost of $892,667, and an average estimated cost of $31,881 in the corresponding week of 1893. In the week ended the 9th inst. there were only fifty-seven applications as against sixty-six in the corresponding week of last year, and the average estimated cost was nearly the same, being $22,250 for the week of this year and $22,552 for that of last year, which made of course the total to be expended in building work much less. Again in the week closed last Saturday there was a considerable falling off in the total estimated cost, but this was accompanied by an increase of the number of applications from sixty-six to seventy-four, and consequently to a marked decrease in the average cost, the figures being $12,064 against $18,245. The results of the last-mentioned comparison are due in part to the large number of alterations included in the applications, but they are more particularly due to the scarcity of large undertakings and the demand for the cheaper classes of residence buildings. It is also to be remembered that at this time a year ago the country was getting its first taste of dull times.

A RECENT vote in Switzerland illustrates not only the value of the referendum, but also the reliance that can be placed upon the good sense of a people to withstand extraordinary and untimely socialistic demands. A referendum may be obtained in Switzerland on a petition of 50,000 citizens. One was presented to the Government, signed by 52,000, asking that a vote be taken upon perhaps the most generally accepted proposition of the Socialists, and one on which we have heard a great deal in this country during recent years, and particularly last year, namely, that a man left by circumstances without occupation has a right to employment from the State. Now, such a proposition, it would be thought, would be more likely to find acceptance in Switzerland, which is the harbor and refuge of the socialists and where the form of government contains more of the socialistic idea than any other, as for instance the referendum itself. In fact the authorities at Berne obeyed the law with some fear of the results. But the vote was a surprise to both sides, because the question was negatived by four to one, only a third more votes than there were signers to the petition being recorded in the affirmative. The latter fact brings out another point also, that organized movements of the nature of the one referred to herein are much more formidable in appearance than in fact. Had such a test been possible here the wisdom of Albany would not now be laying in the dust as it now is as the absurd result of its attempt to provide work for the unemployed of New York by voting a million dollars (which could not be spent) for work that the loudest complainers could not and would not do.

More Views on High Buildings.

Samuel McMillan, of the Board of Examiners of the Department of Buildings, speaking of the cage system of construction, said: "We are going a little too fast in iron construction before the material has been fully tested. I recognize the fact that we are going to live in an iron age. It is only a question of very little time, in my opinion, when iron structures will be put up to cost not more than 20 per cent more than the average way of building with wood. I think, therefore, the best thought of our engineers and constructors should be given to this question of cage-construction. Every precaution ought to be taken to have the building fire-proof; a man who has the means and location that will warrant the expense is very short-sighted if he puts up a non-fire-proof building. The pillars ought to be placed where the iron will not sweat and incrust with rust. If it is allowed to sweat it will not last long. In fact, the iron columns should be so ventilated and protected, either by hot air or some other protective that dampness cannot strike them at all. Regarding the protective qualities of the paint covering the columns, these only last as long as the oil remains in them, which is not a very long time, because of the action of the lime in the walls. An oil painting will endure for centuries because the action of the air is equal on both sides, but the paint in a wall deteriorates because the suction in the pores of the wall draws away the oil and leaves only the dry powder. The same thing will occur in connection with the paint on an iron column."

Henry J. Hardenbergh: "I have not given enough thought to the subject, as you have discussed it in your columns, to express any opinion at length. With the majority of architects, I do not approve of buildings going so high, because they are spoiling the city, so far as the streets are concerned, and it destroys the architectural beauty of a building to be put up so high. As to the durability of the iron or steel used in the building I have no opinion, but trust to the engineers; architects are not scientists. Economically, I think the high building is a success; there is money in it; that is the unfortunate fact in regard to it.

J. I. Healey, of the Healey Iron Works: "If we are going to use metal there is only one kind to use for durability, that is cast-iron. Cast-iron does not rust like wrought iron or steel, because it is more homogeneous, has a closer grain; the rust is all on the outside and does not eat in as it does into the porous wrought iron and steel. We have experimented with all three, exposing them to the air, burying them in the ground and putting them in pickle, and cast-iron always stood these tests best. The cast-iron column has also an advantage from being cast in one piece, while the steel column is made up of a great many pieces riveted together, and it is at these joints that the danger of rusting lies. If a steel column could be cast as we do the cast-iron column in one piece it would be a better article. The trouble with the wrought iron and steel columns, whether square, phœnix or Z, will come where they are put together. Rust will form there and, acting like frost, will lift the parts, take off the rivet-heads and so weaken the column and let the building down. The cast-iron column is made in one solid piece and as it is cheaper than steel it is given more metal to get the strength. When once set in position it would not matter if all the bolts with which it was originally held in place were taken out, it would not move. The result of the care taken to have everything extra thick and heavy when using cast-iron is that so much metal is put into the column that it would take a thousand years to rust it out, even if it was not painted at all. Then the question of the material used comes in, the best cast-iron is equally as good as inferior wrought iron. We have had cast-iron that would stand a test of 30,000 pounds, which was as much as poor wrought iron would do. As to the objection that cast-iron will not stand a cross-strain, I do not claim that it will, but the objection would be only applicable in the case of a very narrow and very high building. My opinion of the high building generally is that it is a mistake, I mean, of course, the building of twenty stories, and I think we will get over it in a very short time because of the questions of safety and economy that will arise in regard to them. I think ten stories should be the limit of height of a building in any of the streets of our city."

Mr. R. H. Robertson: "It is rather difficult to say what will be the durability of iron in high buildings because they have not been up long enough to test it. The use of wrought work has also brought in new elements because it rusts more easily and disintegrates much more rapidly, but I believe that if all the constructional parts are properly painted and protected and the exterior walls kept thoroughly painted the life of the building will be without limit for all practical purposes. At all times great care must be taken to keep dampness from getting through the walls, and this can be done by thorough painting better than in any other way. Regarding the two materials I prefer cast-iron for many reasons, except where there are enormously concentrated loads, when the use of wrought work is a little safer—the connections can be made more rigid than with cast-iron. I favor the use of cast-iron where possible, not only because it rusts less easily, but also because of its greater power of resistance to fire. It will stand a great deal more heat before it begins to yield. A cast-iron column can become perfectly red hot and still do its work, so long as water does not get at it, without being seriously injured. A made column under the same heat would go to pieces or double up. Of course a (cage construction) building requires to be much more carefully built and much more carefully looked after when it is built. I think some new restrictions might be advantageously made, though

I do not believe that is an important matter, because in my opinion the high building movement will cure itself. There will undoubtedly come a reaction for the reason that people will not be able to get what they want from them. The principal object of the high building is to get above your neighbors for the light and air; if a large number of lots are covered with high buildings one of the main objects of building them will be taken away. Another restriction on high buildings is the elevator requirements. It is very hard to satisfy tenants with the elevator service, and if it is increased it will take up more space in the building than can be afforded. In a general way I am averse to legislation on this matter because, as I have said, I think it will cure itself. If there is anything scientifically wrong in the high building it will be rectified. Legislation will help matters very little, and I think will be unnecessary because of the reaction that will set in against these buildings. Personally, I do not favor the erection of high buildings. They are uninteresting architecturally, and the problem of making anything architecturally interesting and well adapted to the purpose, where every room must be light and where there must be no no dead wall space, where, in short, you have the minimum amount of pier and the maximum amount of glass is a very difficult one. But for these restrictions of course something moumental could be made out of the building.

The New Rapid Transit Commission.

SELECTION OF STAFF ASSISTANTS AND PREPARATION FOR WORK.

The Rapid Transit Commission, as reorganized under the "Chamber of Commerce Act," consists now of Alexander E. Orr, president, and Seth Low, John Claflin, John H. Starin, William Steinway, John H. Inman and the Mayor and Comptroller of New York City. Messrs. Starin, Steinway and Inman were members of the old commission. At the last meeting of the commission William Barclay Parsons was elected chief engineer of the commission and Lewis L. Delafield, secretary. Mr. Parsons, it will be remembered, was the engineer of the old commission for a long time, and during the preparation of the plans for the Broadway-Boulevard underground electric road. He was replaced by State Engineer John Bogart after Samuel Spencer resigned and the board became the undoubted creature of Tammany Hall. The commission has taken offices in the Home Life building, opposite City Hall Park, on Broadway. Its next meeting will be held on Thursday next, June 28, at the new rooms. Some of the new commissioners are declared to be in favor of adopting the Broadway-Boulevard underground electric railroad plan as prepared and once offered for sale by the old board, and after again publicly offering it for sale preparing the proposition for a popular vote at the election on November 6, whether the road shall not be built andowned by the municipality. Whatever the programme of the commission will be will, however, develop at the next meeting. Ex-Corporation Counsel Henry R. Beekman, who prepared the Chamber of Commerce bill, and A. B. Boardman, of the firm of Tracy, Boardman & Platt, have been appointed the legal advisers of the board.

The Third Avenue Bridge and Approaches.

The old 3d avenue bridge over the Harlem was closed for wagon and car travel on Tuesday night, and the temporary bridge to the right was put into use for that purpose. By Thursday noon the Fordham branch of the North Side trolley system was running in a spasmodic way to 129th street, with occasional small mishaps from inequalities in the track and pavement. The other lines made the north side of the bridge their starting point. Contractor Hopper said he wished to test the capacity and practical stability of the temporary bridge a month or so before submitting it to the long strain that would be necessary when he once began to remove the old bridge and construct the new one. Since the article about delay in obtaining possession of the property for the approaches appeared in last Saturday's RECORD AND GUIDE he had been summoned to the Corporation Counsel's office, where plans were discussed and tacitly agreed upon for endeavoring to obtain possession of the private property that will be required for the approaches without awaiting the slow determination of the condemnation proceedings. It was thought that upon direct appeal to the property-owners they would see that it was to their best interests to thus facilitate the work of construction. In this connection, however, Mr. Hopper said an effort was being made to change the lines of one of the approaches on the south side. One of these turns off from 3d avenue to the eastward and curves then to the south, striking 129th street about 250 feet east of 3d avenue. Now there is an elevated railroad and station completely covering 129th street, from 3d to 2d avenue, with posts in the curb lines and drip pans hanging everywhere. Teams and cars from 3d avenue would have to make sharp turns out of 3d avenue and travel the 250 feet under this elevated railroad structure, practically a noisome, dark tunnel, and then make another still more acute turn into the bridge approach. To remedy this it is suggested that a half-circle or horse-shoe curve be laid out from the bridge abutment at 3d avenue and 130th street to the corner of 3d avenue and 129th street. The superiority of such an approach is obvious. All abrupt turns would be avoided, as well as the long detour through the tunnel. The wonder is that this was not made the original plan.

The Building Exhibit.

Secretary Stephen M. Wright, of the Building Trades' Club, of New York, read the notice of THE RECORD AND GUIDE Building Exhibit in last week's issue and a few day's later made the following observations about it to a reporter: "I want to tell you of a little personal experience I had with your exhibit in Brooklyn. I was finishing up an apartment house and as a part of the 'conveniences' there was something I thought I had seen advertised, but when I searched for the advertisement I couldn't find it. Anyway, I made up my mind to go and look over your exhibit to see if there was anything I could adapt with advantage to my house. Well, I went over there and was agreeably surprised to find the very thing I wanted there, all set up and showing its practical operation. I took one of the catalogues and handed it to my plumber and he bought the affair and now it is in my house, and to this day I don't believe the exhibitor knows how I was finally induced to buy his goods."

The exhibit, open all the time, is at Nos. 276 to 282 Washington street, Brooklyn.

Five New Laws for Five New Parks.

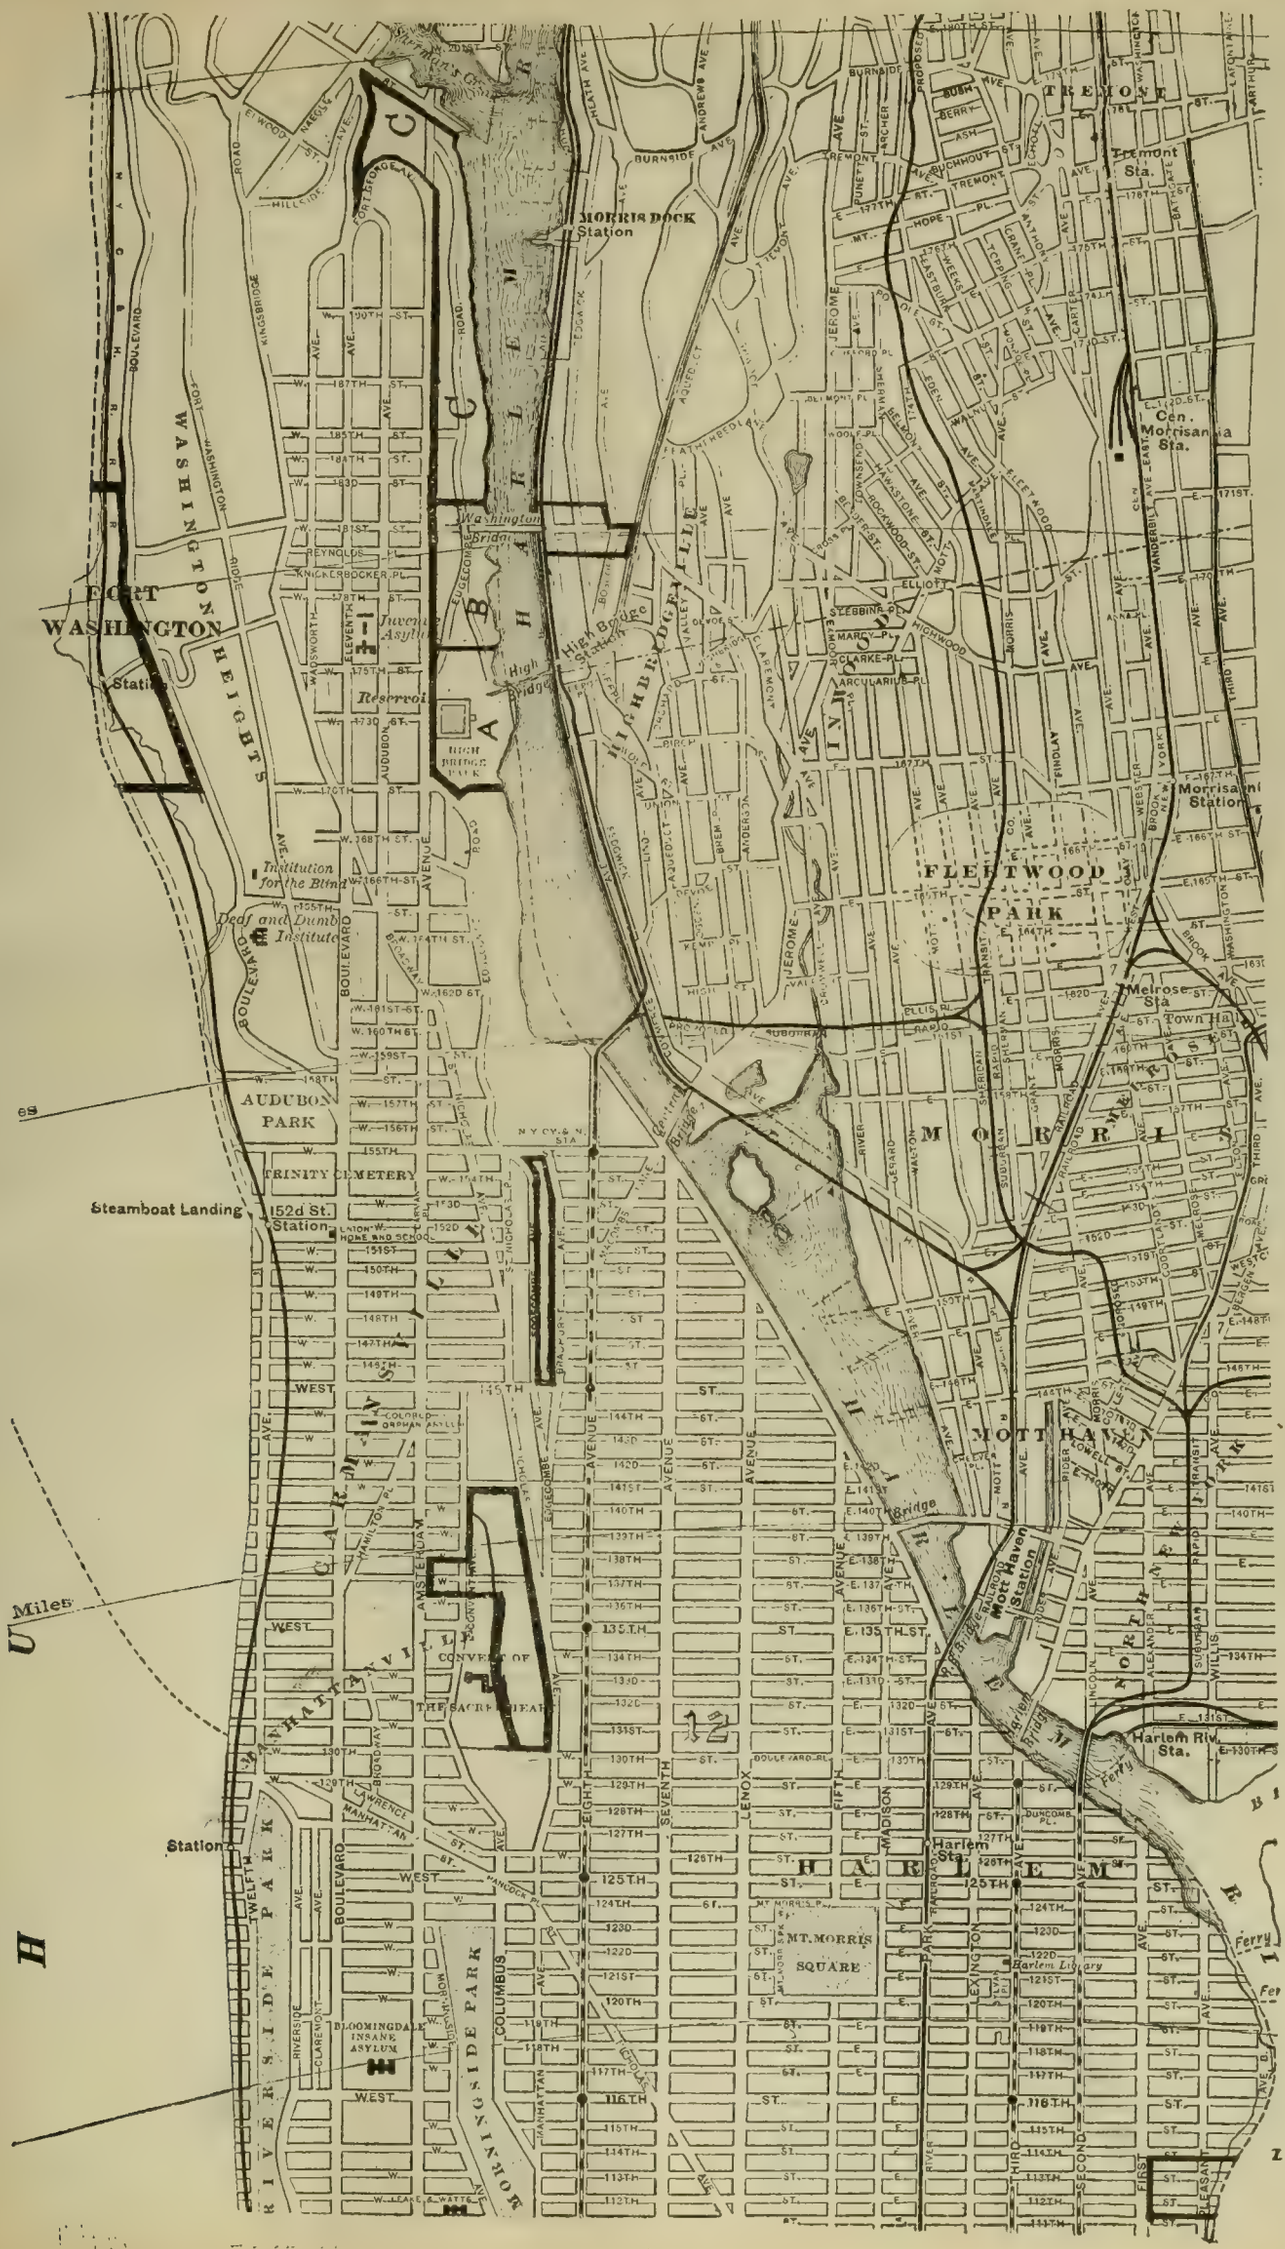
IMPORTANT EXTENSIONS OF THE CITY'S SMALL PARK SYSTEM ORDERED BY THE LAST LEGISLATURE—THEIR LOCATIONS ON THE MAP.

The last Legislature was signally liberal to New York City in the matter of new parks. Bills were passed making it mandatory on the authorities to lay out, construct and pay for no less than five new parks in the 12th Ward, besides extending Riverside Park to the Hudson River bulkhead line, and providing for the completion of that park. The location and boundaries of all these parks are indicated in the accompanying map of that portion of the 12th Ward in which they are all located.

For the most part the lands taken for park purposes would be useless for any other purpose—which seems to have been the reason for proceeding through the Legislature. There was ample authority in the Board of Street Opening and Improvement to have taken any or all of the parcels designated in the various acts for park purposes, but the city authorities for some reason always seem loath to act upon any application for the establishment of a new park, though they interposed no objection to the passage of the bills at Albany requiring them to build these parks.

Singularly, too, one of the parks provided for by the Legislature is part, and the larger part, of a park scheme which was determined upon in Mayor Hewitt's administration, but was annulled as soon as Mayor Grant came into power. Mayor Hewitt's scheme provided for taking all the property between Edgecombe avenue, Amsterdam avenue, Fort George road, 11th avenue, Dyckman street, Harlem River and 155th street for a park, to be known as Fort George Park. Now there are two condemnation proceedings in progress and another in prospect for the taking of parts of this same property. One of them is the Speedway proceeding, and the other is the proceeding by the Washington Bridge Commission for taking the portion marked with a B in the accompanying map. A large part of the lower section of the park laid out by Mayor Hewitt will be taken for the Speedway, and that which remains, it goes without saying, will be greatly enhanced in value by the contemplated improvements.

First among the list of parks provided for by the Legislature was the so-called Colonial Park. It embraces that part of the hill between 145th and 155th streets and Edgecombe and Bradhurst avenues, ten blocks in length by one in width, and consisting for the most part of a nearly perpendicular rocky projection of the hill that rises rapidly toward the west and forms part of Washington Heights. This was ordered by Chapter 56 of the laws of 1894, which requires that the value of the land shall be ascertained by condemnation proceedings, and that it shall be paid for by the proceeds of bonds to be issued for the purpose.



St. Nicholas Park, ordered by Chapter 366 of the laws of 1894, is laid out on Convent Hill, and embraces for the most part the property of the Convent there situated. Its bounds are indicated in the map published herewith. Starting from St. Nicholas avenue and 130th street they follow the line of 130th street westward to St. Nicholas terrace; thence northerly along the line of St. Nicholas terrace to 136th street; thence west to Amsterdam avenue; thence north to 138th street; thence east to Convent avenue; thence north to 141st street; thence east to St. Nicholas avenue, and thence southward to the point of beginning at 130th street. By the provisions of the act this park is to be paid for out of the "Fund for Street and Park Openings" provided for by Chapter 173 of the laws of 1885, as amended, commonly known as the "Small Parks Act."

The third park ordered by the Legislature is the so-called Fort Washington Park, extending along the Hudson River from about 170th street to the lands of James Gordon Bennett, at about 183d street produced, and back to the Western Boulevard. It takes in all the property within these bounds to the bulkhead line in the river, except the property of the N. Y. C. & H. R. R. R. Co., including its station at Fort Washington. This park is also to be paid for out of the Fund for Street and Park Openings.

As to all of the foregoing proceedings the Corporation Counsel has already begun proceedings looking to the condemnation of the properties. As to one of them, there has been an appearance in opposition entered by a property-owner who declares that the laws under which they are forced upon this community are unconstitutional.

Another park, ordered by Chapter 746 of the laws of 1894, is not designated by name. It takes in the blocks between 1st avenue and the East River and 111th and 114th streets. This act is also mandatory in its terms, but the Corporation Counsel has not yet begun proceedings under it. It requires that, after the value of the lands are ascertained by a condemnation commission the Comptroller shall pay for them by an issue of bonds to be paid out of the general taxation.

The fifth and last of the parks ordered by the Legislature is the extension of the High Bridge and Washington Bridge Parks along the Harlem River to Fort George. Chapter 749 of the laws of 1894 is the act under which it is ordered, and its bounds are as indicated in the section of the diagram marked C in the accompanying map. They are, from about the line of 182d street, which is the north boundary of the Washington Bridge Park, along the Harlem River to Dyckman street, thence to 11th avenue, thence to Fort George road, thence to Amsterdam avenue and thence to 182d street, the place of beginning. The act providing for this park directs that when the condemnation commissioners shall have taken their oaths of office, the municipality shall be seized of the lands in fee, and may enter on and take possession of them, the compensation to owners to abide the final results of the condemnation proceedings. This park also is to be paid for out of the Fund for Street and Park Openings. No proceedings have as yet been taken to carry out the provisions of this act.

From the map it will be seen that when all of the pending park proceedings shall have been completed, together with the Speedway, there will be an almost continuous line of parks and driveways from 59th street to Fort George. There is a break between Morningside Park and 130th street, where the new St. Nicholas Park begins, and another between 141st street, the upper end of St. Nicholas Park and 145th street, the lower end of Colonial Park, and these could and in time doubtless will be supplied. From the upper end of Colonial Park, at 155th street, the Speedway begins and follows the course of the Harlem to Dyckman street, above Fort George. The section of Washington Bridge Park lying east of the Harlem, as shown in the map, was purchased from the Ogden estate in 1890. The condemnation proceedings for the portion marked B, in the diagram, are nearly completed and the commissioners will be ready to make their report in the course of a month or so.

Whenever it has been attempted to open a small park in the lower section of the city some effort has been made to require the benefited property to pay a portion of its cost. Sometimes, as in the case of the Mulberry Bend Park, this effort is of an entirely perfunctory character and results in the city paying the whole charge. But it will doubtless be observed that in all of the cases above-mentioned no effort whatever was made to put any part of the cost of the parks on the adjoining property. Doubtless, this accounts for the absence of any protest, up to the present time, against any of the proceedings.

The New York & Putnam Railroad.

IMPROVEMENT IN THE TRAIN-SERVICE ALL ALONG THE LINE BETWEEN 155TH STREET AND BREWSTERS—ALL-NIGHT TRAINS TO AND FROM YONKERS.

The New York & Putnam Railroad is the new name by which the latest Vanderbilt purchase, the New York & Northern Railroad, will hereafter be known. To-day it will begin operating upon a new time schedule, which is designed to give to residents along the line a better train service than the road has ever hitherto known. In addition to the trains run upon the old schedule an all-night service between this city and Yonkers has been established by the running of five additional trains, which leave Yonkers at 12.25, 1.25, 2.25, 3.25 and 4.25 A. M., and leave the 155th street station on the Harlem River for Yonkers and intermediate stations at 1, 2, 3, 4 and 5 A. M. The train which has heretofore left the 155th street station at 1.40 P. M. for Pocantico Hills will leave hereafter at 2 P. M., and run through to Brewsters; this train will make its first run to-day. The 4.33 P. M. train to Pocantico will also be extended to Brewsters, and the 6.13 P. M. train to Pocantico will run hereafter to Lake Mahopac. There will be, of course, the corresponding return train service. The above are the changes in the week-day service. On the Sunday service there will be thirty-one trains each way between 155th street and Yonkers, and six each way between 155th street and Pocantico Hills. The Sunday morning train to Brewsters will leave at 9.15 and return from Brewsters at 5.30, arriving in this city at 7.39. It will make but three stops south of Pocantico Hills. These additions to the facilities for travel through the inviting territory traversed by the New York & Putnam road, and especially between this city and Yonkers, ought to largely increase the demand for the contiguous property for residence purposes. There is no finer, more beautiful, healthful and in every way attractive residence section around New York City than that which lies along the New York & Putnam, and all of it between 155th street and Yonkers is in the City of New York and participates in the advantages of all its public and street improvements and fire and police protection.

Harper's Magazine for July.

The opening pages of the July Harper's, out yesterday, are filled with the first chapters of a new novel by Charles Dudley Warner, called "The Golden House." The scene is laid in New York, and the time is the advanced present. W. T. Smedley contributes some charming pictures which may be called illustrations of New York society, since they indicate the background of the story rather than its incidents.

Besides this and several other illustrated articles, one of them a graphic description of the Harvard and Yale Boat Race, by W. A. Brooks, of the '85 Harvard crew, with pictures by C. D. Gibson, there are six good short stories in the July Harper's, although no announcement is made that this is a fiction number. "Specimen Jones" is one of Owen Wister's most successful studies of the Southwest; "The Evening Party," by Grace King, is a sketch of New Orleans life with a wide application; "Ebb and Flow," by Eva Anstruther, touches on the changing social conditions of England; "Un Mauvais Quart d'Heure" is a bright summer sketch by Charles Stanley Reinhart, who has illustrated it with his own drawings; "Before the Break of Day," another "Vignette of Manhattan," by Brander Matthews, gives a glimpse of life in New York's great East Side; and "In Fly-Time," by Robert Grant, is a humorous Fourth-of-July tale of a New England farm, with pictures by C. D. Gibson.

Obituary.

ROBERT L. DARRAGH.

Mr. Robert L. Darragh, long in the foremost rank among the builders of this city, died at his home in the Chelsea, in West 23d street, on Tuesday. His death was not unexpected and came as a welcome relief from sufferings. Mr. Darragh was born in this city in 1825, of Scotch-Irish parentage. He was trained from the most elementary stage in the building craft, learning first the bricklayer's trade, but soon starting into construction on his own account. His operations cover a period of over forty years and embrace the construction of some of the most notable buildings in the city. Among the number are the Boreel building, the Liverpool, London and Globe building, the Evening Post building, the Dalhousie Flat building, the Munro building in Rose street, the addition to the Tribune building, the Lincoln Safe Deposit building in 42d street, the Vanderbilt houses between 51st and 52d streets, the Standard Oil Company building in lower Broadway, the Telephone building in Cortlandt street, the Greenwich Savings Bank building, the Corn Exchange Bank building at Beaver and William streets, and the Home Life Insurance building, now practically completed, on Broadway opposite City Hall Park. He also did the mason-work on the Hotel Waldorf. For a time Mr. Darragh took quite an interest in local politics and served a term as Alderman, and for some years as a member of the Croton Water Board. Among his colleagues in the building trades he was very popular and his death will deprive many of them of a warm personal friend. He was deeply interested in the movement for the organization of the Building Trades Exchange and a subscriber to its building fund. The malady from which he died seized him some months ago and had lately begun to affect his brain to such an extent that steps had been taken by members of his family to put him under legal restraint. These had not reached a conclusion when he died. The funeral, which was held on Thursday, from the Westminster Presbyterian Church, in 23d street, was attended by a large representation of his former friends in the building trades. In conformity with the wishes of the deceased his body was taken to Fresh Pond, L. I., and cremated.

FORECLOSURE—BROKER'S COMMISSION.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

I would thank you to answer on the following questions as soon as possible: A buys a tenement house of B and receives a warrantee deed as to title. A has the house a short time and then sells it at a profit to C. When the time has come to pass title, C's attorneys reject the title on the ground that some years previous the property had been sold under foreclosure, and one of the heirs of the foreclosed owner (deceased) being an alien non-resident, he was not made a party to the foreclosure, and consequently C's attorneys claimed the alien heir's right had never been acquired, and it was now necessary to procure from said heir Q. C. deed. This took ten months to get and at an expense of $500. C would not then take title, and demanded and received the return of his deposit money. The question is, can A demand damages from B under his warrantee deed? (2.) A, living in New Jersey, owns two tenement houses in New York, and B, a broker, gets the sale of them at $15,000 each, and then gets a buyer to offer $13,000 each, whereupon A says I will not sell them for less than $14,000 each, at which price others on the row recently sold for. B, the broker, then gets an offer of $14,000 each and goes over to Jersey with blank contracts to make arrangements for signing. A then says, I want time to think this over (not the price, because I accept that), but how to arrange for the contract and signing of the papers, as I do not often transact such business and don't want to be hastened. There was nothing further to be done, so Broker B went home and waited a few days until he received a letter from A stating I made the mistake of setting the price at $14,000, and I will not sell under $16,000 each. This price is, of course, out of question, and I think that my commission has been earned. I have since sold my party another house on the same row, but he is also still ready to buy these two at $14,000 each.

Answer.—(1) He may recover whatever reasonable expense he has been put to, to make the title good. (2) We also think that your commission was fully earned.—LAW EDITOR.

AS TO BUILDING PERMITS.

BROOKLYN, June 20, 1894.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Will you have the kindness to inform me on following questions: How many permits are necessary for erection and completion of a building, including those which must be obtained for blocking street, etc.? How and with what expenses are they obtained? Whose business is it to obtain them, owner or contractor? State rules, please. Who has the sole agency for "Imperial Brand Tracing Cloth?"

ROBERT T. BUTTELMANN.

Answer.—It is the all but universal custom of the building trades for the contractor to procure the permits. He has first to secure the permit of the Building Department, which is issued without charge on the filing of the plans. Then he must pay the water tax and secure a permit for connecting with the water main and for depositing material on the sidewalk. A small fee is required for making the connection—about $3. We do not know who has the agency for the tracing cloth inquired for.

The effect of the unusually hot weather has been to increase the dullness in real estate that has characterized the market for several weeks. The sales by private contract include a few of special importance but have been chiefly of parcels of moderate value. They indicate no favoritism on the part of purchasers for any particular locality, the properties disposed of being fairly representative of all sections of the city. A surprisingly large number of "deals" involving valuable parcels are said to be under way, and in several instances really are pending, with every probability of being successfully negotiated. Embryonic transactions do not, however, make a market be they never so promising.

James L. Wells held a successful sale on the ground on Saturday of another section of the Vyse estate, comprising fifty-two lots on the Southern Boulevard, Hoe, Vyse, Horne, Bryant and Longfellow streets. They realized an average price of $900.

The week's auctions at both salesrooms attracted good-sized audiences. The properties, however, were of a very ordinary character. The offerings at public auction fared badly, with two exceptions—the principal one being the sale of William street property by Richard V. Harnett & Co., on Tuesday. It was readily bid for and purchased at $28,000. It was probably the last public sale of the season in the Real Estate Exchange.

The legal sales at No. 111 Broadway did not fail to secure attention from bargain hunters, and eight of the parcels offered under foreclosure during the week were purchased by operators and investors who, as a rule, succeeded in buying at low figures.

On Monday James L. Wells failed to secure a satisfactory bid on two lots on the west side of 3d avenue, 110 feet south of 172d street, and they were withdrawn from sale.

William Kennelly offered the residence, No. 121 East 38th street, on Tuesday. It was bid in at $34,600. At the Real Estate Exchange Richard V. Harnett, on the same day, withdrew from sale the leasehold property, No. 226 East 18th street. The highest bid received was $5,505. B. L. Kennelly adjourned sine die Nos. 336 and 338 East 98th street, announced to be sold under a foreclosure of a mechanic's lien.

On Wednesday Lalor Bros. offered the residence No. 1113 Madison avenue, and bid it in for the owner at $20,400. B. L. Kennelly adjourned for one week an executor's sale of Nos. 1137 to 1141 Madison avenue, and adjourned sine die the similarly announced sale of No. 60 East 60th street. D. P. Ingraham & Co. adjourned until July 17 a foreclosure sale of five parcels forming a plot 200x150 feet, on the east side of Broadway or Kingsbridge road, 405.1 south of Sherman avenue. A foreclosure sale of Nos. 433 to 441 East 48th street was adjourned sine die by John T. Boyd.

On Thursday Richard V. Harnett & Co. withdrew from sale on a bid of $20,000, by order of the assignee, Nos. 240 and 242 West 68th street, and foreclosure sales of No. 138 West 87th street and 319 10th avenue were withdrawn by D. P. Ingraham & Co. and William Kennelly respectively, and the announcement made of the settlement of both suits. Richard V. Harnett & Co. offered on the Real Estate Exchange at trustee's sale, the southeast corner of East 11th and Dry Dock streets, 72x89.6. It was bid in by Isaac Druenberg the trustee, for $100 over a mortgage for $20,000 and accumulated interest.

A prominent auctioneer and broker expressed himself very forcibly a day or two ago regarding the harm that has resulted from unreliable reports that for some time past have made their appearance at regular intervals in the columns of some of the daily papers. Indefinite rumors, he conceded, could work no material injury to the market. But ill-advised reports of alleged sales, involving valuable parcels, he claimed, had more than once of late proved seriously detrimental. His contention was that purchases are so frequently made with the intention of building improvement that owners of adjacent or nearby real estate often refuse to entertain offers in view of the possibility of the rumored sales being effected and the probable enhancement of their holdings in the event of its being closed. In fact it is difficult to convince them that where there is so much smoke there can be an utter absence of fire. He had noticed that the rumors in question are seldom positively contradicted, even when their falsity is apparent on slight investigation. If again referred to at all by the papers responsible for their circulation they are usually given but a line or two of equivocal denial.

Judge Ingraham's decision rendered last March confirming the referee's sale of the de Logerot property, on the southwest corner of 5th avenue and 18th street, to Dowling & Flake, of the New York Realty Co., and Henry Morgenthau, has been sustained by the appellate court.

REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE AND AUCTION ROOM.

The following statement has been mailed to the holders of stock in the Exchange:

NEW YORK, June 15, 1894.

TO THE STOCKHOLDERS OF THE REAL ESTATE EXCHANGE AND AUCTION ROOM (LIMITED).

GENTLEMEN—The treasurer's accounts for the six months ending May 15, 1894, show a net balance in hand, amounting to $9,129.29, being over one and three-quarters per cent (1¾ per cent) on the capital stock of the corporation for the past six months. Your directors, however, are of opinion, that owing to the expenditure for repairs and improvements to the building, amounting to about $3,000, that the better course is to carry the balance forward and to defer the payment of a dividend. Your directors believe that this course will meet with the approval of the stockholders.

A statement of the financial condition of the Exchange is herewith inclosed. Yours respectfully,

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

We learn from a reliable source that C. E. Harrell has negotiated for the Peter Cooper estate, a lease of the easterly block front on 4th avenue, between 27th and 28th streets, to the American Lithographic Co., for a term of twenty-one years, with two renewals, at $70,000 per annum. The property is to be improved by the estate, which is having plans prepared for an eight-story fire-proof building, to be erected at a cost of about $500,000, for occupancy by the lessee. It is understood that although the negotiations have been closed, no lease has yet been signed, owing to the fact that the specifications for the new structure, which are now being corrected, are to be incorporated in the agreement. Abram S. Hewitt, the executor of the Cooper estate, and President Knapp, of the lithographic company, have been interviewed, but beyond acknowledging that the lease was under consideration, each gentleman declined to give any particulars for publication or to admit that the arrangement had been entered into. The old Cooper mansion, on the corner of 28th street, is to be taken down and will be removed and re-erected on Mr. Hewitt's property at Ringwood, N. J. It formerly occupied part of the site of the Cooper Institute and was one of the original Stuyvesant houses. When the late Peter Cooper decided to build the institute, he had the old mansion carefully taken apart and it was re-erected on its present site, under his personal direction.

Rumors are in circulation that the sale of the Presbyterian Church property in West 34th street has at last been concluded, and that Neil Burgess, the actor, has secured sufficient adjoining property to give him a frontage of 100 feet on 34th street and 125 feet on 33d street, upon which he will forthwith proceed to build a big theatre and studio building, which will be ready for formal opening in November. Mr. John H. Wood, one of the trustees of the church society, says, however, that the sale of the property has not yet been concluded. They are awaiting daily a decision from the courts in an amicable proceeding brought to test the present liability of the trustees under some very old restrictions, which liability would not in any event exceed the sum of $2,000 per lot. When that decision is rendered the trustees expect Mr. Steiner, the purchaser of the property, to pay up and take title. After that, it is possible, Neil Burgess may become the owner. For the present, however, Mr. Burgess is under no contract obligations in the matter.

Douglas Robinson & Co. have sold for Louis Blun to Mrs. J. Russell Soley No. 70 East 54th street, a four-story stone front dwelling, 18.9 x55x100.5, for $26,000.

William J. Roome has sold for the estate of James H. Brush the lot, 25x100, No. 449 West 54th street, to Mrs. Ellen O'Neill, for $8,000; and for the same estate a lot, 50x53x about 50x62.6, on the south side of 47th street, 350 feet west of 11th avenue, to E. A. Ludin, for $4,500.

Richard M. Montgomery has sold to Builder John R. Downey, No. 146 West 46th street, a lot, 20.6x100, upon which the purchaser will erect a stable. The same broker has sold for Sarah R. Belden to James N. Jarvie, No. 19 Burling slip and No. 186 Front street, for $41,000. The plots form an "L" fronting 20 feet on Burling slip, x68.6x84.2 to Front street, x21.3x64.5x44.4.

E. A. Cruikshank & Co. have sold to Jefferson M. Levy the five-story brick tenement, No. 18 West street, lot 26.8x90, for $37,000.

B. Goodman has sold for Mrs. H. A. Goodman to Mrs. Elizabeth M. Hockhausen, of Brooklyn, No. 385 2d avenue, a four-story brick store and tenement, lot 25x64, for $21,200.

Charles Martin has sold for B. Westenfelder, No. 123 West 38th street, front and rear tenements, on lot 26x100, to George Walker, for $22,[illegible].

Hiram Merritt has sold for R. R. Haydock No. 212 East 12th street, 20x103, for $18,250.

J. W. Kelly has sold for Henry Rice the three-story dwelling, No. 456 West 43d street, to James Aylward.

Goldman & Rosansky have sold for P. Lowenfield, No. 232 East Broadway and No. 221 Division street, 23.10x113, to S. Padway, for $36,500; and for W. A. Murray, No. 26 Rutgers street, 25x85, to Mrs. Bridget Bannon, for $18,000.

Hammond & Gruet have sold for J. J. Schwartz the three-story brick tenement, No. 269 West 10th street, 21x48.6x23.8x42.5 to Hermann Thalman.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

Benj. I. H. Trask sold for $200,000 the plot, 100.8x153.4, on the northeast corner of 5th avenue and 90th street, and the three lots, 76.8x100, on the south side of 91st street, 127.9 east of 5th avenue, comprising the nine lots purchased by him at the Lasak estate sale on May 31st, for $181,000. We understand that Richard V. Harnett & Co. were the brokers.

J. Romaine Brown has purchased of Michael Howe the plot, 49.10x 68.8x61.4x75, with buildings, on the east side of Amsterdam avenue, 50.1 north of 160th street, extending through to St. Nicholas avenue, for $25,000. Charles Griffith Moses was the broker.

The Markets of the World.

Too many of us do not even know where "the markets of the world" are apart from such centres as New York and Chicago and Denver. The character of foreign peoples, their languages and their peculiarities of taste or customs are all a sealed book to us, even when they occupy portions of our own continent. There is perhaps no maker of wooden shoes in the remotest hamlet of Europe who does not know that his wares are not suited to the United States, but the shipment on a venture of refrigerators from this country to points on the equator, where ice is unknown, has been undertaken as a piece of good business. A United States consul at a small seaport in Brazil, who was asked by his government to report whether he had seen any American files in that country, replied that he had, but that the only use the people had found for files was to drive them into a wall for hat-pegs or something of the kind. Doubtless the manufacturers of these goods, and of many others which have been shipped to Spanish America from our country, are now convinced that it would be a waste of time to try again to sell to people so ignorant. It might be well, as a first step, to learn on whose side the greater ignorance lies.

The most amazing mistake of all is the idea that the congress at Washington can legislate our products into the hands of buyers abroad who may not even know that we have a congress, and without any effort on the part of the producers. Robert J. Walker, coming from an agricultural state to the treasury portfolio, in 1845, was much impressed with the idea of legislation to extend the exports of farm products. In his official estimates he predicted an annual increase in such exports of almost 50 per cent per year. The fact was that the American exports of articles of food, under the policy he advocated, declined steadily in value from $68,000,000, in 1846-47, to $21,948,000, in 1850-51. We have been scarcely more successful in legislating manufactures into the export column. Under section 3 of the McKinley bill the President of the United States entered into reciprocal arrangements with various countries, whereby such tariff concessions were secured in our behalf as to alarm certain English manufacturers, and to lead to a demand in parliament that the interests of Englishmen be similarly looked out for. Whether any increased efforts on the part of American exporters followed the "reciprocity" arrangement is not known, but the official figures show that no remarkable increase has been made in the values of United States manufactures shipped to the countries involved.—Engineering Magazine.

NUISANCE.

To the Editor of THE RECORD AND GUIDE:

Please answer the following questions: (1) Is a factory considered a nuisance in this City of Brooklyn? Especially when the smoke-stack sends clouds of bad smelling, unhealthy smoke up in the early morning (starting the fire I presume at about 7 o'clock), and later in the day the steam (exhaust) pipe keeps the adjoining lots (my garden included) wet all day by dripping water, etc., and spoiling the wash when hung in the garden for drying purposes. (2) What steps must I take to have matters improved? (3) Must a factory smoke-stack be built a certain height?

Answer.—Adjoining owners may so consider it, but their opinion does not necessarily make it such in the eyes of the law. What is called the ordinary covenant against nuisances in a deed enumerates the following: "Slaughter house, brewery, distillery, smith shop, forge, furnace, steam engine, brass foundry, nail or other iron factory, or any manufactory of soap, candles, starch, gunpowder, glue, varnish, vitriol, cork or turpentine, or for the tanning, dressing or preparing skins, hides or leather, or a bone-boiling establishment, or a cow, or a livery stable, or cattle yard or hog pen." But such a covenant only relates to an agreement between private parties; these occupations are all lawful, though for the establishment of some of them within the city permits must be obtained. However, any factory may be so conducted as to be a nuisance, and that seems to be your case. Your remedy is to sue for an injunction, restraining the continuance of the acts of which you complain. (3) No.—LAW EDITOR.

As announced in last Saturday's RECORD AND GUIDE, the outing will take the form of an excursion in the big iron steamboat Cepheus on the Long Island Sound, to Roton Point and return, with music, and dancing for those who wish it, on the way, and a fine shore dinner (something like a clam-bake, only made suitable for hotel service) at the hotel, with bathing, boating and picnicing afterward, for which there are excellent facilities. Secretary Stephen M. Wright, who is managing the thing, says: "From the large number of tickets already disposed of, it is safe to assume that the 28th inst. will be a day of cessation from 'figuring,' and one when the general contractors will 'let up' on their 'subs,' and all devote themselves to a day of recreation with their associates and friends." The Cepheus will leave from the foot of 23d street, East River, at 9.30 sharp. Tickets for gentleman and lady may be had on application to Mr. Wright, at the Building Trades' Club House, 117 East 23d street, at $5 each; extra ladies' tickets, $2 each.

Owing to the success of the "Peerless Heater," as managed by Geo. H. Bell & Co., of 41 Dey street, New York, it was deemed expedient by the owners to form a stock company, which was completed on May 27th The simplicity and cheapness of the heater, together with the fact that it answers for both steam and hot-water heating, places it first in the market, and as a result the factory is behind with their orders. The incorporation will be in such shape for the future as will facilitate the prompt execution of all orders which the popularity of the "Peerless Heater" deserves.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, JUNE 23, 1894.

Too Fast Expansion, Too Slow Development.

PEOPLE who have been watching the course of building operations in Brooklyn in recent years must have noted a creditable improvement in the general character of the buildings erected. True, there have been great advances in recent years in the methods and materials of construction and Brooklyn would naturally be expected to realize some of the benefits of these improvements, but beyond all this the houses and stores and churches and factories and even public buildings that have been erected in Brooklyn in recent years are not only superior in architectural expression, but are also more substantially and durably constructed than was the case apparently half a century ago.

But this is the aspect of things in a comparison of the new districts with the old, and herein is a fault which for the general good of the city cannot be too speedily corrected. Our building operators and investors have been so intent upon expansion that they have overlooked the more important matter of development. If one were to ask a well-posted real estate broker where the areas of greatest activity in building are he would indicate the outskirts of the city. This is so. Along the extended lines of the elevated and trolley railroads there has been a great deal of building, and the city has grown and expanded over much new territory. The result of all this is not entirely unsatisfactory, for the suburbs of the city are bright and fresh and cheerful with their sharp encroachments of new blocks and improved streets upon the surrounding agricultural lands and groves.

While this is so, however, the older parts of the city have been neglected—sadly neglected, so that in a measure the city, in its entirety, suggests a pear or apple which, though bright and enticing on the surface, is decaying at the core. In the Wallabout section, on "The Heights," in South Brooklyn, and well out along the lines of Fulton street, Atlantic avenue, Broadway, and in their side streets there are large areas where the property is rapidly falling into decay. Built up from forty to nearly a hundred years ago, when they were the outskirts of the city, they passed their prime years ago and entered upon a decline which has been continuous ever since. Even with all the refitting and "modern improvements" that could be crowded into these old buildings they cannot compete, with their low, gloomy basements, scanty conveniences and poorly-arranged rooms, with the houses of recent construction.

Too small for practical rearrangement into orderly, well-kept flats, these old houses have nothing about them, not even low rents, to attract single families. The consequence is that they become the lowest of tenements, reeking with a mixture of all kinds of foreigners and huddled at night with sleepers in every room. Once a neighborhood gets going that way, about the only thing that can be done with it is to wait for the fires that providentially come and remove the old buildings, and then build factories, stables or other business structures on the sites.

But there are some of these neighborhoods that are within easy access of the ferries and bridge, and the business centre as well, that are particularly adapted to residence uses. The houses are mostly of frame and of small capacity. The income that is derived from them only pays taxes and a low rate of interest upon low valuations. The valuations are low because the income is low.

Herein lies the builders' opportunities and our suggestion. It is that instead of continuing to expand, Brooklyn should direct her attention deliberately and steadfastly to development; that the builders and investors should address themselves toward the rebuilding of the older sections of the city. Of all the lots in the sections above referred to not less than 25 per cent and probably half could be rebuilt with profit and to the great advantage of the city. Brooklyn builders have not hitherto been slow to see the lines upon which New York builders have profitably conducted their operations and to take advantage of them, but they seem to have overlooked the most significant movement in the Metropolis in recent years. That is, the rebuilding movement. For three years, or over, this movement has employed a larger number of men than operations on new territory have, and with larger profits to the builders and operators. Neither has all of it, by any means, been confined to business structures. There is and always will be a demand for dwellings in and near the business centre and in easy reach of the ferries. The districts of this description that are now occupied by old and old-fashioned frame houses, from which $15 to $20 rental per month is obtained only with difficulty, is the legitimate field for such rebuilding operations—and an inviting one. Remove those old buildings and on their foundations construct roomy single-family flat houses of three or four stories, and the income of the property would be increased four or five fold. Instead of paying 5 per cent net on the present market value, they would pay 15 per cent net upon the new valuation. The new building law offers a reason for operations in this direction. Under its operation the general character of all kinds of building promises to improve greatly. Where it was formerly possible to run up tinder boxes of the most fragile description, that will be no longer allowable; so that the fear of encroachment by inferior buildings is no longer threatening the builder who desires to do good work. Besides, the city will cease to be attractive in any part ere long unless something is done to redeem the older sections.

Notes Gathered Here and There.

Notice is given that the assessment roll in the following entitled matter has been completed and placed in the hands of the Collector of Taxes and Assessments for collection: Sewer map J, district 22, Mill street, between Henry and Hicks streets.

Notice is given that the Common Council has declared by resolution its intention to repave Clark street, from Fulton street to Columbia Heights, with asphalt pavement; also to repave Orange street, from Henry street to Columbia Heights, where not already done, with asphalt pavement; and to grade and repave 8th avenue, from Union to President street. Objections must be filed with the Clerk of the Common Council on or before the 16th day of July.

Justice Cullen handed down a decision affirming the award of $95,000 made by the commissioners appointed to fix the amount of damages to the Brooklyn Savings Bank building, on the corner of Fulton and Concord streets, owing to a portion of it being taken for the new approach to the Brooklyn Bridge. The matter came up to confirm the report of the commissioners and was opposed by the Bridge Trustees on the ground that the award was excessive and based on a wrong basis of computation.

* * * *

At the meeting of the Board of Aldermen, on Monday, a petition was received from the Municipal Electric Light Company for permission to extend its system, and offering $20,000 for the privilege. The company wishes to extend its system throughout the entire city, or such part of it as it may select. The matter was referred to the Lamps and Gas Committee and ordered printed in the minutes.

* * * *

At the same meeting, the report of the Committee on Water and Drainage in favor of granting the Department of City Works $135,608 for water distribution extension was adopted.

* * * *

Mayor Schieren is of the opinion that the tax rate this year will not be so high as he at one time feared. He has found that in one item alone of bonds aggregating $2,300,000 there is an excess of $500,000 now in the sinking fund, and this money can be utilized towards reducing the rate.

* * * *

At a meeting of the Shore Road Driveway Commission held in the Mayor's office on Wednesday evening, it was decided to carry the Shore Road along the water front up to 65th street. The northern terminus was fixed at 68th street. The president and secretary of the commission were authorized to confer with the proper authorities with a view of having 68th street widened and straightened.

The last sale this year for property in arrears for taxes was held on Wednesday last, in the City Hall, by Registrar of Arrears Hinrichs. The lots in the East Side lands, except those in which the city is interested, were disposed of. A clear title was guaranteed by the Registrar. The sale closed with the 26th Ward. The Litchfield property, being in litigation, was held over.

Several of the leading property-owners of New Utrecht have signed a petition that has been handed to Justice Gaynor, for the appointment of a commission to inquire into the opening and grading of streets in the town. It is claimed that an excessive expenditure of money has already been made, and that the Street Opening Commissioners have far exceeded their authority.

Ryan, of Bay Ridge, has the building contract.

The Litchfield Estate Must Pay Its Taxes.

Judge Lacombe, of the United States Circuit Court, has decided the injunction suit brought by the estate of Edward H. Litchfield to restrain the sale of its real estate for back taxes in favor of the city. There is upwards of $900,000 of back taxes due to the city by this estate, some of which has run over forty years. Judge Lacombe says, in his decision, the only recourse of the estate is to pay the taxes and then institute an action against the Registrar of Arrears for any excessive payments it may have made. Register Hinrichs said, yesterday, that he had adjourned the sales of taxes until October, and the estate would therefore have until then to square up. Had he anticipated so early a decision he would have held the sales open a few weeks longer. The Litchfield estate owes about a third of the whole amount of arrears.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET.

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—Receivers do not appear to find anything to comfort them in the general character of the market. All of them we came in contact with on 'Change this week were grumbling, some with greater depth and power than others, according to temperament and selection of language, and none appeared to have any special hope for early improvement. There is rather more consumption taking place, and if one hunts about the city some jobs can be found where a goodly number of brick are going into foundations, piers, etc., but nevertheless the demand for cargoes gets no stimulus sufficient to balance the offerings and there is steadily an accumulation on hand from which a greater amount of custom could be promptly met if it would only put in an appearance. Arrivals have not been particularly liberal, but generally enough to leave a dozen or so barge loads unsold, and the average of quality has proven somewhat better. Prices generally stand at about the former general range, but top figures are pretty difficult to obtain, especially on pales. Reports from along the river indicate that with the improvement in weather conditions production has been pushed along rather more freely, and made a very good quality. The rumors of contemplated strikes do not appear to have received verification.

LATH.—Supplies of late have not been as large as earlier in the season. Yet they seem to have proven more depressing in character, and rates have shaded to the lowest level yet reached, with sales at $1.75 per M, and quotations ranging from that up to $1.90, according to quantity and the anxiety of buyers. One cause for the present tameness is probably in the fact that from time to time a great many lath have been placed, until now dealers, both local and outside, are well stocked and feel indifferent toward additions.

LIME.—The more promising indications to which we have referred for a week or two past have finally culminated in higher value on Eastern and the rates are now advanced to 90c. and $1 respectively on Common and Finishing. Demand has no great amount of life but it is better than it was, and the accumulation of old stock has become finally disposed of. Some fresh arrivals are taking place but only just about as wanted, and the plan at the kilns just now is to ship for three days and stop, the loading being from accumulated supplies and no fresh production taking place.

LUMBER.—It seems almost useless to waste space or tax patience by going into any extended review of the local lumber market at this time. The previous small line of trading has become still further reduced through seasonable influences which usually induce the postponement of deals until after "the 4th," and very little natural demand now prevails for any of the coarse woods, the business in bulk lots being confined to small and odd parcels, and probably most of them bargains. Fortunately, however, the general line of offerings has been of moderate character as the casual salesmen have nearly all disappeared and a great many resident operators abstain from soliciting custom except in a perfunctory way.

The absence of efforts to secure custom is very natural under the present state of trade, but many agents who have carefully looked over the situation have an idea it will do them no harm to wait. Dealers and manufacturers commence to appreciate that the year is half gone, and so far as cheap transportation is concerned the short end of the season upon them, and as local accumulations will require a great deal of filling out to shape matters up for winter, negotiations ought to expand soon. Buyers furthermore understand that cost has in the majority of cases been cut down to hard pan, and that instead of further modification of the value line the policy will be to curtail production.

Hardwoods generally continue simply moderately active. Of the thoroughly staple grades sales can now and then be made as even the exceedingly light consumption at the moment does not deter dealers and manufacturers from securing a good parcel of stock when they can get it right. Salesmen, however, are less plenty than a few weeks ago, and offerings are likely to prove limited until time for the fall campaign. Accounts received from primal points indicate that there is not likely to be many extensive offerings until the market is better prepared to receive the goods, and no further shadings on cost are expected. Some good-sized parcels of stock have recently been exported from this port on through shipments.

The National Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association, to which we have from time to time made reference, continues its rapid growth, with corresponding promise of success and usefulness. Permanent headquarters have been established at No. 18 Broadway, in this city, in charge of Mr. H. M. Clarke, secretary, a gentleman whose genial disposition and high qualifications for his office insures thorough work in carrying out the plans of the organization. At the last meeting the following committees were appointed:

Committee on Admission and Membership.—N. M. Darr, chairman, Tonawanda, N. Y.; W. B. Kibbee, Albany, N. Y.; E. H. Coane, Philadelphia, Pa; E. B. Foss, Bay City, Mich.; J. B. Thomas, Ford, Ky.; R. B. GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

THE WEST.

From Northwestern Lumberman we extract the following:

The main cause of hesitation about purchasing is some remaining doubt about prices. The country yard men generally think that there is to be a weaker spot in the market than has yet been disclosed. The manufacturers are determined to hold prices firmly against a further decline. The trade should keep in view prevailing and prospective conditions. They should not forget that the mills in the northern half of the producing field are about thirty days behind in their season's operations. The log input was less this year than usual, and the mill output is sure to be less than in any one of recent years. Should there be a fair demand soon in prosbect the manufacturers may be able to prevent the collapse in values which some predict.

A more quite June in lumbering has not been recorded since the war on the Saginaw river. There is very little life in manufacturing, and none to speak of in the market. None of the woodworking industries outside of the saw mills are being crowded, and only two or three are employing anything like full crews. Orders for box and house building material are light. Usually June is one of the busiest months in the year, but the trade has not yet got on its feet.

Lumbermen here are sending protests to Washington against putting dressed lumber on the free list, and Senator McMillan will endeavor to secure an amendment to the schedule restoring the duty on dressed lumber, but it is not believed that he will succeed. If the bill goes through, Michigan lumbermen will put up saw mills, with planing mills and box factories in connection in job lots, in Canada within a year, and very few logs will be rafted across the lake after next year. It is predicted that if this bill goes through, that in five years there will not be a saw mill running on the Saginaw river, unless it be a small concern or two cutting for the local trade, and it will also wipe out the Huron shore industry. At least this is the pessimistic view of the matter, and the other side is non-committal.

In Chicago receipts at the market during the week were light and consisted of a few straggling cargoes arriving from various points, generally including various sorts and lengths of piece stuff, timber, lath and shingles. There has been little life in business, though the yard dealers are manifesting more interest and are inquiring more frequently for special lots. There is some talk of putting up the price 25 cents a thousand, but the proposition had not taken definite form, or at least no transaction at an advance had been reported. Short green piece stuff was still quoted at $9 a thousand, cargoes with percentages of long lengths up to 30 per cent at $9.25 to $9.50, and dry short lengths at $9.50. Slimjims are worth about $10, with 25 to 50 cents a thousand added where the tally runs strong to something very desirable.

In a general way there is a better feeling regarding poplar, but this is not occasioned by any particular increase in the demand. Trade in the east is fair, but in sections affected by the coal strike consumption is very light. Prices remain about the same as heretofore, but the opinion seems to be gaining ground that small stocks are pretty well cleaned up, leaving the available supply in strong hands. This is an element of strength in the market which will make itself felt just as soon as the demand begins to improve.

The supply of logs which came down on the recent tides was much lighter than had been expected, and several of the mills which started up in the expectation that logs were on the way are again idle. One of the larger manufacturers states that he has not got out 12 per cent of his 1894 logs and has only enough in sight to run two weeks longer. Others are more fortunately situated, but at best the log supply this season will be light.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

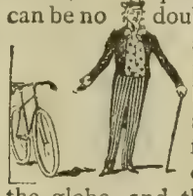
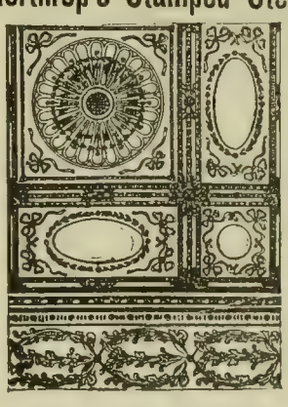
The Upper Mississippi is just now in good driving condition. Some of its smaller tributaries are a little dry, however. The present warm weather is good for drying lumber, although if it wasn't quite so warm and was a little more windy it would be better, not only for drying purposes but for the general comfort of humanity.

The lumber vessels of the Chicago fleet have tied up until lumber shippers advance freight rates at least 12½ cents a thousand feet and refuse to work until this is done. The vessels are backed by the Seamen's Union, and the vessel owners say that they can't make expenses at present rates. Vessels owned by mills are the only ones that have been plying in an out of Chicago the past week.

The heavy rains of the early spring now seem to be followed by a dry period, and the result is that streams which a few weeks ago were raging torrents are now dry and shallow, and the drives in many instances will be hung up unless rain comes to the relief of the drivers. Forests are drying out too, and getting in good condition for the terrible ravages of forest fires, which are beginning to destroy timber and property at various places, notably along the south shore of Lake Superior, in the Mesaba country and in Northern Michigan. It is to be hoped that both the settlers and timber owners will this year be spared the ruthless destruction by forest fires that comes with every warm and dry season.



From this time on the volume of the white pine lumber trade need not be expected to be above the ordinary until fall trade develops in some shape or other. All things that tend to increase the demand for lumber have now been passed by with the result of only augmenting the demand temporarily, and the volume of trade during the midsummer will undoubtedly be rather light and not of a character to inspire great hopes in the hearts of dealers who have been looking ahead for months to a period of good trade. Still there is reason to believe that the demand for lumber during July and August this year will excell last year's owing to the fact that the financial stringency was a year ago this summer at its height and trade was frightened. The conditions are different this summer. Recovery is slowly going on and dealers, when there is any demand, have to order from those who have lumber in first hands, as retail stocks are light, while a year ago this summer retail stocks were large owing to the heavy purchases in April, May and June.



METALS—COPPER.—Ingot has again encountered only a light indifferent degree of attention on really new calls, and the principal movement of supplies was confined to deliveries on contracts previously booked. Holders appeared to have power to prevent urgent offerings, but the character of the market was naturally advantageous to buyers and prices ruled weak. On the average range of valuation we quote at 9@9⅛c. for Lake and 8¾@9c. for casting brands. Manufactured copper is meeting with an irregular demand, some days full, again slack, and on the whole rather less than usual at this season. The list figures are not rigidly adhered to, but in a general way may be called steady. We quote as follows: Sheet, not above 30x72 in., 16 oz. and over, 14c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 15c.; do. 12 to 14 oz., 16c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 17c.; do, 8 to 10 oz., 20c.; do. under 8 oz., 22c. Sheets longer than 72 inches add 1c. for 12@16 oz., 2c. for 10@12 oz., and 3c. for 8@10 oz. Sheets not above 36x96 in., 16 oz. and over, 14c.; do. 14 to 16 oz., 16c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 18c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 22c.; do, 8 to 10 oz., 25c. Sheets longer than 96 inches 14c. for over 32 oz. and add 1c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 1c. 14 to 16 oz.; 1c. 12 to 14 oz.; 1c. for 10 to 12 oz., and 2c. for 8 to 10 oz. Sheets not above 48x96, 32 to 64 oz., 14c.; do, 16 to 32 oz., 16c.; do, 14 to 16 oz., 18c.; do, 12 to 14 oz., 20c.; do, 10 to 12 oz., 24c. Sheets wider than 48x96 and longer, 14@17c. for 32 to 64 oz.; 19@22c. for 16 to 32 oz.; 21@27c. for 14 to 16 oz. and —@—c. for 12 to 14 oz. Bolt copper, ⅜ inch diameter and over, 14c. Circles, segments and pattern sheets, 60 diameter and less, 3c. above price of sheets of same thickness; circles, 60 to 96 do do, 4c. do; circles, 96 do and over, 5c. do. Cold or hard rolled copper, 1@2c. per lb. above the foregoing prices. Copper bottoms, 18@24c. per lb. IRON—American Pig has not met with much demand, certainly not enough to place the market in the firmer position a portion of the trade had hoped for and calculated upon. An absence of pressing supplies, however, was noticeable and that proved sufficient to afford very fair support to values which are ranging much the same as for some time past. It is doubtful if a complete settlement of the labor difficulties and a renewal of the supply of fuel would induce much addition to the output of iron. We quote at $12.00@13.00 per ton for No. 1 X foundry; $11.00@12.00 for No. 2 X do., and $10.00@11.00 for Gray Forge; Scotch pig iron, $19.50@22. Old material has not found much attention and at times was under quite decided neglect, with some irregularity in value. Holders, however, generally ask about old rates and offer stocks sparingly. We quote at $10.50@11.00 for old iron rails; $10.00@10.75 for No. 1 wrought scrap; $9.00@10.50 for cast scrap; $10.00@11.00 for old car wheels, and $6.50@9.00 for borings, stove plate, etc. Manufactured iron has of late commenced to move a little more freely in the way of deliveries on old orders, but complaint is made of the slow character and narrow compass of new orders and some operators think trade worse than during the fore part of the year. We quote Beams up to 15-inch, 1.75@2c.; 20-inch, 2.10@2.25c. for round lots: Angles, 1.75@1.90c; Tees, 2@2.15c.; Channels, 1.80@2c. on dock

Bicycle Truths.
It is a settled, fixed truth, about the certain quality of which there can be no doubt, that American skill and enterprise have carried bicycle design and construction far ahead of that of any country on the globe, and that the first in the field, have been principally responsible for this result. The same enterprise that started and made a place for this great industry in America has kept these peerless wheels at the head of every improvement in design and method of construction, and has given them a rating as the standard bicycles of the world. In every essential bicycle quality, they are not only unequalled, but unapproached.

Columbias,

Estimates for Painting and Decorating at the lowest rates.

Steel plates are 1.65@1.90c. for Tank; 1.90@2.10c. for Shell; 2@2.15c. for Flange, and 2.50@2.80c. for Fire Box on dock; Refined Bars are 1.60@1.90c. on dock, and Common, 1.45@1.60c. Steel rails are ordered only in small quantities for repairs, etc., and manufacturers evidently do not find anything very encouraging in the present situation. Rumors now and then prevail of cut rates, but low figures can generally be traced to something in the way of light weight stock. We quote standard sections $24@25 per ton at mill, with usual advances for delivery at tide water. Pig lead finds a somewhat irregular market, but on the whole the current tendency rather favors a stronger tone in view of fair prevailing demand, smaller offerings from primal points, and reduced stocks here. We quote at 3¾@3.40c. per lb. The manufactures of lead are quoted at 5¾c. for Pipe, 6½c. for Sheet, 15c. for Tin-lined Pipe, and 37½c. for Block Tin Pipe. Pig Tin finds some jobbing demand, but shows very little business in a wholesale way and an attempt to hurry matters would result in pushing down the line of values. Offerings fair, but operations seem to be held in abeyance as much as possible awaiting final results on the tariff bill. We quote at about 19.65@19¾c. for round lots, and 19.80@19⅞c. for jobbing parcels. Tin plate gets moderate attention only for both spot and future delivery and does not make much of a market. The supply is fairly controlled, however, and owners think it worth about former rates for all grades. We quote as follows: I. C. Charcoal, Melyn grade, $6.25@6.30; Charcoal, Melyn grade, crosses, $7.75; I. C. Charcoal, Allaway grade, $5.35@5.40; Allaway grade, crosses, $6.45; Charcoal terne, M. F. grade, 14x20, $7.25@7.30; M. F. grade, 20x28, $14.50@14.55; Worcester, 14x20, $5.70@5.75; Worcester, 20x28, $11.00@11.10; Alyn grade, 14x20, $5.20@5.25; Alyn grade, 20x28, $10.00@10.25; D. R. D. grade, 14x20, $1.90@5.00; D. R. D. grade, 20x28, $9.70@9.75; I. C. Coke, Penlan grade, $5.00@5.05; J. B. grade, 14x20, $5.15@5.20; I. C. Bessemer steel, squares, $5.35@—— basis; I. C. Siemens steel, squares, $5.45@—— basis. Spelter is very well sustained on the firmer accounts from primal points, but buyers remain indifferent and rarely care to handle more than a small quantity against immediate wants. We quote 3.45@3½c. for Common Western, according to brand.

NAILS.—Trade is falling off. Consumers appear to have obtained about all the stock they want for immediate use, and jobbers do not care to add to accumulations. The quantity in first hands, however, has not been greatly increased of late and the position is held quite steadily for wire nails in particular. Production is fair but will be cut down somewhat it is supposed. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.15@1.25 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.00@1.15 for car lots, and $1.25@1.35 from store.

PAINTS, OILS, ETC. — Business has been moderate, and the natural tendency at this season is toward a still greater shrinkage, if anything. Regular lines of consumption have about satisfied themselves, jobbers find no occasion to add to their supplies, and as a rule matters drag for most deliveries. There are some exceptions, however, and we hear of the recent placing of orders for bulk lots of colors, to be delivered into grinders' hands during autumn months. Zincs have been offered less freely for some time, and that has helped sustain a steady line of value in the face of an exceedingly dull trade. Litharge has been quite slow of sale, and of late developed a weaker tone on values, although quoted no lower. Red lead of foreign make has sold for autumn delivery to some extent at rates contingent upon a change in duty. Dry leads have been greatly neglected, but in oil leads found fair demand. Rates quite as unsettled as ever, buyers reaping most of the advantages. Corroders' quotations stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 6½c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase 6c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 5.94c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 5¾c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c., and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil, although moving a little irregularly, has on the whole found a somewhat increased movement and that seems to curtail competition and steady up rates all around. We quote at 49@51c. for Western, 53@54c. for City from domestic seed and 54@55c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine moves out slowly and only in small lots as called for by imperative necessity of regular trade. Prices are easy but without radical change. We quote at 30@31c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—Business has been light and uncertain, but with a general tendency toward narrow compass. Consumption at the best is small and buyers enter the market only under compulsion. About former rates are asked. We quote Tar at $1.85@1.90 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.50@2.55 in pork bbls., and $3.50@3.55 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.

LUMBER.

Appended quotations are based almost wholly upon prices obtained for goods from first hands. Yard rates necessarily range much higher owing to the expenses attending sorting out and grading cargo and even car lots, besides which must be added the cost of handling and carrying until consumers are ready to invest. Terms of sale also prove important factors, and altogether it is impossible to give a line of retail quotations thoroughly reliable in character.

BUSINESS conditions which were certainly bad enough before have not been improved by the illogical attempts of Mr. Debs and his followers to tie up the railroads of the country because they would not refuse to run the cars of the Pullman Company. This is carrying the principle of sympathy in strikes into the realm of absurdity, and if, as present advices indicate, this movement is doomed to early defeat, the strikers will be much in the same position that the Erie switchmen were some time ago, out of employment as a consequence of their own foolishness. The fact that so much of the railroad affected is under the protection of the Federal Courts has, in this emergency at least, been a source of satisfaction, because it is believed that the policy of meeting any unlawful act on the part of the strikers, should they be foolish enough to attempt any, will not be of the shilly-shally kind that has lately characterized the acts of State authorities in dealing with similar emergencies and which encouraged the destruction of so much property. Just before this strike was announced some minute signs became apparent of improvement in business, called into existence, no doubt, by the nearing prospect of an end to tariff discussion and to the fact that the administration had at last found voice to let the public know that it was acquainted with the condition of the national finances and had at least the desire to remedy it. Presumably with the speedy end of the strike—and in view of the condition of the labor market, it is certain that its prolongation beyond a few days will depend entirely upon the policy of the authorities toward the strikers—the signs of trade revival will increase in number and size. The decline in the gold imports is a point not to be overlooked in this connection. The drop in grain prices, while bad for the moment, will be ultimately offset if the promise of better crops than have been expected recently is fulfilled. While it may be that a bad crop would increase the price of grain in the market it does not follow that a good crop will not be much more beneficial to the interests of the community at large. Railroad securities will, in the main, respond to the changes in outside conditions; they have stood the test of the news of the week very well; there has been immense liquidation in all the speculative stocks and bonds, and very little increase has been made in the amount of lines to do the business of the country in the past three or four years and next to none under way. These facts cannot fail to tell as soon as there is a more easy feeling and business begins to really revive. Possibly the Pacific roads, indebted to the government, have a little harder row to hoe than the others, judging from the nature of the refunding bill now being drafted in the House Committee on Pacific roads, the principle of which seems to be that Congress has no duty to consider any side but the government's.

IT is needless to say that there is no sign of a rise in European discount rates, or any increase in general business across the Atlantic to give promise of a more profitable use for money in the early future. The continuing arrivals of gold in England are looked upon as almost as bad for the country receiving them as for those sending them. The returns from the English labor market for May show a slight increase in the percentage of unemployed. These returns antedated the strike of the Scotch coal miners. Engineering and metal trades, both in England and on the Continent, make on the whole the most favorable showing, not that they are advancing a great deal, but because they do not go back. The trouble impending for the Manchester Ship Canal and from the same cause for the City of Manchester cannot be without its effect on trade. Owners of French lead mines who provide 11 per cent of the amount of that mineral consumed in France have made a demand for a protective duty of five dollars, and apparently stand a good chance of getting it. May imports into France increased by $3,500,000, compared with May, 1893, and exports declined about the same amount. Emigrants from Germany in the first quarter of the current year numbered 7,520 compared with 14,046 in the same quarter of 1893, and 22,685 in the same time in 1892. The result of the annual woolen market, recently held at Posen, is expected to be a decline in the price of superior wool. At the request of the Minister of the Board of Trade the Vienna Corn Exchange has annulled its resolution to give up holding the international grain market in Vienna. The position that the Government was forced to take in the interest of Vienna by the resolution of the Exchange is a triumph for all who believe in religious tolerance, because the intervention of the Minister to save the market to the city naturally implies an obligation to protect visitors to it from the insults of anti-Semitics which occasioned the original suggestion of its abandonment. A change in the weather has reduced the prospects for a great harvest in Austria and Hungary, though a return of warm, dry weather may repair some of the mischief that was done in many regions by cold and snow at the close of May.

IN times of civic or national disgrace people, and noticeably some who ought to know better, try to find some palliative for their errors or salve for their injured vanity in conditions that prevail abroad. It was almost with a pang of regret that New Yorkers heard the picturesque Appo declare, while most effectually pressing the brand into the flesh of the police of this city, that New York was the only city in the Union where the custodians of the public peace and morals permitted and encouraged the green-goods swindle. A correspondent of an evening paper who signs himself, let us hope without any warrant for a nom de plume so suggestive of intelligence, "Architect," points out that the Parisian police in the time of the first republic levied contributions as infamous as those raised by the New York police of our own day. At another and later day such parallels may have a sociological or historic interest and value, but at the present moment it is ill-advised to do anything that will lessen in the mind of the New York public its horror of the results of its own neglect, which are being so brought home to it by the disclosure before the Lexow Committee. Sometimes the thought that we are no worse than other men is as soothing to the conscience as the impression that we are better than other men is elevating to the pride. For the present let us not mind what other men are doing or have done. Let us see just what we are without suggestion of palliatives or excuses. Surely if it could be said at all it can be said in New York to-day, sufficient for the day and place is the evil thereof.

DOES government by the people require that the representative system shall be supplemented by the referendum in order to be in every sense popular government? We pointed out last week an instance where that institution had been most wholesomely employed in Switzerland and, this fall, we are most probably to learn whether it can be employed in this city with equal efficacy in the matter of rapid transit for New York. Two glaring instances of delayed national legislation and the want of decision in Congress, in our recent history, on two questions of vital importance, the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act and the modification of the tariff law, have each created an immense amount of impatience with the powers at Washington, and also must have created in the minds of many thinking people the wish that there was some way in which such matters could be taken directly into the hands of the people themselves. There is no shadow of doubt that if the people at large had been asked to decide whether the silver purchases should have been stopped or that tariff legislation was desired, the answers would have come promptly, yea in the first case and nay in the second, and the country would have been saved the terrible uncertainties and anxieties which it has suffered and a great part of the enormous losses entailed on business during and owing to irritatingly prolonged discussions in Congress. There are no more difficulties in the way of placing such questions before the voters than there are in asking them to declare their opinions on the respective claims of Presidential candidates and the matter of cost sinks into perfect insignificance alongside of the pecuniary losses sustained while the doubt exists as to what course Congress will take in the execution of its duty. A general election involves too many interests to allow it to be possible for the national will on all of them to be ascertained in the one vote, and the referendum would be a happy means of hearing the public voice on any one of them; or, if the case called for it, of enabling it to modify an opinion, into which it had been led by conditions which had ceased to apply. For instance, if it is the case that Cleveland and tariff reform were one in 1892 it is certain that a decree nisi would have promptly been rendered by the public had an appeal for divorce been made to it after the terrible trials of last summer and fall.

Tammany's Indictment of the People of New York.

AN "Old New Yorker," whose letter we publish elsewhere, asks, with an amount of indignation which indicates some feeling on his part, what we meant by "Tammany's indictment of the citizens of New York," a phrase which we used with inoffensive intent in a recent editorial. We thought the meaning of our words was plain enough, but perhaps it was not, and as the matter has really an important bearing upon the agitation going on at this moment about the rottenness of our municipal government, it may not be unprofitable to return to the subject and treat it with a little more directness and fullness that was possible on the last occasion.

Every reputable person has been jubilant of late over the disclosures which the investigations of the Lexow Committee have resulted in. These disclosures, indeed, are merely corroborative of what everybody has suspected for years, and what many have actually known. It is a good thing, however, to have chapter and verse, positive proof with all its dirty details, of the organized criminality which for the last generation has passed in New York City for municipal government. But all this evidence, as no doubt it is unnecessary to remind our readers, is of no value in itself. A mere record of bribery and malfeasance may be a very human document, but the Senate Committee is not investigating for the sake of establishing an indubitable record of crime. The importance of the Lexow Committee's work does not lie in the mere discovery and chronicling of iniquity that it may perform, but in the practical uses to which the people of this city will by and by put the evidence of wrongdoing that their labors produce. Now, it is clear that if there is to be any reform in our city government as a result of investigation, the efficacy and permanence of that reform will depend not upon the mere fact that citizens have done "something," effected some change or other in their municipal government, but upon the fact that whatever action is taken springs from and is directed by a full understanding of the conditions that have produced official dishonesty. The question we desire to raise is this: Is the present attitude of our citizens towards the disclosures of the Lexow Committee, the attitude that conduces best to thorough understanding of these conditions? We believe not.

Public and Press alike regard the damaging evidence produced by Mr. Goff as reflecting solely upon Tammany. "What an indictment of Tammany!" is the exclamation that one may hear everywhere. True, the indictment is a severe one, to be paralleled only by those that historians have drawn up against one or two societies at the moment of their greatest moral degradation, but is Tammany the only party to the indictment?

Certain merchants standing well in the estimation of this community came forward the other day or were called forward and unblushingly swore (some even endeavored to justify their actions), that for years they have been paying blackmail to the police for freedom to break with impunity the ordinances of the city in which they live. The public who hear this, cry "Fie on the Police," and indignant editors pour the vials of their wrath on the corrupt department. Apparently no one gives any consideration to the position which the merchants occupy in the transaction. People proceed to cuss the police, as though only they were the sinners, as though the bribers were immaculate, childlike individuals who had been coerced into corruption! Yet, everybody must see that the Police could not fatten upon bribes were these merchant-citizens willing to do their civic duty and obey the laws. Deflection from uprightness began, not when an uniformed officer passed these merchants' stores and found them intent upon keeping the law; but when he passed and found them not only breaking the law but ready and willing to pay money to be permitted to continue to break the law. It is at this point that "Tammany's indictment of the people of New York," of which we spoke, begins.

There can be no question that, if an indictment against the people were drawn up, and why should it not be? it would be a very strong, useful and edifying document. The Lexow Committee will do only a half of its duty if it fails to inculpate the citizens of New York in whatever wrong it finds they have committed. It could easily be shown that high and low, rich and poor, an appalling proportion of our people, have been and are active, persistent and unscrupulous corruptors of official integrity. Take, for instance, the matter of personal taxes. The law, which the people of New York City helped to make, or perpetuate, and by which they are bound, decrees that in respect to certain personal possessions the citizen is duty bound to pay the Government certain taxes. We would like to know how many citizens of New York City honor this duty and frankly and honestly meet this obligation of theirs. We all know that only a mere remnant do. The great remainder cheerfully and vigorously forswear themselves and pay nothing. It is safe to say that the contact of our tax department with the people is almost from A to Z a contact with a community shirking and dodging by perjury, subterfuge and bribery their honest obligations. Again, if the city requires a piece of property for public purposes, how do citizens owning the required piece of property act in a majority of cases? We know that in most instances they make exorbitant demands and fight to swindle the city whose interests their civic duty bids them protect. Wherever we look we see that every ordinance, every administrative act of the Government is but an opportunity which citizens readily seize to corrupt their officials. How interesting and lugubrious a chapter in "Tammany's Indictment" the relation of our big corporations to the municipality, the story of big men seeking fat contracts, little men seeking unwarrantable exemptions and dirty privileges, newspapers scrambling for city advertisements, would make?

Merchants, bankers, steamship companies, builders, lawyers, all have been implicated, with bawds, prostitutes, saloonkeepers, by the Lexow disclosures. The question (a very pertinent one) has been asked, who is there that has not paid blackmail to the Police. No one pays blackmail, let us remember, because he obeys the law.

But it is unnecessary to run through the list. Surely it is plain that one of the reasons, and we believe the fundamental reason, why government in the Metropolis is so corrupt is because there are so many of its citizens anxious to exploit the municipality or transgress its laws. We are not speaking of the disruptable elements in the community; everywhere that class is ready to barter and sell with the authorities. Our remarks are confined entirely to that part of the community which is termed "eminently respectful"—bankers, merchants, professional men, shopkeepers, etc. These are the delinquents. Why should we wonder, when we face the enormous mass of facts which prove the popular corruption, that Tammany is corrupt? What warrant have we for judging these people by a higher standard than we conform to ourselves? The hypocrisy of our present attitude is sickening. If the municipality were officered with angels how long would it be before they had fallen, when every department is besieged by thousands anxious to sneak, pilfer or evade, by citizens of all ranks willing to traffic in the honor, dignity and welfare of the city in which they live? When there is so good a market should we wonder that there are commodities; when the demand is so urgent that the supply should meet it?

Indict the wrongdoers by all means, but the People of New York should stand in the dock with them.

Builders All At Sea.

ON AN EXCURSION TO ROTON POINT, WITH A SHORE DINNER AND MUSIC AND DANCING AND OTHER SPORTS.

The builders' outing, under the auspices of the Building Trades' Club, on Thursday, to Roton Point, Conn., was something of an experiment in its way, but it proved to be so great a success that there will be a big demand for its establishment as a regular annual function. The day was an ideal one for an excursion on the water, and the builders, though more familiar with navigation on terra firma, enjoyed it without reservation. Many of them were accompanied by their wives and daughters, and it is needless to say the presence of the ladies lent a charm to the excursion that would otherwise have been lacking. Though meeting often in the arena of business, and therefore being a step removed from the condition of strangers, the builders met once again on a social footing whence business was excluded, and fraternal feelings and promptings had full play. As one of them put it: "It was like a big family party."

Over 500 persons had embarked on the Iron Steamboat Cephens when she left her moorings at the foot of East 23d street and steamed up the East River and Sound to Roton Point. There was music and dancing and lots of fun on the way, and Roton Point was reached about noon. At the hotel the "genuine New England shore dinner," the piece de resistance of which is clams, had been in preparation, and was soon ready and served in attractive style in the big dining-rooms of the hotel. Then there was more music and dancing, while some went boating and some went bathing and others just loitered around on the crags under the shade of the trees and watched the more active ones. The return trip produced more music and dancing and sociability, the boat landing its passengers at 7 o'clock, everyone refreshed by the trip, and voting the first builders' outing an unqualified success. The affair was managed with consummate skill by the efficient House Committee of the Club, and reflected credit upon the organization.

Among the many present were President and Mrs. John J. Tucker, Andrew J. Campbell, Stephen M. Wright, Superintendent of Buildings and Mrs. T. J. Brady, Cornelius O'Reilly, Warren A. Conover, Edwin Outwater and family, Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Tostevin, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. T. Ritch, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. A. Cowen and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Augustus S. Meyers and son, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Gaylor, Mr. and Mrs. P. L. P. Tostevin, Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Taylor, Chas. T. Galloway, John E. Nicholson, Wm. A. Hoe, John L. Hamilton, Thomas F. Byrne, James B. Mulry, Mr. and Mrs. Francis N. Howland and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac N. Howland and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Van Valen, Isaac A. Hopper and family, Judson Lawson, Thomas Miller, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Vaughan, John C. Doremus and Erskine Van Houten and family.

Four Handsome Apartment Houses.

SOLID CONSTRUCTION—SANITARY PLUMBING—TASTEFUL FINISH—THE WORK OF EXPERT, SUCCESSFUL BUILDERS.

The value of an investment in dwelling house property depends almost wholly on substantial building, tasteful appearance and good locality. The four extra wide double apartment houses, just completed by Cotter Bros., the well-known builders, possess these among other attractive characteristics. The locality in which these houses are situated cannot be surpassed for its adaptability to the wants of the best class of people who look to make their homes in the apartment houses of the city. Cotter Bros.' houses are the imposing four on the north side of 81st street, just west of Amsterdam avenue, and known as Nos. 203, 207, 209 and 213 West 81st street. To any one acquainted with the West Side the mention of the street and numbers will be sufficient to support what has been said of the desirability of the location. As is well known, the immediate vicinity has been virtually adopted by some of the shrewdest builders of New York as the best site for the erection of flats and apartment houses of a superior class and high-priced residences. Several handsome churches have also been built in the immediate neighborhood, and by their presence give it an additional stamp of respectability.

The Cotter houses are in the very midst of this favored locality and about equi-distant between Manhattan Square and Central Park, and Riverside Drive. This fact alone gives them an investment value difficult to reasonably over-estimate. The attractiveness of the regions around the great park and driveway to the most substantial of the business people of New York is too well known and has been so often proved that it is not necessary to dwell on this point at any length. It suffices to say that the houses in those regions will, for obvious reasons, always have a preference for the very best class of tenants. The attraction is not a passing one because these places of beauty and recreation are created once and for all; they will last as long as the city itself lasts and the denser the population the more demand there will be for homes around the spots where fresh air is to be obtained and healthy exercise procured amidst surroundings which grow from year to year more and more beautiful. So much for the æsthetic and hygienic advantages of this part of the city.

There are also other advantages which, though not appealing so irresistibly to the senses, are equally important from practical points of view. The high-class tenant of this neighborhood has naturally brought into it a correspondingly high class of tradesmen who have established themselves on Amsterdam avenue, and afford opportunities for domestic shopping which will meet all requirements; these are further supplemented by the equally attractive stores on Columbus avenue, only one block further away. Another important point that always enters into the consideration of the question of where to establish a home is the means of access and transit to other parts of the city. While the business man desires for himself and his family that their home shall be in the midst of pleasant surroundings where the requirements of life are easily obtainable, he must see to it that he can go to and fro quickly and cheaply. In this latter respect, as well as in the others, all the requirements are met by 81st street and Amsterdam avenue. Only a block away is the 81st street station of the L railroad and the newly-established Blue Line of surface cars on Columbus avenue, preparatory to the running of cable cars by the Metropolitan Traction Co. connecting with the Broadway and numerous other cars for one fare only. The street cars on Amsterdam avenue are practically at the door, so that any part of the city can be expeditiously and economically reached. The lines on the Boulevard will doubtless soon receive additional development, and this property cannot fail to be benefited, not only from a resident's, but also from an investor's point of view, by the certain future development of a system to any point on which the traveler can go for one fare.

Four Apartment Houses,

203, 207, 209 and 213 West 81st Street. Cotter Bros., Owners and Builders.

In the apartment houses under notice, Cotter Bros. have completed a piece of building to which they can point with satisfaction as a sample of what they can do. The plot on which the houses stand is 150x102.2, and each house has a frontage of 37.6 and a depth of 92 feet. These dimensions indicate the ample proportions of the several apartments contained within them. The fronts of the buildings are in Tiffany brick ornamented with finely carved brownstone, the work of John Cullen, and present a very handsome and imposing appearance. They are five stories high, approached by a wide, high stoop. From the spacious entrances to the topmost apartments there is every sign of taste and finish. The apartments contain parlor and dining-room, foyers decorated by Hubert, pier and mantle mirrors, mosaic halls, tiled bath-rooms, open plumbing by Paul G. Decker, and are admirably arranged for light and ventilation; double floors are laid throughout these houses, insuring the comfort and quiet that is ordinarily only to be found in private houses. The trim is cabinet of a new and special design. The courtyards are open and airy. The public entrances and hallways are spacious and well lit. Everywhere the best of material has been used with superior workmanship. The fittings both in the hallways and apartments as well as the decorations throughout all four houses display taste and elegance.

It must be remembered always that these houses are the work of able and experienced builders, men who watch every detail of construction and are on the lookout for every improvement, not alone in methods of building, but in design and fitting, so that any work coming from their hands is sure to be up to date in every respect. The fact that they have been very successful in their undertakings is the best proof of this; it is unnecessary to say that continued success only comes from honest work and a just appreciation of the requirements of the times. Houses built under such superintendence and conditions and in a locality unsurpassed for attractiveness to tenants are sure to prove good investments. The best property in other locations may fail to please after a time and so degenerate, but, as has already been pointed out, in this case the advantages of the locality are permanent, and as these buildings want nothing in the way of substantiability, handsomeness, convenience of arrangement and elegance of finish they cannot lose in attractiveness, and, therefore, must commend themselves to the attention of people who desire safe investment for their money, especially as they are offered at a very reasonable price and on liberal terms.—(Communicated.)

Concession seems to have been the order of the day with owners since the beginning of the week, and the result has been the closing of an unusually larger number of sales. Many of them have been pending for some time and a cursory glance over the list by the initiated will disclose the fact that it has been finally considered good judgment to accept offers previously considered too low. A tendency toward lower prices is indicated not alone by the transactions negotiated by brokers, but in the sales in the auction room as well.

All things considered, the week's transactions present abundant evidence that the brokers have not been idle. The sales closed cannot, however, be said to signify a continuation for any length of time of the prevailing active dealing, such as it is. Trades go far to contribute to the aggregate value of the sales, and on investigation it will be seen that buyers are divided in their preferences for localities.

A reduced attendance has been noted in the auction room. The properties offered since Monday failed to present the attributes that usually serve to attract investors and as a consequence there were few bidders. On Tuesday a public sale of North Side lots held by James L. Wells was the feature of the day. They proved to be bargains, bringing an average of $880. One purchaser of five lots at $725 apiece, W. H. Richardson, has since resold them at $900 each, or an advance of nearly 25 per cent. E. G. Bach, who secured two lots for $2.065, has also, it is reported, sold at a profit. On the same day, at a partition sale, the highest outside bid offered for 123 East 53d street was $12,200, much below the actual value. After a lot of parley on the part of the representatives of the heirs and a prolonged effort by Auctioneer William Kennelly to induce more liberal bidding, James Richards, of the firm of Coudert Bros., who acted in behalf of the parties to the suit, felt called upon, in the interest of his clients, to offer $15,000 for the house and lot. His bid met with no competition, and the property was knocked down at that price. He followed with a bid of $17,000 for the adjoining parcel, No. 125 East, and became the purchaser without opposition. On Wednesday, Nos. 525 and 527 West 47th street, offered at public sale by Peter F. Meyer & Co., secured a buyer at a low figure. On the same day Auctioneer Meyer held a foreclosure sale of four tenements on East 28th street. The first of the 28th street houses offered was mortgaged for $25,550, including interest overdue; the second for $32,250 and the third for $35,000, and that peculiarity led the auctioneer to exclaim: "you see how rapidly this property is increasing in value; now is your time to buy."

The withdrawals and adjournments of announced sales were as follows: On Tuesday, Nos. 35 Bowery and 34 Bayard street, adjourned by William Kennelly to July 3d, and the leasehold property on Park and Lexington avenues and 107th street by the same auctioneer to July 10th. D. P. Ingraham & Co. adjourned until the latter date the sale of No. 6 East 116th street. On Wednesday the same auctioneers adjourned sine die the foreclosure sale of Nos. 304 to 310 East 95th street. Richard V. Harnett & Co. postponed the similar sale of Nos. 137 and 139 West 101st street to July 18th, and B. L. Kennelly an executor's sale of 1137-1141 Madison avenue until Tuesday next. On Friday Richard V. Harnett & Co. adjourned sine die the foreclosure sale of the leasehold property on the northeast corner of Broadway and 8th street.

ACTIVITY IN WESTCHESTER COUNTY.

A broker who makes a specialty of transactions in property immediately north of the city line, in Westchester County, states that offers to purchase sections of estates that have for some time been in the market have been made with surprising frequency of late. The prices offered are lower than those at which it is known the various parcels have been offered for sale, but the fact that the lands are being sought by investors he regards as significant. Not in twenty years, he says, has it been customary for brokers to receive propositions, except from well-known investors, with a view to the purchase of Westchester property. The inquiries have not, as yet, resulted in actual sales but he is at a loss to account for the present revival of interest in the midst of a particularly dull season.

A loan of $1,000,000 has been accepted on the new Hotel Majestic, on Central Park West, 71st and 72d streets. Jacob Rothschild, the owner and builder, while admitting that the loan had been placed, declined yesterday to give any particulars, saying that he had been requested by the perspective mortgagees not to make the matter public for the present. It is interesting to note in connection with the foregoing transaction that an amicable agreement has been arrived at between Mr. Alfred Zucker, the original architect of the hotel, and Mr. Rothschild whereby their differences have been adjusted satisfactorily.

Owners of "Tenderloin" realty have been viewing the proceedings before the Senate Investigating Committee with conflicting emotions. Good citizens as some of them doubtless are, and lovers of excitement as most of them are known to be, it is hard for them to approve without some reservation a moral movement which is depriving them of the income from their properties.

Register Levy applied to Judge Barrett on Wednesday for a reference to examine and report what among the books of record and indices of his office are proper subjects for reproduction. Some of them are so worn and mutilated as to be almost illegible, and will have to be soon replaced with new copies. Judge Barrett refused the reference, saying that the law required the facts to be ascertained by a Judge of the Supreme Court by personal inspection, and when some one of the Judges could find the leisure for it the work would be done.

Thomas P. Wiecks, Pierre V. B. Hoes and Conrad N. Harris were appointed, on Tuesday, commissioners to condemn land for the proposed new Colonial Park in the 12th Ward. The commission will acquire the land necessary for the new park in the tract bounded by 145th and 155th streets, Bradhurst and Edgecomb avenues.

The Board of Aldermen, at Tuesday's meeting, decided to continue 5th avenue as a free thoroughfare. The resolution providing that trucks should be forbidden to use the avenue from 23d to 59th streets, between the hours of 2 and 7 P. M. daily, from October 1 to June 1, was defeated by a vote of 23 to 1.

COMMISSIONER ANDREWS' STABLE NUISANCE BREAKS OUT IN ANOTHER SPOT.

Commissioner Andrews, of the Street Cleaning Department, seems to be striving to get himself universally disliked. He was the occasion of one successful protest by West Side property-owners, when a few months ago, he endeavored to get authority to buy property and build a big stable for his department in the midst of a fine residence neighborhood in West 75th street. The Sinking Fund Commission, yielding to the earnest protest of the adjacent owners, blocked that scheme. Now Andrews has broken out in another spot. In a quiet way, so as to avoid, if possible, another issue with owners whom he proposes to damage in their properties, he appeared before the Sinking Fund Commission at its last meeting and secured authority to lease for a term of years a property in 90th street, between West End avenue and the Boulevard, the owner to build upon it a stable for the use of the department.

Of course property-owners are indignant and up in arms at this renewed effort of the commissioner to plant his stable abomination in the midst of a fine residence section. The same argument that availed to prevent such wanton disregard of property rights in 75th street applies in this case. It is no palliation or excuse to say that there are no fine residences within a block of this location, for the site is surrounded by built-up residence blocks and the plain and proper destiny of this site was to be similarly improved. Owners are pertinently asking why Mr. Andrews does not locate his desired stables on the low-lying ground west of Riverside Drive, down by the railroad tracks, if he must have a stable in this vicinity. Inquiry yesterday at the Street Cleaning Department elicited only the general statement that nothing conclusive had yet been done about the lease. If a private person were to do what Mr. Andrews is trying to do in his official capacity he would throw himself open to imputations of blackmail, for that is the regular real estate blackmailer's game. Of course, Mr. Andrews is exempt from such a charge, but why should the great City of New York impose such a hardship upon any of the property-owners, when its object could be attained without so doing? That is the question which West Side property-owners are asking in this connection.

The Real Estate Trust Co. has declared a semi-annual dividend of 3 per cent, payable July 2.

THE THIRD SECTION OF THE JEROME AVENUE SEWER.

Commissioner Louis F. Haffen awarded the contract on Wednesday for the third section of the Jerome avenue sewer to Stewart & McDermott for $100,000. It will extend from Featherbed lane to St. James street and will drain the Mount Hope and Fordham Heights sections.

An item of news that will prove interesting to North Side property owners and residents along the line of Jerome avenue is that a trolley line is to be built and ready for operation in twelve months, from McComb's Dam bridge to Woodlawn, with a possibility of the road being extended to White Plains. John D. Crimmins, of the Metropolitan Traction Company, is authority for the statement.

Gossip of the Week.

SOUTH OF 59TH STREET.

Horace S. Ely & Co. have sold to Mrs. Sanders for Charles Astor Bristed the four-story brick store building, No. 61 Nassau street, 23.6x47.10, adjoining the corner of Maiden lane, for $82,500. The property was purchased by Mr. Bristed in September, 1892, for $77,500.

William J. Roome has sold to Nail Bros. No. 450 6th avenue, east side, 49.4 north of 27th street, a five-story brick building, on lot 19.6x100, for $49,000.

Chas. S. Peck has sold for the Hoffman estate No. 116 East 41st street, 25x98.9, to Robert G. Dun, of the R. G. Dun & Co. agency. The purchaser will erect a stable on the lot.

Joseph Byk, of Brooklyn, who recently took title to the plot, 37.3 x65x37.11x65, with two five-story brick stores and tenements, Nos. 381 and 383 East Houston street, southeast corner Willett street, has sold the property to Peter Herter for $55,000.

Charles F. White has sold for Mr. Lindeman, No. 518 West 50th street, a five-story brick tenement, to a Mr. Eggers for $25,000.

John R. Foley has sold No. 371 West 12th street, northeast corner of Washington street, a three-story brick tenement with a two-story brick building on rear of lot, 22x89.10, to Hugh Slevin, for $22,250.

John N. Golding has sold to a Mr. Watkins for Mrs. Hannah C. Martin the four-story dwelling, No. 121 East 39th street, 20x60x98.9. We learn from a source other than the broker that the price agreed upon is $36,000. Mrs. Martin took title to the property in March, 1892, for a consideration expressed as nominal. The house had previously been sold in 1886 for $33,000.

The sale recently reported of the four-story stone front residence, No. 21 West 53d street, 23x60x100.5, was made by Judge Miles Beach, as executor of the estate of William A. Beach. The price said to have been agreed upon is $50,000, a very low one, as the late Mr. Beach bought the house in April, 1871, for $53,000.

Douglas Robinson & Co. have sold for James P. Kernochan the four-story stone front dwelling, No. 13 West 56th street, lot 25x100.5, to William R. Barr for $62,000. The property was sold under foreclosure on March 1st for $61,500.

George F. Anger has sold Nos. 695 and 697 3d avenue, east side, 40.5 south of 44th street, two five-story brick tenements, on lots 20 x80 each, for $45,000. The property was purchased by the seller in November, 1892, for $40,250.

J. Arthur Fischer & Co. have sold for the estate of the late Ascher Weinstein the three-story stone dwelling (Astor leasehold), No. 236 West 46th street, 20x100, to Miss D. Hahn; and for the same estate, the three-story brownstone dwelling (leasehold), No. 257 West 45th street, between Broadway and 8th avenue, size 20x100, to Mrs. Forsch.

There exist excellent reasons for the statement that there is every probability of the trade, negotiated early last month, of the Bennett building, owned by John Pettit, for the building on the southwest corner of Liberty and Greenwich streets, owned by Theodore A. Havemeyer, has fallen through. Mr. Havemeyer's lawyers allege that they have found a slight flaw in the title to the former building due to some supposed irregularity attending the partition sale some years ago of the elder James Gordon Bennett's estate. Mr. Pettit expresses indifference regarding the outcome of the matter and is not likely to insist upon the consummation of the agreement entered into. He considers his title to the Bennett building faultless.

NORTH OF 59TH STREET.

M. Kayser has sold for John Kehoe his seven three-story and extension stone front dwellings, 17 and 18x71x100.5, on the south side of West 71st street, between West End avenue and Riverside Drive, for $196,000, to S. & H. J. L. Taylor is the purchaser of the flat on the northwest corner of 80th street and Lexington avenue, the sale of which by S. W. B. Smith was reported last week. The contract price for the flat is $110,000, Mr. Taylor giving in exchange his place at Chester Hill, Mt. Vernon, N. Y., the value of which is put at $50,000. James L. Libby & Son were the brokers.

William H. Flitner is the purchaser of the nine lots on 5th avenue, 90th and 91st streets, sold by Benjamin I. H. Trask last week, and will take title direct from the referee under whose direction the sale of the Lasak estate property was held in May. The sale to Mr. Flitner has been much discussed during the week, and the concensus of expert opinion is that the lots were secured at a low figure. That is to say they would not be especially cheap at $200,000 if bought to hold for an indefinite period, but in view of the probability of the greater number of them being disposed of this season with building loans for immediate improvement the investment should prove a profitable one. It is understood that the lots are to be sold in the manner described.

John W. Stevens has sold for Dunn Bros., No. 25 West 96th street, a four-story dwelling, 19x55x100, to Prof. James Strong, the author, who will occupy it. The price asked for the house before the sale was $27,000, but it is probable that the buyer secured it for a somewhat lower sum. The New Quarantine Commissioner.

Edward Jacobs, who was this week appointed by Governor Flower Quarantine Commissioner, is a well-known lawyer of this city. He is a native of this State, and was educated in the public schools and in the Law Department of Columbia College, from which institution he was graduated in 1872. Since his admission to the Bar, Mr. Jacobs has been engaged in the active and successful practice of his profession, and is regarded with favor by the Judges as well as the legal profession. He is a member of numerous Jewish orders, and a director in the Sanitarium for Hebrew Children. He also belongs to the Freundschaft Club. In 1892 Governor Flower appointed him United States Loan Commissioner, and on the expiration of his term, in April of this year, he was reappointed, being unanimously confirmed by the Senate, without reference to a committee. His appointment will undoubtedly give general satisfaction as it evinces a disposition to appoint a qualified person to an important office.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

Mortgages against 23d and 24th Ward properties will be found all together at foot of this list.

REVIEW AND RECORD.

BROOKLYN, JUNE 30, 1894.

Brooklyn's Reviving Building Industries.

An examination of the statistics of building in Brooklyn since the first of the year, as exhibited in the record of plans filed, shows that this important branch of the real estate industry has recovered a large part of the headway it lost during and consequent upon the panic of last year.

The statistics for the period since the first of May are inclusive of the building projects in the newly annexed wards, but not until the last week have these cut any material figure in the totals, either in the number of the buildings or their amounts. For the week ending June 23, however, they figure pretty largely in the number of plans filed, but since they consist almost entirely of beach cottages and shops of the lightest frame construction they do not figure very largely in the money totals.

How severe the depression in building has been is shown in the figures for the first four months of this year, in comparison with the corresponding period of 1893. It will be remembered that April, 1893, was one of the best months in the history of building in Brooklyn—no less than 434 plans being filed, for a total of $3,370,728—a high average for Brooklyn. But the panic came on directly after this, and while it was a month or more before it was fully recognized, still its effects were visible in the partial cessation of building. In May of last year only 303 plans were filed, for a total of $1,289,355, as against 412 plans for $2,459,745 in May, 1892. From this time building fell off rapidly, and was without indication of revival until May of this year.

For the first five months of this year the number of plans filed was 985 and their amount $4,211,621, as against 1,700 plans, for $9,275,331, for the corresponding period of 1893, and 1,462 plans, for $7,036,653, for 1892. These figures show that there was a falling off of nearly half in the number and over half in the aggregate value of the buildings planned for between New Year's and the 1st of May this year, compared with the corresponding period of last year. They also show that the average cost of the buildings planned for fell off from $5,444 last year to $4,276 this year—which fairly expressed the general facts as known to all Brooklyn builders. The building of small, cheap houses in the new sections of the city was less affected and interrupted by the panic than of the more expensive classes of buildings—business, institutional and mercantile.

Since the 1st of May, however, there has been a substantial improvement in the building industry. In another column the figures are given in detail. It appears from these that in May there were 328 plans filed for a total of $1,718,030, as against 303 plans for $1,289,355 in May, 1893, and 412 plans for $2,459,745 in May, 1892. While there were only twenty-five more buildings planned for this month of May, they represent a cost of nearly half a million more than in May, 1893. The increase is even more marked for the first three weeks of the current month of June. Contrasted with the same relative period in 1893 and 1892 the figures show a return to almost normal conditions. For the first three weeks in June of this year the number of buildings planned for was 276, for a total of $1,377,620; for 1893 they numbered 160, for $959,255, and for 1892 they numbered 253 (twenty-three less than this year), for a total of $1,527,305.

Another fact should also be borne in mind in considering the significance of these figures: When the panic struck the building industry of Brooklyn last year a very considerable number of the projects for which plans had already been filed were abandoned. Loans were absolutely unobtainable, and if they had not been there was no market for the new buildings. Now, not only is there a greater amount of new work under way, for which the plans have been filed since the 1st of January, but many of the projects abandoned a year ago are now being put through. Loans have been obtained, at satisfactory figures, for not only all the new work, but for such of last year's filings as are now under way.

These facts are most encouraging for all Brooklyn's interests. They indicate that not only is the building industry reviving, but that there is profit in the business. Builders will not continue to produce houses for the mere purpose of keeping employed, if they cannot sell or rent at paying figures; and if they were content to do so they could not secure the necessary financial accommodations. The facts appear to be plain that Brooklyn real estate is recovering its normal tone; Brooklyn population is resuming its normal growth and Brooklyn's future is more promising than ever.

Some Figures About Building.

COMMISSIONER BUSH'S INTERPRETATION OF THEIR MEANING.

We publish herewith a tabular statement of the records of the Building Department thus far this year, in comparison with those for the corresponding periods of 1893 and 1892, as follows:

The attention of Commissioner Wesley C. Bush was directed to these figures, with a request for his explanation of the reasons for the apparent increase. He said: "These figures show very clearly that people have regained in large measure that confidence in the stability of Brooklyn property, which was so severely shaken a year ago. A year ago people were fearful of an approaching panic—now they feel that the worst is over, and whatever change is to come will be a change for the better. A year ago they couldn't borrow money for building operations under any circumstances; now money can readily be borrowed, and the undertakings that were abandoned last year, together with the new work planned for this year, are now going forward. Besides which, I may be permitted to say, perhaps, that people, regardless of politics, have more confidence in the present administration than they had in the administration of a year ago. Taken all together there is a better time in prospect for Brooklyn real estate."

The amount of the assessment was $55,689.33. All the tax collectors from the other towns made their returns several weeks ago.

A committee consisting of Supervisor Thomas T. Linnekin, ex-Supervisor C. W. Beasley, Excise Commissioner Hacker, Dr. Bodkin and Robert D. Sullivan, called on the Mayor and City Works Commissioner White, on Tuesday last, and asked that De Kalb avenue, from Fulton street to Broadway, be repaved with granite blocks. The commissioner said that he could do nothing for them this year for the reason that all the money available for street repaving at the city's expense was required to meet contracts already made.

* * * *

In speaking of the work of the Board of Estimate the Mayor said: "The budget will be below that of last year by about $470,000, which means a reduction of at least ten mills in the tax rate." In regard to the reports that the departments would be crippled by the large reductions made by the board, the Mayor says that he has been assured by the head of every department that such is not the fact.

MORTGAGES.

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given, and the amount. The general dates used as headings are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage. And for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date. Whenever the rate is not given, read as 6 per cent.

BUILDING MATERIAL MARKET

NEW YORK.

BRICKS.—The market for Common Hards is still unfortunate in developing no changes of a really promising character. There are some who hope that after the "4th" a turn for the better will be found, but during the current week it has been nip and tuck to keep business moving, and the supply looked pretty large to those compelled to hunt up customers. In matter of prices old figures were ruling on the general range, but it is understood that where buyers do not insist upon having the product of some favorite maker, or were in a position to use slightly faulty stock, they could frequently find some moderate favors. Pale brick have not been very plenty but there were quite enough for the demand and outside quotations have been quite difficult to obtain. The average run of quality on all kinds of stock now coming to hand is very fair, but it is expected that within a couple of weeks the production of the stormy-weather period will be ready for market. Opinions differ as to how manufacturers will handle the washed goods, but there is an idea that they will follow a natural policy of keeping the stuff off an already badly-depressed market and carry until business assumes more propitious form. No labor troubles are reported from along the river yards.

CEMENT.—A slow, unsatisfactory trade and weak irregular tone seems to be about the average report on the market for both domestic and foreign. Consumption is generally better than a month ago, but far below a seasonable average, with plenty of sellers for the outlet, and in some instances quite keen competition. Manufacturers of domestic are endeavoring to gauge the supply to the necessities of the market, and with some success, but imports are running pretty full. A great many of the Continental brands, however, it is understood, simply land here on through bills of lading and promptly start forward to the West. Imported cement in Canada are reported about steady and selling fairly to the West.

GLASS.—It is pretty generally understood that with the end of this month those factories not already closed for want of fuel or on account of the heat will blow out and the production cease for the season. That alone forms basis for a pretty good stiff tone, and some encouragement is found in the general prospect for demand. Just at the moment buyers are neither plenty or anxious, but second-hand holding of stocks is small, and it is thought will soon want replenishing. There is some fear of foreign competition under chance of early date for new tariff—if passed—going into effect, but no one is borrowing much trouble at the moment.

LATH.—About the only change since last writing is a further slight modification in the value line. During the interval sales have been made, according to reports, at $1.90 down to $1.75, and $1.80@1.82½ claimed within a day, or with just a possibility that it might be again repeated under special conditions, but at the close $1.75 is the cargo rate and an intimation that even a trifle easier might be accepted. The situation is simply one of big supply with dealers, both in and out of town, well loaded up, and receivers in consequence placed at a decided disadvantage.

LIME.—At the advance advised last week the market remains steady and in a fairly good condition. Demand is not of a character that requires any extra exertion to wait on customers, but with only moderate arrivals receivers manage to find an outlet for the Eastern, and products from other sections are only ordered forward as needed. The Maine kilns, it is said, are burning only moderately and none for New York market, and this is the week when, under the manufacturers' agreement, no shipments are being made.

LUMBER.—In all general particulars we find simply a repetition of the old story. A certain amount of distribution is taking place from some of the yards, but the greater proportion of it goes out simply upon old orders and dealers who report the booking of new trade in satisfactory proportions are the exception. There seems to be stock enough, too, for all current wants, possibly not always at the yard with which buyers have been accustomed to trading, but a little shopping about reveals the desired supply and a new customer is very likely to secure special favors. Some arrivals are taking place, a goodly portion of them in execution of early season engagements, as by repeated advice and the sending in of some unavoidably low returns on previously handled parcels receivers have finally convinced shippers that this is no place for random parcels.

In matter of negotiating on supplies for future delivery there is also light and unimportant trading. Many agents and large buyers are absent on summer pleasure trips, etc., and not likely to return for some time, and, although as we have before advised, there is a tendency to affect an indifference in regard to removal of duty and many of the trade indicate by occasional remarks that awaiting the final outcome of tariff revision does really act as a restraining influence upon negotiations. A great many people, too, are perplexed over the chances for both supply and demand. Some dealers express an idea that just as soon as the market gives evidence of wanting more stock it will be forthcoming in both quantity and assortment with enough competition to keep prices low, and others have a notion that no addition to the consumption of any importance can be calculated upon until it is time to commence next season's work.

One thing that appears promising for the staple grades of coarse lumber is a tendency to erect cheaper houses in this city and signs of slightly reviving interest in suburbbn property. The latter has been brought about by the putting into operation considerable additions to the trolley car systems at low rates of fare which will force the trunk line railways to reduce their local traffic figures in competition and sooner or later create a building boom in many localities that have only been awaiting cheap transportation to develop great improvements in real estate. There are even those who have faith to believe that evidence of coming increased rapid transit facilities to the upper end of the island will be noticeable before another year has passed. The export trade is not a very important factor at the moment, but some of the information at hand leads to hope that foreign orders will be more plentiful before fall.

It is still useless to go into any detailed statements because all grades of lumber show practically the same general features and have only a nominal sort of valuation. Price lists and quotations are given in many cases, but they serve only as a guide to what sellers would like to obtain, because, when it comes right down to actual business, rates are settled upon to suit the deal immediately in hand, with some little variations probably for every transaction.

Hardwoods are in the same general state of quietness as shown on market for coarser woods. Dealers and manufacturers in a number of instances admit that they will have to secure considerable stock for assortment but are in no hurry and prefer postponing treaty for a while. Considerable stuff is passing through for export, including oak, ash, walnut, poplar, hickory, maple, elm, sycamore and basswood, and advices at hand say that selling agents now traveling abroad are hopeful of expanding the orders for American hardwoods.

Mr. H. M. Clarke, Secretary of the Wholesale Lumber Dealers' Association, in a circular issued last Saturday announces that the association has been incorporated under the laws of this State, and the "Bureau of Information" has been organized and will be ready to receive inquiries on and after the 25th inst. Complete reports of the Buffalo meeting will be ready in a few days and a copy will be mailed as soon as possible. The offices at No. 18 Broadway will be opened daily, except Saturdays, from 9 A. M. until 5 P. M. On Saturdays from 9 A. M. until 2 P. M. Visitors will be welcomed and will receive every possible courtesy.

GENERAL LUMBER NOTES.

STATE.

Of the Albany market the Argus says:

Trade continued slow and there are no new features in the market to warrant discussion. The dealers are still looking forward to the settlement of the tariff question, expecting that it will be attended by a resumption of activity in all commercial circles. The proposed changes in the tariff are regarded as of small moment to the local market.

THE WEST.

The Northwestern Lumberman as follows:

A recent feature of the pine trade in the region of the great lakes is the new interest on the part of dealers manifest in the bulk stock market. Beginning with this city as a centre, there has lately been quite an awakening in this particular. Dealers here, within a month, have bought considerable blocks of lumber, and a good many of them. The disposition is to purchase more, and dealers are making frequent pilgrimages to the mills in quest of chances to put in stock. This is a great change from the apathy that was manifest during the spring. The price of piece stuff, or framing dimension, on the cargo market in this city, has advanced 25 cents a thousand, which has tended to stimulate dealers to increased interest in product at the mills; for the advance suggests the probability that the lowest point in values this season has been passed, and that prices are more likely to a further advance than they are to stand still or recede. Hence, dealers are inclined to purchase supplies, so as to be on the safe side of the market, knowing that there is not much probability of purchasing at lower figures. They need lumber for the summer and fall trade, and to keep their yard forces busy. There is also a probability that money will be made in stocking up now, or contracting at present prices for lumber to come forward during the season.

At Saginaw, the rise in the temperature and consequent sudden transition from winter clothing and coal fires to fans and dusters struck lumbermen in this neck o'woods in a heap. Some of them fled to cooler latitudes and the rest have not had much to do but try to keep cool. All around it was a dull week. The boom company is delivering logs, but there are a half a dozen mills idle for various reasons, and this leaves a small army of men out of work. The distress in laboring circles has never been so intense in eastern Michigan as at the present time, and the hundreds of workmen who are idle affect general business. Employers are doing the best they can to keep men at work, but unless trade picks up and lumber moves more freely than it is now doing, it is feared that the army of the unemployed will receive accessions instead of being diminished.

At Chicago:

Piece stuff has scored an advance of price. Short green product is now selling at $9.25 a thousand, a gain of 25c. on prices previously quoted. This advance is the event of the season thus far, because it indicates that the collapse of the market, somewhat expected by the yard dealers, has not come, nor is it likely to, so far as anybody can safely predict. Piece stuff has not been arriving rapidly thus far this season, nor does it appear that there is such a surplus to come as to break down the market. The yard men are beginning to look at the matter in this light, and are taking hold of such piece stuff as comes their way. It is said that the mills are cutting their white pine logs to inch lumber more than last year, and that the piece stuff supply has been reduced to Norway more exclusively than in former seasons, though that has been the tendency for several years.

Slimjims and long wide joists are inquired for more than last month. The commission men have about stopped sweetening their short stuff with long lengths, and now insist on the regular differences in price between short and long. This feature is a decided gain in the market price of common dimension lumber.

Inch stock is holding its own well, with a greater willingness to take hold of it on the part of the yard dealers.

While a number of the larger poplar mills are still in operation, the majority have sawed out their stock of logs and are shut down indefinitely. The aggregate cut so far this season has been much less than was expected, and if the fall demand is anything like normal, a shortage is bound to develop. A slight improvement is noted in inquiries, and upper grades are moving fairly well at slightly under the association list. Trade in lower grades is dull and prices weak.

The Mississippi Valley Lumberman as follows:

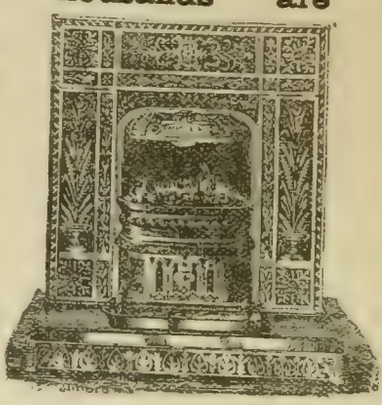
There is evidence that shrewd buyers are coming to the conclusion that the bottom has been about reached in the lumber market and are quietly making purchases here and there, saying little about it for fear of awakening holders of lumber to the fact. If there was to be any brisk demand it would immediately result in an advance in prices and that is what buyers don't want. The conservative buyer knows when to buy and many of them are of the opinion that now is the accepted time.

At the head of the lakes trade is only fair. Out of Lake Superior up to the first of June this year the shipments of lumber by water were largely in excess of last year's shipments for the same period. This is an encouraging item. Duluth trade is rather quiet, although manufacturers there are opening up new eastern markets, one concern shipping considerable to the West Indies, something out of the usual. At other lake points, especially at Menominee, Marinette and Saginaw, where trade has been very dull for some time, there is now a slight improvement noticeable which shows that lumbermen are waking up to the situation and are going to buy at present low prices. Eastern buyers are becoming more numerous at lake manufacturing ports than they were earlier in the season, although in the Saginaw valley not as much is being done as further up the lakes.

NAILS.—It has been a quiet, dragging sort of trade. Actual consumption is fair, but against it the supply has already been secured to a large extent and neither jobbers or retailers are now compelled to call upon first hand accumulations, except for some special lot. Prices are nominally unchanged, but lacking in strength. We quote Cut at $1.00@1.10 per keg for car lots and $1.15@1.25 per keg for parcels from store for iron, and add 3c. per keg for steel; Wire, $1.00@1.15 for car lots, and $1.25@1.35 from store.



PAINTS, OILS, ETC.—So far as demand for immediate supplies is concerned it practically amounts to nothing. Now and then a buyer has been compelled to enter the market after some small parcel of stock to maintain a working assortment, but wherever possible the policy was to postpone negotiation until after the coming holiday at least. For certain lines of thoroughly staple goods, and especially such for which the productive capacity is limited, buyers are entering up their orders for fall delivery, occasionally to about an average extent, but on all articles where there is a possibility of change of duty contracts are drawn subject to variation in tariff. Export orders now and then come in to help the movement of regular shipping assortments, but shippers are not experimenting by sending out new lines of stock. In matter of prices it is the old story of quoting one figure and selling at another the buyer always getting the concession, and on leads the cut is as deep as ever. Corroders' quotations stand as follows: Lead in oil in kegs and dry lead in kegs in lots of less than 500 lbs., 6½c. net; in lots of 500 lbs. to 5 tons at one purchase; 6c.; 5 tons to 12 tons, one purchase, 5.94c.; 12 tons and over, one purchase, 5¾c. Lead in oil in 12½ lb. tin pails, add 1c.; in 25 and 50 lb. tin pails, add ½c., and in 1 to 5 lb. tin cans, assorted (100 lbs. in case) add 2½c. per lb. to keg price. Terms on lots of 500 lbs. and over, note or acceptance at sixty days, or 2½ per cent discount will be allowed for cash paid within fifteen days of invoice date. To make either of the above required quantities any assortment of packages of white lead, red lead and litharge may be counted. The above quotations are free on board cars or boat at corroding point. Linseed Oil finds very good general demand, enough so at least to prevent any annoying accumulations of stock and to give values good general support especially on the best qualities. We quote at 50@52c. for Western, 53@54c. for City from domestic seed and 54@55c. for do. from Calcutta seed. Spirits Turpentine has only moderate uncertain sale, yet the supply is exceedingly small and prices incline to gain strength. We quote at 30½@31½c. per gallon, according to quality, quantity, delivery, etc.

TAR AND PITCH.—A moderate movement has taken place, principally in small jobbing lots, to meet some special want. Sellers met the call readily and were willing to accept former rates. We quote Tar at $1.85@1.90 in pine or Wilmington bbls., $2.50@2.55 in pork bbls., and $3.50@3.55 in oil bbls.; Pitch $1.50@1.70.
